Wreckage Of Bomber Is Found No Present Sign Of Jet's Crewmen

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Search parties battling winds and ice on a towering Adirondack mountain today reached wreckage of an Air Force B47 jet bomber that crashed six days ago.

There was no immediate sign of the bomber's four crewmen.

The parties found pieces of the plane on 5,114-foot Algonquin Peak, less than half a mile from Wright Peak, where a major portion of the plane was sighted from the air Sunday.

Trying Time

"We can hardly stand it with all the ice and wind," Forest Ranger John Hickey of Keene radioed from the mountain.

Hickey had led one of four groups that assaulted the mountains at dawn today from different directions.

The men had snow shoes, plus crampons to wear on the icy peaks.

Clouds Cover Area

Clouds shrouded the mountains and cut visibility to about 1,000 feet, State Police reported. A light rain fell.

The search parties used two-way radios to maintain contact with search headquarters at Adirondack Loj, where Air Force Col. John B. Holst was in charge.

Forest rangers and State Police joined Air Force troops in the search.

Winds, sometimes in 50-mile-an-hour gusts, and deep drifts drove the searchers back last night.

The bomber, based at Plattsburgh Air Force Base, disappeared last Tuesday. It reported by radio at 2 a.m. that it was over Watertown 105 miles west of McIntyre Mountains, of which Wright Mountain is a part.

Mention Possibility

A base spokesman said it was possible the chutes had been ejected and opened when the plane crashed since the chutes (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

North-Central Sector, Hit by Cold and Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bitter cold again blanketed wide sections of the north-central portion of the country today.

At Bozman, Mont., the temperature at 2 a.m. was -40 degrees. Butte, Mont., and Rawlins, Wyo., had -34 and Denver -14.

More snow fell over the northern portions. Some higher elevations reported up to 18 inches of new snow.

Temperatures on the Pacific Coast ranged from the 20s to the 30s in the central and northern portions, and in the 30s and 40s in the south.

In the Southwest, readings were mostly in the 40s and 50s, and from zero upward in the upper Mississippi Valley. In the New England states, temperatures in the teens and 20s; in the 40s and 50s along the southern Atlantic coast and in the 60s and 70s in Florida.

Freezing Rain

Rain and freezing drizzle fell over a band about 200 miles wide from northern Texas northeastward into southern Illinois and Indiana.

A huge mass of snow—estimated at more than 200,000 tons—slid down Colorado's highest mountain Sunday, engulfed four houses and killed at least six persons at Twin Lakes, a central Rocky Mountain village about 140 miles southwest of Denver.

Nearly two inches of rain fell Tuesday Sunday and early today at West Plains, Mo., and .67 at Harrison, Ark.

Portions of California were slowly returning to normal after a rare winter maelstrom of weather.

First Snow in 30 Years

San Francisco had its first measurable snowfall in 30 years, ranging up to three inches. It was the heaviest snowfall since 1887. In the coldest portion of Northern California, the temperature dipped to 15 degrees.

The finals of the Bing Crosby pro-amateur golf tournament on California's Monterey Peninsula, were postponed 24 hours because of snow, rain, sleet and hail.

Heavy fog blanketed sections of Texas Sunday, closing many airports and causing heavy traffic problems. Six deaths were attributed to the weather in traffic accidents. The temperature dropped 30 degrees in three hours early today at Fort Worth.

Two Face Charges In Gun Incident, Surmise Stabbing

An antique revolver, which, as indicated in statements to the police, was not expected to discharge, did so in the midst of a husband-wife quarrel here Saturday night with the bullet grazing the chest of the husband and the incident resulting in charges against both.

Local police today also continued probe of an apparent knife wound suffered by a downtown man in a Canal Street house, LeRoy Williams, 31, of 280 North Street, the reported victim is recovering at Kingston Hospital from a stomach wound, and his condition today was reported fair.

Apparent Dare

The small, .22 calibre antique revolver, owned by Robert Albert Loeffler, 36, of 109 South Manor Avenue, police were told, was discharged by his wife after he had apparently dared her to do so.

The wife, Lillian Loeffler, 36, was charged with second degree assault and with illegal discharge of a firearm in the city, and he was booked on a charge dealing with illegal possession of firearms.

Both Plead Innocent

Both pleaded innocent today before City Judge Joseph D. Saccoman through Attorney Joseph D. Hill and hearing was put over to Jan. 29. Ward Ingalsbe appeared for the district attorney's office. She is under $2,500 bail on the assault charge, and he was released in his own recognizance.

Detectives William Slover and Albert Hutton with Acting Detective Floyd Krom investigated the incident. Officers Frank Stip and Thomas Kearney were also dispatched to the house immediately after the call to police headquarters.

Two Quarrel

Police were told that the two had argued in the afternoon, and another tiff followed at night after he had reportedly stayed too long on a trip to a store. He reported going to the bedroom and mentioned her having said something indicating she wished he were dead.

It was then, police were told, that he went to the closet and got the antique revolver. It was said to be patented in 1846. He said he was on the bed when the revolver discharged and he did not realize at first that the (Continued on Page 6, Col. 4)

President Claims Nation Meets '61 Recovery Aims

Bulgarian Pilot Implies Runaway Try

Italy Makes Strong Protest Over Plane And Power Cameras

BARI, Italy (AP)—Italy strongly protested to Bulgaria the flight of a Communist supersonic jet carrying high-powered cameras over a secret Allied missile base near Bari, and Italian newspapers today raised the cry: "a new U2?"

The young Bulgarian air force pilot, dragged in tears from his wrecked plane, asked not to be turned over to Bulgarian consular officials, implying he was making a break for freedom.

Counter-intelligence agents were skeptical of his story and studied exposed film found in the Soviet-built MIG19. Officials pointed out that if he was defecting, he passed up several chances to land at Italian air fields before his plane crashed.

Two Low Passes

The armed fighter made two low-level passes over the missile base at Gioia del Colle—a new, closely guarded NATO installation—before slamming to the ground in a field Saturday only 2,000 yards from the base.

The Bulgarian consulate in a statement said the pilot, 2nd Lt. Milus Solakov, 22, lost his way on a training flight in fog. It demanded the return of Solakov and the plane. The crash was 400 miles from his base in central Bulgaria.

Premier Amintore Fanfani conferred at length with Foreign Minister Antonio Segni Sunday and then sent a protest to the Bulgarian minister in Rome, Constantine Micev, charging violation of Italian air space.

The young pilot, who suffered only a fractured left arm and scalp wounds was held under heavy guard in a hospital at Acquafredda, a small town 16 miles south of Bari.

Make Comparison

Italian newspapers compared Solakov to American spy pilot Francis Gary Powers whose U2 plane was downed over the Soviet Union in May 1960. That brought an international uproar which Premier Khrushchev used to wreck the Paris summit conference later.

Powers was sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment on spy charges by a Soviet court, and one Rome newspaper urged today that the Italian government be just as severe with Solakov.

Pick Up Flight

Military sources said the missile base's radar picked up a flight of Bulgarian planes—four to eight—swinging in over Italy from across the Adriatic at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Solakov was tracked as he peeled off from the rest and then flashed low—possibly attempting to elude the radar scope—over the Italian countryside.

Existence of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization missile base at Gioia del Colle was barely known outside military circles and newspapers have carried no details about the installation.

Farm Laborer Is Wounded; Other To Face Charges

A 45-year-old Marlboro farm laborer was critically wounded early Sunday, and another laborer was arrested on a first degree assault charge, after a quarrel in a shack on the Nick Affuso farm, Hampton Road, Marlboro.

Highland State Police said Asa Herring was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, after he was shot in the head with a 20-gauge shotgun at about 12:02 a. m. Sunday.

Troopers arrested Alvin Williams, 42, a laborer employed on the Affuso farm, on a first degree assault charge. He was committed to the Ulster County jail, pending further investigation.

A spokesman at St. Luke's Hospital said shortly before noon that Herring's condition was listed as critical.

According to authorities Williams and Herring lived in a shack on the Marlboro farm, and late Saturday night engaged in an argument. Williams, troopers said, fired the shotgun through a hole in a partition and wounded Herring.

Highland troopers and Marlboro authorities investigated.

Woman Prominent in GOP Nationally to Speak Here

The assistant chairman of the Republican National Committee, Mrs. Clare B. Williams of St. Petersburg, Fla., will be the principal speaker at the annual Lincoln Day Dinner, sponsored by the Ulster County Women's Republican Club, it was announced over the weekend. The dinner, scheduled for Monday, Feb. 12 at 7:30 p. m., will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel and tickets are available from all members of the committee, it was announced by the co-chairman of the dinner, Mrs. Walter Caunitz and Mrs. Frederick H. Stang.

Mrs. Raymond LeFever of Bloomington will be toastmaster at the banquet. She also is chairman of the publicity committee. Others assisting in the preparations include: Mrs. David Corwin of New Paltz, publicity; Mrs. Abel Ellsworth, tickets; Mrs. John Salapatis, hostesses; Miss Alice Scardfield, decorations.

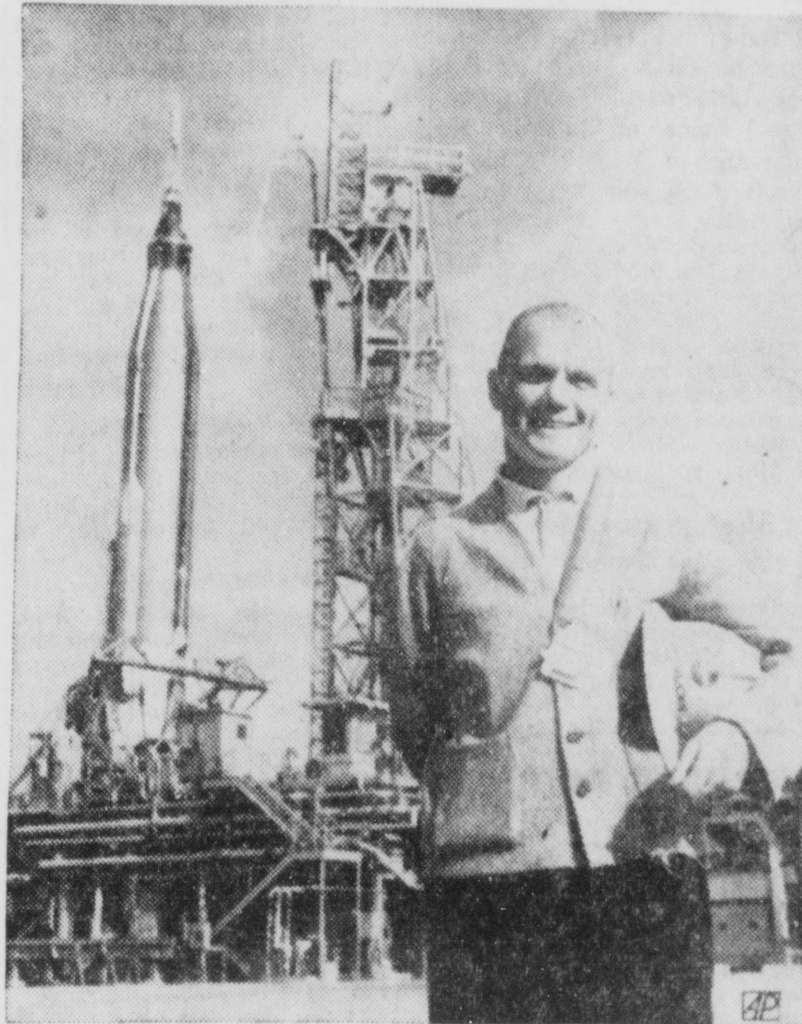

Mrs. Williams, the former Clare Brown, a native of Syracuse and a 1931 graduate of Syracuse University has given from precinct worker to her present post as the nation's top GOP woman official since 1950. She has served under three Republican chairmen.

She was first appointed assistant chairman in 1958 by then chairman, Meade Alcorn. Sen. Thurston Morton re-named her to the post in 1959 and the current chairman, Congressman William Miller of New York, re-appointed her last June.

MRS. CLARE B. WILLIAMS

In May 1959, Mrs. Williams received the George Arents Medal, highest alumni award offered by Syracuse University for "excellence in public affairs." She retired as a teacher and subsequently merchandising executive shortly after her marriage to the late Frank E. Williams, St. Louis, Mo., lawyer. When he retired from practice in 1948 they moved to St. Petersburg, where she resumed an active participation in politics. Her husband died in 1957, but she continued to reside in St. Petersburg. She has been Republican National Committeewoman for Florida since 1956. She was re-elected in 1960.

Entire Control Panel Removed

Spacecraft Troubles Delay Glenn 2nd Time

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)

—United States' plans to send astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., three times around the earth were postponed a second time today, probably until next Saturday.

Reliable sources reported additional days were needed to completely check out faulty oxygen system in the environmental control system. This system, which feeds oxygen to the astronaut's pressurized space suit, developed problems during a checkout early today.

The discovery of the trouble prompted officials to call an immediate 24-hour delay of the shot, pushing it off from Wednesday until Thursday. Later, the sources reported, it was decided to make a complete check to insure all is right for Glenn's safety.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has not announced a definite date for the firing, and therefore declined comment on the report.

The trouble developed in a hard-to-get-at spot in the capsule and the entire control panel had to be removed so technicians could correct it.

This is the fourth postponement of the launching. It originally was set for Dec. 20 when officials felt there was a chance to achieve manned orbit flight in 1961. When this was deemed impossible, the shot was put off until Jan. 16.

Problems with the Atlas booster resulted in another week delay, and minor capsule difficulty could begin legal action to take over properties.

"Any delay between the announcement of the sites and the beginning of actual acquisition could lead to land speculation, Wilson said.

In addition to the Albany appropriation, the budget contains $15 million for highway projects, $4.6 million for snow-and-ice removal, $2.2 million to allow faster processing of applications for grants under the new, scholarship-incentive program of aid to college students and, $1.4 million for state aid to private schools for deaf and blind children.

In other state-government developments:

Final Preparations

News of the postponement came as astronaut Glenn, like a superbly conditioned boxer closing out his training camp, began final preparations for the flight.

He was scheduled to make one more simulated orbit flight in a ground-based capsule and then go into a tapering off period. The final preflight days mostly will be (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

3 Are Drowned As Tug Goes Down In Seneca Lake

GENEVA, N.Y. (AP)—A tugboat carrying 1,600 pounds of cement slabs sank in Seneca Lake Saturday, carrying a diver and two other men on deck to their deaths.

Another diver, Patrick Appello, 36, of Jersey City, N.J., escaped through a cabin window and swam 150 feet to shore. Appello said he was in the cabin removing his diving gear when the boat rocked violently and sank in 20 feet of water.

The victims were Patrick Kennedy, 46, of Springfield, N.J., a skin diver; Roy Dacus, 47, of Irvington, N.J., a crane operator; and Ralph Morocco, 33, of Geneva, a laborer working his first day on the job.

$20 Million Marked for Albany

Action Due on Rockefeller Budget Despite Criticism

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Legislative leaders listed Gov. Rockefeller's $54-million deficiency budget for action in the Senate tonight despite growing criticism that $20 million earmarked for spending in the city of Albany should be used for tax relief or statewide needs.

The $20 million would be used to acquire sites for construction of office buildings in downtown Albany.

Some Upstate Republican lawmakers have complained about spending such a sum in this Democratic stronghold.

Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson, chairman of a state commission mapping ways to improve Albany, requested the money. He said Sunday that the funds were needed immediately so the commission

Recession Defense Is Major Aim

Spells Out Leeway About Tax Cutting

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy reported today the nation met its recovery aims in 1961, is making "another giant stride" toward full employment this year, and can attain a "staggering" $600-billion worth of production in 1963.

The time to erect a defense-in-depth against future recessions is this prospering moment, Kennedy told Congress in his economic report. It was the third and last of the major White House messages to the new session.

Names His Weapons

The antislump weapons needed, he said, are his twin plans—society greeted by most Republican Congress members—for standby presidential powers to cut taxes temporarily and unless federal money for quick-acting public works. Kennedy urged Congress to let him trigger up to $2 billion of lending, spending and matching funds into the works plan when joblessness reaches danger points which he defined.

He also spelled out for the first time how much tax-cutting leeway he wants—enough, he said, to throw $5 billion of new buying power into a faltering economy in six months, or, if extended with Congress' assent, $10 billion in a year.

Smaller Cut for Rich

The cuts he proposed would be up to 5 percentage points in each income tax rate bracket. That would mean a one-fourth tax reduction for the lowest taxpayer group, but considerably less, in proportion, for the higher-income families.

Further, Kennedy said, this Congress should:

Empower him to "negotiate a reduction in the tariff of the European Common Market" with a gradual lowering of U.S. duties.

Lengthen jobless benefits permanently and enroll three million new workers under unemployment insurance.

Enact promptly the pending 8 per cent investment credit for industry.

Other Aims

He also called for repeal of the Silver Purchase Act, aid to education at all levels, health care for the aged, under Social Security, job training for idle youths and job retraining for out-of-work adults.

Giant Snowslide Kills 6 People, Covers 4 Houses

By STEPHEN M. AUG

TWIN LAKES, Colo. (AP) — A giant mass of snow slid down Colorado's highest mountain Sunday, sweeping over four houses, and snuffing out at least six lives.

Officials estimated more than 200,000 tons of snow plunged down the southern slope of 14,341-foot Mount Elbert in a 3½-mile run. It engulfed the western end of Twin Lakes, a central Rocky Mountain village 140 miles southwest of Denver. The avalanche was more than 300 yards wide and 15 feet deep.

One family was wiped out. G. L. Shelton, 50; his wife Marie, 40; their son Steve, 14, and daughters Linda, 9, and Vickie, 8, all perished.

Two Are Rescued

Two persons were rescued from the buried wreckage of their home. William Adamich, 35, and his wife Barbara, 30, were hospitalized in Leadville with frostbite and possible internal injuries. Their son Billy, 8, was found dead. Another son, Michael, 10, was missing.

The other two houses were vacant. About 600 persons worked more than six hours in the frigid mountain air probing the wreckage.

A neighbor, Neils Lindstone, 66, said that when he awoke at 8 a. m. (Continued on Page 6, Col. 4)

Postal Rate Bill Is Set for Final Action Wednesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Major action is scheduled this week on the floor and in committees of both the Senate and the House.

A postal rate bill comes before the House Tuesday with a final vote likely Wednesday. It would add a penny to the cost of mailing a letter.

The postal rate increase measure technically has been on the House docket since last summer. It would add about $550 million to postal revenues. An administration-backed amendment likely to be approved would raise the extra income to $621 million.

Most of the extra revenue would come from a one-cent hike in first class and air mail rates, with lesser amounts from higher rates for second and third class—news-papers, magazines and bulk mail.

The House Ways and Means Committee has started the final round of work on the President's bill to tighten up some taxes and to give business a billion-dollar incentive to modernize. The measure is expected to be ready for a House vote next month.

Meany's View on Unemployment:

Kennedy Barely Touching Basic Problem About Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany said today the Kennedy administration lacks "a sense of urgency" in dealing with the problem posed by the nation's four million unemployed.

Meany opened an AFL-CIO legislative-economic conference attended by 500 union delegates who were to hear also from Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Meany said that while President Kennedy was right, in terms of production and economy growth, in saying recovery is proceeding reasonably well, it is also true that "we have barely touched the basic problem of jobs."

The union leader added in a prepared text: "We have a solemn duty to remind the President—and the Congress—that the recession is not over and done with when four million Americans can't find jobs, when other millions are working only part-time, and when almost a million more who want to work don't even bother to look for the chance."

"The unemployed have become the invisible men in America," Meany continued. "They have become statistics instead of people. I say that's an attitude we simply can't afford."

Meany took pains to say, however, that he considers the President and his administration basically sound although in some areas "we do question their tactics."

The recession-fighting powers Kennedy is requesting for use in future years should be promptly enacted to apply to present conditions, Meany said.

"We need public works," he said, "not for the next recession but for this one. The standby power to cut withholding taxes should be available right now."

Sen. Joseph P. Clark, D-Pa., said in a speech prepared for a conference study session that he, too, feels a public works program should be made effective now without waiting for a future recession.

In another prepared address, Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., called for immediate action to strengthen the permanent unemployment compensation system.

Fair Dates Set, Officers Elected By Farm Society

C. Chester DuMont Jr., of Ulster Park was re-elected president of the Ulster County Agricultural Society at its annual meeting Friday afternoon. The society sponsors the Ulster County Fair each year.

Edmund R. Bower, retiring as Ulster County 4-H Club Agent next week, was elected as a director of the fair to fill the place vacated by Ray A. Elmen-dorf. Other directors re-elected for a term of three years were Mrs. William E. Powers, Pratt Boice, Robert Coy, Raymond V. O. DuBois and Albert Kurdt.

Other officers elected for 1962 were Harry J. Beatty and Bower, vice presidents, Pratt Boice, treasurer and Albert Kurdt, secretary.

The dates of Aug. 15 and 16 were chosen for the 1962 County Fair at Forsyth Park. The next meeting of fair officers and department superintendents will take place early in March at which the premium list for the 1962 fair will be revised and approved. In 1961, $9,310.75 were paid out to individual competitive exhibitors in the 10 departments of the fair.

Hornell Man Heads Highway Engineers

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Robert Andrews of Hornell today was elected president of the New York State Association of Highway Engineers.

Andrews succeeds Donald Mulaney of Albany.

Other officers chosen at a meeting of association directors: Merrill Rightmeyer of Syracuse, vice president; Russell Lewis of Rochester, secretary, and Edward Pitel of Binghamton, treasurer.

The three-day meeting ends Tuesday.

Paintings on Display

Members of the Ulster County Art Association are currently exhibiting paintings in the Stuyvesant Hotel at the invitation of the management.

The group has been exhibiting for several years at Leher's Restaurant, Boulevard, and will continue to display paintings there. With the funds realized from commissions on sale of paintings, the association hopes to build a scholarship fund for art student graduates from local high schools.

Former Monarch Weds

VEVEY, Switzerland (AP)—Ex-King Simeon II of Bulgaria and Margarita Gomez Aceb y Ceuja, 27, a Spanish aristocrat, were married Sunday in Vevey's Russian Orthodox church.

Sentence Suspended

Gilbert Pigeon, 27, of Hewitt Place, charged with third degree assault, early today by his wife, Patricia, was given a suspended sentence of 30 days in jail in city court. A police report early today also noted that a car driven by Pigeon had collided with the parked car of Leon C. Miller, of 171 Main Street, near that address. Pigeon said he had been forced to the right by another car. Officers Gerald Every and Thomas Kearney, investigated.

Explosion Rocks French Ministry; One Person Dies

PARIS (AP) — A heavy explosion jolted the French Foreign Ministry today, killing one person and wounding several. Hundreds of windows were shattered and a section of wall torn out.

A foreign ministry spokesman said the explosion apparently came from a booby-trapped automobile. He said the car snapped in half and set afire several vehicles parked in the courtyard near it.

Hot Ashes Cause Damage at Glenier

Fire believed caused by hot ashes, damaged the front porch of the home of Ludwig M. Heidemann of Wildwood Lane, Glenier Park shortly after 11 a. m. today.

According to Ulster Hose Company No. 5 officials it is believed that hot ashes taken outside and accidentally dropped on the porch caused it to become ignited. The heat of the blaze smashed a large picture-window in the front room. Damage was not heavy according to a Ulster Hose spokesman.

Magistrates Meet

The regular monthly meeting of the Ulster County Magistrates Association will be held at the supervisors' rooms, Ulster County Court House, 8 p. m., Thursday. Officers for 1962 will be elected.

Wreckage Found

were so close to the wing section. The Army pilot reported he was unable to find any other wreckage. It appeared that none of the trees was knocked down, the spokesman quoted the pilot as saying.

Crewmen aboard the Strategic Air Command jet were: 1st Lt. Rodney D. Bloomgren, 26, of Jamestown, N.Y., the plane commander; Melvin Spencer, 28, Tuscaloosa, Ala., and Albert W. Kandeltski Jr., 25, Sunnyvale, Calif., and Airman I.C. Kenneth R. Jensen, El Cajon, Calif.

President Claims

recovery will not be nipped off prematurely—as he said that of 1959 was—a tight-money policy.

The outlook for stable living costs is favorable, he assured Congress, if unions and industry will show statesmanlike restraint in pay settlements to avoid a spiral of wage and price advance.

The President said the country has achieved the immediate aims he set a year ago—to "recover not from one but from two recessions"—by starting the economy uphill and reducing joblessness while keeping price stability. "Confidence in the dollar has been restored," he said.

Predicts $50 Billion

This year national output should rise about $50 billion above the $321 billion of 1961, he predicted, adding: "This would be another giant stride toward a fully employed economy."

Kennedy disclosed he would have asked a tax increase to cover the steep rise in spending necessitated by last spring's Berlin crisis if the economy had been in better shape.

For the first time since the Truman administration, the annual economic message specified goals which, in the President's opinion, would accomplish the intent of the Employment Act of 1946. That law committed the government to policies which would maintain "maximum employment, production and purchasing power."

Urgent Tone

Any doubts that Kennedy means business about his antirecession program were dispelled by the serious and urgent tone of the message. On the tax-cutting, the pump priming and jobless pay proposals he said: "They will constitute the greatest step forward in public policy for economic stability since the (employment) act itself."

The prime goal for 1963 is a 4 per cent unemployment rate, Kennedy said. He called this a "temporary target," one-third below the present 6.1 per cent rate of joblessness.

Outlines Prosperity

With it, the President said, would come these record-breaking dollar measurements of prosperity:

Sixty billion dollars of before-tax business profits, as against $46 billion last year and a hoped-for $56 billion this year.

Some $320 billion in wages and salaries, against $280 billion in 1961.

About $600 billion worth of output of goods and services, far above last year's $521 billion and this year's anticipated $565 billion to $570 billion.

Kennedy stressed that while "the material gains are themselves staggering," as blueprinted by his report, his goal for unemployment—down to 5 per cent by the end of this year, 4 per cent by mid-1963—were not the final objectives.

"We cannot afford to settle for any prescribed level of unemployment," the message said.

He replied to the outcry already raised in Congress by the first mention of his standby tax and public work proposals in the State of the Union message. The revenue loss would be smaller than what a recession costs in pay and production losses and shrunken tax collections, he said. And Congress would write into the law the safeguards to protect its taxing power, he argued.

Temporary, He Says

"I am not asking Congress to delegate its power to levy taxes," Kennedy added, "but to authorize a temporary and emergency suspension of taxes by the President

Second Man Is Found Dead at West Shore Hotel

A second man within two days was found dead at the West Shore Hotel, Railroad Avenue, Saturday afternoon.

Police were notified at 2:07 p. m. that William Grimm, 59, was found dead in a room there.

An investigation was made by Sgt. Bernard Fowler, Detective Charles McCullough with officers Gera'l Every and Edward Edwards, and by Coroner Michael A. Galletta, who ordered an autopsy, the full results of which, he said today, will not be known for a week or 10 days because of tests to be made in Albany.

Police said the man was found dead in the room by Mrs. James Taylor, wife of the operator of the hotel.

The funeral, with arrangements by the W. N. Connor Funeral Home, Inc., 296 Fair Street, will be held Tuesday at 10 a. m. Burial will be in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

Three sisters, Mrs. Edward Shaver, of Kingston; Mrs. Clarence Bonesteel, of Cobleskill; and Mrs. John Dermody, Kingston, a brother, Clarence Grimm, of Kingston and several nieces and nephews survive. Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p. m. today.

Coroner Francis J. McCord gave a verdict of suicide after Frederick Weber, 67, an unemployed baker, was found dead in a room at the hotel Friday afternoon. The coroner said he had poisoned himself with Paris green.

—subject to the checkrein of Congressional veto—in situations where time is of the essence.

The tax cut "would remain in effect six months, subject to revision or renewal by the same process"—that is, by presidential action, subject to veto—"or extension by a joint resolution of Congress."

In equivalent detail Kennedy spelled out his request for power to "accelerate and initiate" up to $2 billion of works projects when unemployment is rising.

The President could act, under this plan, within two months after the unemployment rate (1) had risen in at least three out of four months and (2) had risen at least 1 percentage point higher than its level four months earlier. These time periods could be lengthened if Congress preferred, the message indicated.

Before taking action, the President would have to make a finding that "current and prospective economic developments" required such measures, under the Employment Act.

His proposals for bolstering jobless pay were familiar in the main, having been laid before Congress last year and modeled after the temporary measures taken by Congress in the last two recessions.

Kennedy suggested "incentives" for the states to improve their jobless benefits, so that most idle workers would receive at least half their average weekly wage.

Kennedy suggested that Congress "will wish to examine carefully" proposals for removal of the ceiling on the federal debt and the 4 1/2 per cent ceiling on the interest rates on Treasury bonds. But he did not directly ask their removal.

However, in his budget message Kennedy asked that the "temporary" debt ceiling be boosted to $308 billion. The debt now is pushing against the present limit of $298 billion.

Spacecraft Troubles Delay Glenn taken up with medical checks, a final briefing, running on the beach to stay in shape and, inexorably, waiting.

60 Theoretical Flights

In the past three weeks, he has flown 60 theoretical flights, rehearsing every possibility that could be rehearsed, and in the process has landed in the Atlantic, Indian and Pacific Oceans, (hypothetically, that is.)

He has trained intensively but after today's simulated orbit will go into a tapering-off period, lest he leave his flight in the dressing room. Today and Tuesday mostly will be taken up with last medical checks, a last preflight briefing, running on the beach to stay in shape and, inexorably, waiting.

"He feels pretty confident, calm and collected," reported Dr. Robert Voas, psychologist and one of the astronaut's training officers. "I'm sure there has been some increase in tension—you can't approach a great adventure like this without some of that. But he feels well prepared. He wants to get going."

"He continues to be fascinated by what he will see over the earth. He looks forward to this not only as a great adventure but a great voyage of discovery and he doesn't want to miss a thing about the stars or the land masses or cloud conditions or other factors that could be of value to scientific knowledge."

Along with intensive physical examinations in the last two days, Lt. Col. Glenn, Marine Corps, will be interviewed by a psychiatrist and put through a battery of psychological tests to evaluate his emotional level before takeoff into space.

Most of the tests are simple, the kind a job applicant might have to take in the personnel office of any progressive industry.

On the last Sunday before his scheduled shot, Glenn gave little indication of tension. He attended the Riverside Presbyterian church in Cocoa Beach, prayed, joined the hymn-singing in a sturdy tenor, signed autographs for Sunday School kids and generally acted like a man who wasn't going anywhere more dangerous than a desk in a business office.

Jammed in Space Ship Glenn Must Watch 164 Instruments

By BEM PRICE
CAPE CANAVERAL, FL. (AP) — When astronaut John Herschel Glenn Jr. takes his trip through the dark of space he will travel capsule class.

It's an expensive way to travel, though the quarters are cramped. His new space ship, built by the McDonnell Aircraft Corp. of St. Louis, cost $5 million. Glenn is scheduled to make the trip around the world strapped to a special rubber-padded fiberglass couch especially contoured to fit his 165-pound frame.

On his journey the native of New Concord, Ohio, will scarcely have elbow room since his bell-shaped sky cabin is only six feet in diameter across its base and stands nine feet high.

Space Capsule Jammed
At lift-off the whole thing will weigh 4,200 pounds. As it travels along it will jettison equipment no longer needed and when it is once more upon the earth, it will weigh 2,400 pounds.

Lt. Col. Glenn of the Marine Corps is going to be a busy man. His capsule is jammed with 164 instruments, lights and switches. He will have to keep a sharp eye on all of them, even with the aid of mirrors strapped to his wrists. All these gadgets can be operated from the ground or manually by Glenn.

There is a 165th switch which only Glenn can operate. Until he closes that particular switch, the Atlas booster destined to lift him skyward cannot be lit. This is known to the astronauts as the "chicken switch."

Uses 18 Small Jets
Glenn will be launched into orbit with the small end of the capsule pointed forward. Once in orbit, Glenn will swing his capsule through a 180-degree arc, using 18 small jets loaded with high-pressure hydrogen peroxide.

He will also swing his capsule around from time to time, while passing across the night-shaded part of the earth to take a look at the stars. The time for each of the three planned orbits of the globe will be about 90 minutes.

In brief, Glenn will spend most of his trip looking toward where he has been instead of where he is going.

Will Use Periscope
Glenn will be able to see the earth and stars through a "picture window" measuring 11 inches across the base and seven inches across the top. It is 19 inches high.

He will also have a periscope with which he can sweep the horizon in a 360-degree arc and a picture will appear on his screen before his face.

Should something go wrong on the flight, a red light will appear on the instrument panel directly to his front and a buzzer will insistently claim his attention.

There are some 20 things Glenn can do to save his life at various points along his route. These life-saving devices can be activated from six of 18 ground tracking stations.

Speed Will Decrease
Once into orbit, Glenn is pretty safe, though his life support system must work perfectly. The capsule has two which can provide enough oxygen for 28 hours.

When the time comes to land, Glenn will fire a package of braking rockets attached to the blunt end of the capsule. His speed will drop from 17,500 miles per hour to 250 miles per hour in less than five minutes.

After the braking rockets fire, they, too, are jettisoned. At 21,000 feet a small parachute is deployed to slow the space craft even more.

At 10,000 feet, the 63-foot diameter main chute opens automatically (there are two in case one rips). If it doesn't work automatically Glenn can pop it out with a hand switch.

Upon touchdown a small radio begins sending out a signal for the recovery ships to home upon. There is a small auxiliary unit in the cabin which Glenn can use in event the automatic device fails.

If the capsule should spring a leak from the landing impact, Glenn can escape into the sea through a hatch in the neck of the craft.

Upstate Officials Act to Keep Firm At Present Plant

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Mayor Frank M. Dulan faced today the task of convincing the Kelsey-Hayes Co. that it should keep its Utica Drop Forge Division in suburban Yorkville instead of shifting operations to South Carolina. The plant has 400 employees.

He called a meeting of representatives of management, labor and civic officials to discuss the company's announcement that the operations would be moved, beginning next month, to Orangeburg, S.C.

In his announcement, W. Mason Williams, vice president and general manager of the division, said last Friday the decision to move South stemmed partly from a union refusal to take a pay cut, reportedly as much as 50 cents an hour. Another factor in the decision, he said, was the "economic condition" in Yorkville.

Neither Gov. Rockefeller nor the National Labor Relations Board was involved in the case, spokesmen for the governor and the NLRB said Sunday night.

A company spokesman has said wage scales at the Yorkville plant exceeded $3 an hour "while our competitors are paying $2.50 an hour."

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The problem of live television was graphically illustrated Sunday on ABC. The network had reserved 90 minutes for the windup of Bing Crosby's annual Pebble Beach golf tournament. When the hour came, the weather—which also plagued last year's final—was putting on such a show of its own that after about a half-hour play was postponed until today. A film account of last year's British Open was substituted and all California climate braggers were silenced.

This reporter missed all the shots of snow, hail and sleet in sunny California because of a conflict in programs. NBC, at the time, was broadcasting a taped dramatization of a novel by Arthur Miller, "Focus."

Miller, of course, is the famous playwright. Obviously, if he believed "Focus" was the stuff that plays are made from, he would have written it as one. His story was transformed into a morality play, emotional and passionate. Although it was well-intentioned, it was a most uneven, unbalanced dramatic show.

"Focus" was the story of a fiercely anti-Semitic couple, acted by James Whitmore and Colleen Dewhurst, who themselves are suspected of being Jewish. A group of Nazi-type bullies tries to

Furnishing More Jobs Important, Hanover Declares

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The president of the state AFL-CIO said today that increasing the number of job opportunities was a more important goal for the 1960s than vocational training.

Harold C. Hanover, in a speech prepared for the annual State Legislative Institute of the National Council of Jewish Women, said "helping youth to acquire and improve skills will mean nothing unless they can find jobs."

Gov. Rockefeller announced a program for vocational training of young people and for the unemployed.

But Hanover said these efforts would not solve what he called the fundamental economic problem of stagnation and recession of recent years.

"A comprehensive program of economic and social reform, including tax cuts, increases in public works, better social security, federal aid to education and improved monetary and fiscal policies are essential," he said. "to wipe out large-scale unemployment...and satisfy our needs for skilled manpower."

Father Brennan Dies
ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — The Rev. Gerald T. Brennan, a Roman Catholic parish priest whose books for children sold more than 500,000 copies, died of cancer Saturday in St. Mary's Hospital. He was 63.

Father Brennan, pastor emeritus of St. Bridget's Church, wrote a dozen children's books between 1938 and 1958.

Parley Is Slated In Church Merger

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP) — The author of a plan to merge four major Protestant denominations with a combined membership of 19 million says he is optimistic about merger talks scheduled to begin in Washington April 4.

But, added the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, "we can't tell how far the talks will go."

Dr. Blake, stated clerk of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., originated the plan to combine his church with the Episcopal, Methodist and United Church of Christ churches.

"We've said that a 10-year period leading to the merger would be awfully good, and that appears to be the timetable," Dr. Blake said.

Worker Is Held In Man's Death

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Police today questioned a 23-year-old sanitation worker in the strangling last November of Samuel Yochelson, a door-to-door salesman.

Willis Bryant, a husky 230-pounder who lived in the neighborhood where Yochelson was last seen, had been the object of a two-day search, authorities said. Bryant called police Sunday and was arrested at the home of a relative.

The body of Yochelson, 46, was found in his parked car. Police believe he was robbed of more than $200 and dumped in the car.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JANUARY 22, 1962

GLIDING UP-TO-DATE

Ever since man first noticed birds, he has tried to imitate them. One of the first recorded attempts at human flight is told in the Greek tale of Icarus. His father Daedalus made Icarus a pair of wings, fastened on by wax. They worked until Icarus flew too high, when the wax was melted by the sun. In mythical form this story seems to describe an early attempt at gliding. That has repeatedly been tried, jumping from hills in a high wind. These efforts to glide did not succeed particularly well, but that did not cramp human ambitions to emulate the birds. British aeronauts are even now trying their luck, aided by money grants from the Royal Aeronautical Society.

Two years ago a London manufacturer named Henry Kremer offered a $14,000 prize. The winner must lift himself and his flying apparatus off the ground, fly in a figure-eight pattern around points half a mile apart, and at all times keep at least 10 feet off the ground. No one has as yet claimed the reward.

In 1935 a German flew or glided for 257 yards, and two years later an Italian achieved 980 yards. Both adventurers were launched by catapults. In the British case the problem is made harder by the necessity of lifting not only the man off the ground but his vehicle also. This must be heavier than air, no inflated wing planes or semi-balloons being accepted.

If some contrivance could create flight by wings alone, it would dispense with the problems of maneuvering a plane. That might be the solution for the man who wants to fly to work and back. Anyone have any ideas?

DEBATABLE DEBATE

President Kennedy appears to be throwing increased White House weight behind the idea of extending formal political debates from the presidential down to the mayoral level in future U.S. election campaigns.

Twice in recent weeks this notion has been encouraged, and evidently the President intends to push it hard.

One of his top political advisers has said that Kennedy's 1961 dip into the New Jersey governorship campaign was effective mainly because he fingered the Republican nominee's refusal to debate his winning Democratic opponent.

However that may be, it seems plain that hand-to-hand debates will loom larger in political combat from now on.

The President long ago signified his willingness to debate his 1954 Republican opponent. If such a confrontation comes about, the precedent for continuing the practice will be strong.

White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said in a recent speech that major candidates for office at all levels owe it to the voters to submit their views to the debating test.

Some observers raise the question, however, whether a widened emphasis on debate may not give voters a distorted, or at least incomplete view of many candidates.

The Salinger reply is that a candidate has to be "much more than a good debater" to impress the public in such encounters, especially if they occur under the gaze of television cameras.

This may be true enough. But it may also be true that a man who comes off as a very poor debater may have a difficult if not impossible time getting across any compensating characteristics of importance in the office he seeks.

There is another matter. Politicians being of all types and temperaments, they will not easily submit, in many cases, to the formal rules which debate demands.

Some past efforts were debates in name only, slipping quickly into old-fashioned political harangues. In other cases, though the rules were followed, the net result was empty, wooden and dull.

Furthermore, even at their best, political debates leave the listening voters with one almost insurmountable handicap: they have no fool-proof way of determining the

THE RADICAL RIGHT

Everybody who can read is an expert about something; whoever can write regards himself as an outstanding authority. In fact, when it comes to Russia and Communism, the experts and authorities grow so numerous that one wonders whether there is any literate person who did not ghost-write for Lenin and Stalin!

However, there are a few who do know what they are talking about. They have a long background; they can read in languages other than English; they have a clear knowledge of terminology; they are of sufficient stature not to be inclined to bluff. Among those whose judgement as well as knowledge is to be relied upon is Eugene Lyons, a senior editor of the "Reader's Digest." Such a movement as Communism has much to do with words and ideas and Lyons has had at least 40 years of intimate knowledge of this movement both in Russia and the United States. He has never been tempted to opportunity.

The new-come to a world-wide revolutionary movement is usually astounded by what he finds and having a naive background becomes absorbed by emotionalism. The Communist movement has not conquered so large a part of the Earth without a purpose, a plan, a method of operation. Excitement is no answer. What is required is cold study of problems. Those who rush into efforts, without knowledge or background but with enthusiasm and excitement, usually are so ridiculous that they assist the Communists and their allies to make headway.

Eugene Lyons has written an article for the "New Guard," the publication of the "Young Americans for Freedom" on the subject of "Anti-Communism and the Radical Right" which is thoughtful and significant and which separates his expert thinking from the nonsense of those who raise huge sums of money to fight Communism without knowing what it is and how it is to be fought. Lyons cites an example of the absurdities that develop among those who speak without study.

Recently I heard a local Louisiana politician, on TV, inveigh against integration by Federal edict. Right or wrong, that was his privilege. But when he went on to denounce the whole business as a Moscow-engineered plot, he was indulging in crude and dangerous demagoguery. The fact that the Communists seek to exploit any difficulties in free countries, including racial conflicts, does not make them the authors of every crisis.

The "Extreme Right" is, of course, necessarily anti-Communist. It may also be serving some cause which could be subversive. It is necessary to analyze purposes and statements. When, for instance, it is discovered that the language of a "Rights" organization is anti-Semitic, or anti-Negro or anti-labor union it is necessary to discover which is the motivating force, opposition to Communism or opposition to something else. And it must be discovered whether this is an idealistic cause or a money-making proposition. Those who accept money from one group to give the impression that they favor another cause, are wreckers who cannot be trusted and should be exposed.

Lyons says: "Conservatism includes anti-Communism, but anti-Communism decidedly does not include conservatism. It's in a different frame of reference. Our purpose, it seems to me, should be to enlist all genuine enemies of communism in the common cause, however they may disagree on other matters."

But no movement can accept those who join a cause for no other purpose than to earn a living thereby. It was a trick of the Communists in the 1930's to get jobs for those who were willing to associate with them. John Garfield once told me that the first step on the ladder of success for him in Hollywood was to be invited to dinner with Charlie Chaplin. But that ought not to be enough. One ought to believe sincerely in a creed or oppose it sincerely and the first evidence of sincerity is the effort to be knowledgeable.

In this country, back in the 1920's and 1930's there was a group of anti-Communists, among them conservatives and liberals, Republicans and Democrats, Jews and Christians who took the unpopular stand and were plagued for their effort. They fought hard and at great sacrifice. Eugene Lyons was one of them. A younger generation which is being led astray by emotional opportunists and money-grubbers would be wise to read Lyons's article and take guidance which comes from experience and wisdom.

Shun Toys Which Have Built-In Accident Potential

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Useful advice about children's toys has been issued by the Accident Prevention Committee of the American Academy of Pediatrics.

Alarmed by the increasing numbers of accidental injuries, diseases and deaths due to mis-handling of toys, members have addressed themselves to importers and manufacturers of playthings as well as to parents and gift-givers. Here, in summary, are some of their suggestions for reducing childhood injuries and disabilities to an absolute minimum:

Don't buy a toy made with flammable material.

Don't give a child a toy made of lead or painted with a lead paint.

Don't choose a toy that is so flimsily put together it will fall apart the first time the child flings it to the ground.

Don't permit the child to play with a toy that has sharp edges that may gash the skin; so small it can be swallowed or, what is so much worse, get stuck in a youngster's windpipe. Or one that is made with small parts or that is fastened with screws that can be swallowed or inhaled.

Don't let the older child who has been given a model set that's stuck together with plastic cement play with the set in an overheated, underventilated room. He may suffer from fume inhalations.

Don't let the younger child mess around with toys that are of sufficiently small size to be poked into nose, ears or other body cavities. Or with toys whose stuffings can be pulled out and then inserted.

Don't give a heavy iron toy that the child might bang on its head or drop on its toes.

If you buy a cuddly toy, choose one made of orlon or terry cloth (nonallergic)—one that is tough rubber. If possible, get one that has a zipper so you can remove the stuffing when the outside is washed or sterilized.

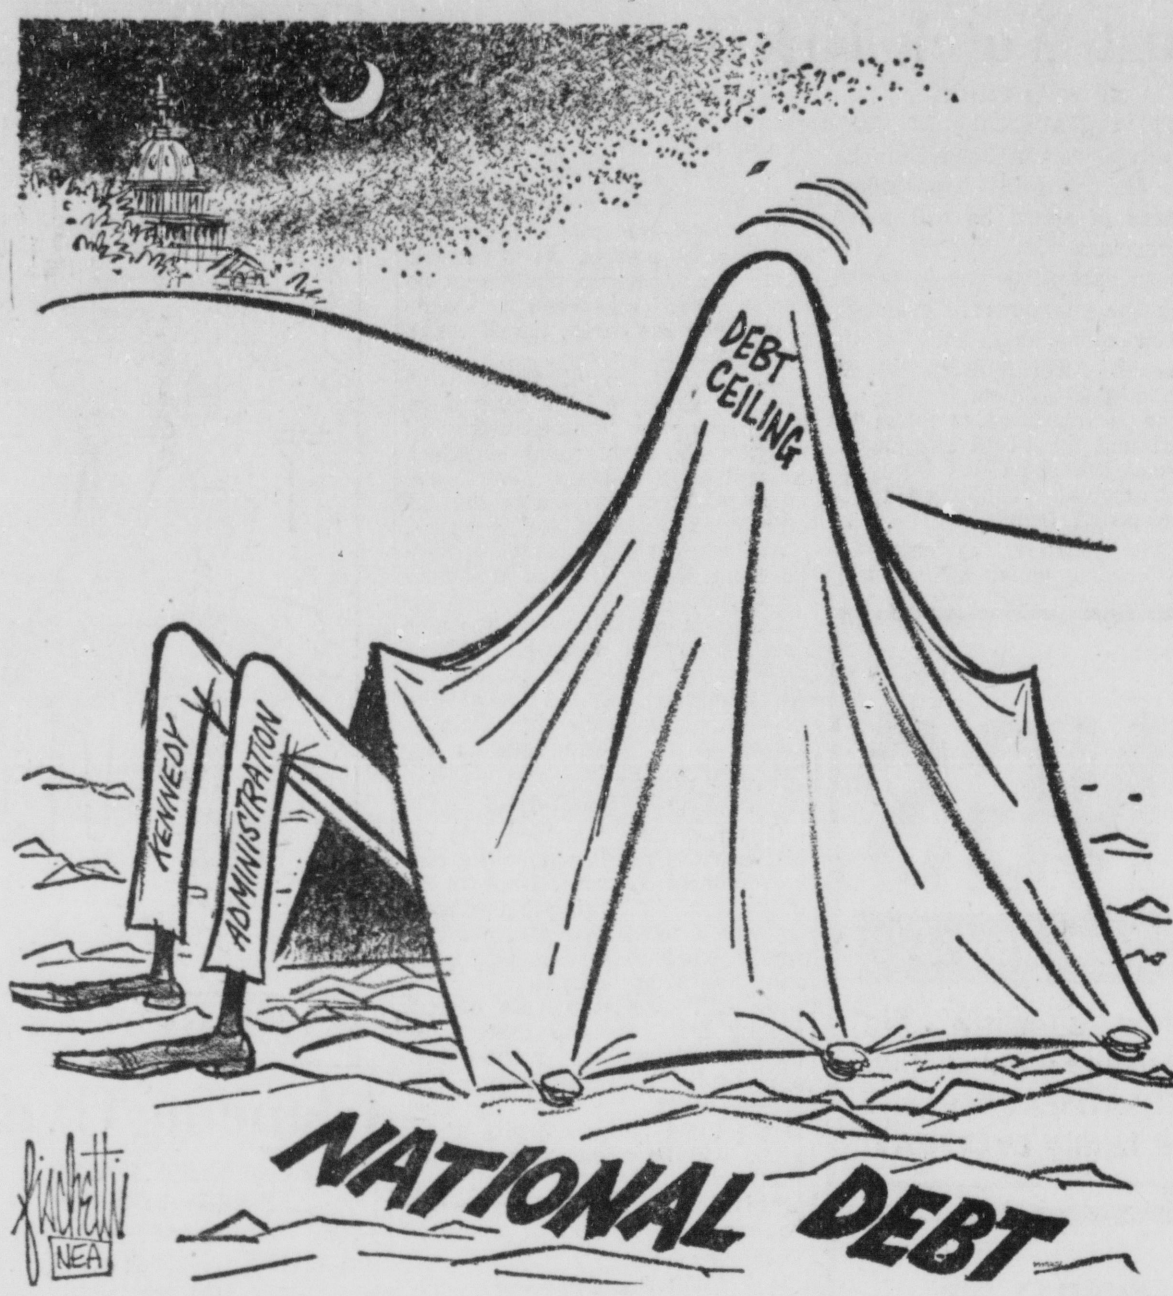

And, last but far from least, teach the child to put toys away before he turns in for the night. You may save yourself or someone else in the house from a sprained ankle, a broken bone or a bump on the head.

truth, if any, in the rapid crossfire of claim and counterclaim which marks such combat.

So, valuable as the debate can be in helping measure candidates, it is far from being the perfect answer to the voter's dream.

Washington News

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — President Kennedy's new budget message makes more optimistic reading than most bad news about big bills. It is almost too good to be believable. It is a kind of "don't worry" budget. It doesn't ask for sacrifices from anybody.

No economic recession is expected for the period of the budget, which runs to June 30, 1963.

THE BUDGET WILL BE BALANCED three ways and you can take your pick. An administrative budget surplus of $500 million is promised, or a consolidated cash budget surplus of $1.8 billion, or a national income account surplus of $4.4 billion for the federal sector.

Federal expenditures are going up to a record peacetime high of $92.5 billion, $3.4 billion higher than for the present fiscal year. But this is going to be offset by increases in tax receipts from continued economic growth.

The national debt is expected to go up another $10 billion to $295 billion this year, but it will come down next year, the message says. Charts accompanying the text would have you believe that the national debt is nothing to get alarmed about anyway.

BUDGET EXPENDITURES as a per cent of the gross national product have been going down gradually since 1952 — with the exception of the 1959 recession bump. And national debt as a per cent of the gross national product has been declining from the 130 per cent peak of 1946 to only 50 per cent now.

The only government expenditures which the President says will come down are for agricultural programs, the postal deficit and temporary unemployment insurance. Congress can cut of course block all three of these cuts.

Items on which government expenditures are going to go up, as listed by the President, are far more numerous. National defense expenditures—to which no one will object—go up by $1.5 billion. This includes the new Civil Defense shelter program to cost $700 million.

Space research and exploration go up $900 million. Expenditures for conservation and national resources will go to a record high of $2.3 billion. This will include 43 new water resource projects to cost $600 million.

THERE WILL BE increased expenditures for redevelopment of depressed areas and an expanded training program for unemployed workers in those and other areas.

Health, education and welfare expenditures will go up $800 million if the present fiscal year's pass. Substantial increases in public assistance are proposed.

Practically all military and civilian government employees are promised pay raises beginning Jan. 1, 1963, with the higher brass getting the biggest raises, of course.

All these things are supposed to be covered by the expected increase of $11 billion in tax collections. The President anticipates they might go still higher, creating an even larger budget surplus, which would be ducky.

BUT IF, ON THE OTHER HAND, says the message, "the economic recovery unexpectedly halts or is reversed, revenues would fall below the current estimates and a deficit would inevitably result, moderating the economic slowdown."

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Jan. 21, 1942—Some 100 trappers brought in 2,237 pelts at the annual Pheoncia auction at the Empire State Trappers Cooperative Association.

The local Service Employees Association held its first regular monthly meeting.

Jan. 22, 1942—The local draft board listed 155 names in the 1-A classified.

Mrs. Emma Coykendall, widow of George Coykendall, died at her West Chestnut Street home.

Jan. 21, 1952—The Shriners

Ball for the benefit of the Children's Home was held at the Municipal Auditorium.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk planned a special Common Council meeting to discuss housing for veterans.

Jan. 22, 1952—Area state police set up road blocks after a robbery involving $600 to $700 at a Highland diner.

An Albany report indicated plans for a commission to study a proposed statewide water distribution system.

This is a new definition for a budget deficit. It's something that moderates an economic slowdown.

This is where the President's new tax programs would presumably come to the rescue. All he asks for is power to initiate new public works programs and cut personal income taxes—subject to a Congressional veto.

The authority asked for in these proposals is unprecedented. Opposition will probably be stronger against them than any other parts of the administration program.

So They Say..

It is the proper and historic role of the state, in our federal system, to be a leader and an innovator. The role of the state is not negative—as a simple counterweight to federal power. It is positive—to provide leadership, inventive and imaginative enough to stir others to follow.

—New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Peaceful coexistence of states with differing social systems has never meant and will never mean the peaceful coexistence of differing ideologies—the socialist and the capitalist. The relentless class struggle has always been waged and will continue.

Kennedy's Success in Poll: How and Why of the Rating

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The latest Gallup Poll is the talk of the town. It isn't merely because the rating at the end of the first twelve months is higher for President Kennedy than it was for the last three Presidents after their first year but because of a peculiar emergence of what was referred to as a religious factor in the last campaign.

For the poll shows that 88 per cent of the Catholics manifested approval as contrasted with 73 per cent of the Protestants.

Just why Catholics should differ from Protestants in their appraisal after the first year of a President who happens to be a Catholic is not explained, especially since it has been taken for granted recently in political circles that Mr. Kennedy had alienated many of his supporters among Catholics because of his adamant opposition to Federal aid to private or parochial schools.

Perhaps the key is to be found in a natural pride among Catholics that President Kennedy has shown himself to be a man of sincerity and earnest application to duty, and indeed this is doubtless one reason why among all voters he has attained a high rating in the Gallup Poll.

An Example
Thus, for instance, the poll shows that while 87 per cent of the Democrats expressed a favorable opinion of Mr. Kennedy, as many as 58 per cent of the Republicans and 75 per cent of the independents did likewise.

The question posed in the poll was: "Do you approve or disapprove of the way Kennedy is handling his job as President?" Many people who would say "yes" in answer might say the opposite if asked specifically whether in an election held right now they would cast their ballot for him. There's quite a difference between applauding a man's conscientious effort to perform the duties of the Presidential office and passing judgment on the specific steps a President has taken in domestic and international policy.

On the whole, as the citizen answers the Gallup Poll's question, he would be likely to give Mr. Kennedy an "A" for effort. The "way he has handled his job" could mean the image that the public has obtained of an earnest young man, anxious to learn while beset with a multitude of nerve-racking problems.

Internationally speaking, for example, Mr. Kennedy has certainly maintained the basic principles of American foreign policy, though it remains to be seen how he will eventually deal with the Cuban problem.

No Appraisal Yet

On domestic issues, Mr. Kennedy has hardly had a chance yet to mark out his course. Many of the recommendations he has made are subject to criticism, but the public generally is not aware of the pitfalls of his economic policies. They will be only if such policies bring on another recession and more unemployment.

For years I have intended to write Congressman Barrett O'Hara, of Chicago, if only to stir some embers of his memory and mine, but incidentally to reconcile some conflicts of trivial historical fact. I doubt that we have ever met, but I know he was acquainted with my late father, Arthur James Pegler, a reporter of spectacular renown in the Twin Cities, Chicago, and at last, in New York. I was engaged in the dismal business of disposing of dad's "papers" the other day and one little memo told one of the greatest stories of his whole life of 98 years. It said that his severance pay from the New York Mirror, the last money he ever received from an employer, was $30 a week for six months, 3 years ago. That was the end. He had not been eligible for Social Security since his life work had ended too soon for him to qualify when he was weak in the legs and going blind. Vital Investment Rule:
Diversify to Spread Risk

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "I'm sure I should have written this letter before, and I only hope it's not too late now. Upon advice of my broker I put all my eggs into one basket — and I haven't slept too well since. I bought 500 shares of Spartans Industries at an average price of 45. I wanted to sell at least half when the stock reached 50, but my broker advised me not to. He says that after the next to financial report the stock will go much higher. At this point I wish I shared his confidence. I would greatly appreciate any advice you can give as to this stock." — J. K.

A) The elder J. P. Morgan was once approached by a friend who said he couldn't sleep because of his large stock holdings. "What shall I do," he asked, "sell down to the sleeping point," replied Mr. Morgan.

I believe you should ignore your broker's advice and sell down to your sleeping point, say to the 100-share level.

I like Spartans Industries — as earlier readers of this column know — but there is nothing in this or any other situation that warrants your violating one of the most basic rules of investment — diversification.

There is nothing theoretical about this principle. It simply recognizes the fact that all stocks fluctuate and contain an element of risk — and that this risk should be spread over a number of issues so that trouble for one situation can't mean ruin for you.

I suggest that you sell 400 shares of Spartans and invest the proceeds in such shares as Korvette, American Distilling, Talcott, and Green Shoe — all sound and potentially profitable issues.

Q) "Did I see in your column that certain Treasury notes selling at a discount could be used to pay Federal income taxes?" — J. F.

A) No, you did not. I said that certain Treasury note issues could be tendered at par in payment of Federal estate taxes, if owned by the decedent at time of death.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Dutchess Legislator Backs 18 Drinking Age

Asserting that New York State has the right minimum age of 18 years for handling liquor, Assemblyman R. Watson Pomeroy (R-Dutchess) has vigorously opposed Connecticut's request to raise the state's minimum drinking age to 21.

Pomeroy defended New York State's handling of liquor law as Connecticut State Police continued a spot check of Connecticut youths crossing the state line to purchase liquor.

Meanwhile, Michael Sinsore, of Sinsore's Terrace Restaurant at Billings, Dutchess County, deplored the State Police check of youths at the Connecticut-New York state line, as a "business barrier" to taverns and restaurants in eastern Dutchess county. Sinsore is secretary of the Dutchess County Hotel Restaurant Liquor Dealers' Association.

These roadblocks, Sinsore said, are ruining the restaurant business from Connecticut customers. A roadblock discourages all business.

Pomeroy's weekend comment came in the face of a request from Connecticut legislatures to Governor Rockefeller asking the

New York Legislature to pass a bill increasing the minimum age for legal purchase of liquor to 21.

The Dutchess legislature contended that the older minimum age law encourages more secret drinking which he said "is worse than out-in-the-open controlled drinking."

Pomeroy said that the minimum age of 18 was found to be most satisfactory by colleges, institutions and agencies dealing with social problems of youth. Connecticut is wrong and New York is right on this issue, Pomeroy argued.

Unhappy TV Fan

HUNSTANTON, England (AP) — Every time John Fleming's television picture goes haywire, he marches outside with a crowbar and clouts the street light near his front door. He goes on whanging until his wife calls that the picture is all right again.

All attempts to find out what caused the nightly interference had failed, and Fleming kicked the post just to relieve his feelings one day.

"It brought the picture back perfectly for a while," he reported. "Now I always hit it."

JFK Says Demos Are Dedicated To Move Ahead

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, likening the Republican party to a ship at anchor, says Democrats are dedicated to moving ahead and should "run in a progressive world" in the fall elections.

"The fire from our efforts can light the world," he told a table-thumping crowd of 6,000 Democrats at his inaugural anniversary banquet Saturday night.

Joining other party leaders in attacking the Republicans as too conservative, the President said: "There is no room in the United States for two parties that believe in lying at anchor."

This was akin to the assertion by the Democratic national chairman, John M. Bailey, that "the American people have not gone right with the Republicans; they have gone forward with the Democrats."

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., a spokesman for GOP conservatives was the party's real leader in Congress.

This seemed open to considerable debate. Goldwater's policies have never won acceptance from Republican congressional leaders.

While the Democrats were directing their fire at him, Goldwater was busy having fun at his own expense. At the annual Spool Dinner of the Alfalfa Club—an organization of government officials, businessmen and others—Goldwater was nominated a mock candidate for president.

Accepting the honor, Goldwater jocularly alluded to criticism his policies are antique: "I feel the White House is ready for me now that Jackie has done it over in 18th century decor."

In a serious vein, Goldwater in a taped radio program Sunday night launched a new attack on administration policy. He said if necessary the United States should abandon the United Nations, break off diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union and use forceful intervention in Cuba.

Expects Congress Will Study Bonds

NEW YORK (AP) — Congress will want to "take a good long look" at United Nations bonds before investing American funds in them, says Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y.

Keating, noting Sunday President Kennedy's announced intention to ask Congress to permit the United States to buy $100 million of the bonds, said:

"If the scheme works, the cost of operating the U.N. to the United States will in the long run be reduced, and we will eventually get back the money, with interest, that we pay for the bonds. 'If the scheme does not work, then the United States could well be left paying the bill.'"

Hercules, Here First in Safety Award Program

Hercules Powder Company, Port Ewen passed another accident free milestone on completion of the working day Sunday with an achievement representing an accumulation of 1,111 days and approximately 3,575,000 man hours since the last tabular loss time injury. The Port Ewen plant is currently in first place in the firms industrial injury safety performance record.

The last time injury, according to D. C. Parker, works manager, occurred January 6, 1959. A total of 31 safety prizes have been on display in the company cafeteria. These will be moved to Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce windows in the Governor Clinton Hotel Tuesday and remain there until January 30 for family viewing.

Those employees eligible will receive an award selection card to make their choice and which must be returned to the safety Department no later than January 31.

W. Shokan Youth Faces Three Traffic Charges

A 17-year-old West Shokan youth, who according to state police was involved in a one-car accident on Route 375 Sunday morning, faces three traffic charges before Woodstock Justice of the Peace Rudolf C. Baumgarten Tuesday at 10 a. m.

Peter Stephen Kranenburg Jr., of Route 28A, at arraignment Sunday, was committed to Ulster County Jail in lieu of $100 bail. He was arrested for reckless driving, leaving the scene and as an unlicensed operator.

According to Troopers John Salters and W. E. Wiedemann, Kranenburg was proceeding south on Route 375 near the intersection of the entrance to Ulster Homes, at an apparent high rate of speed. He failed to negotiate a slight left down-grade and went off the west shoulder into a small culvert, continued another 50 feet knocking down a sign and finally coming to rest in a heavily wooded area, after striking four small trees, troopers said. The mishap occurred at about 1:30 a. m.

Rochester Man Freed at Manila After Long Term

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—William Pomeroy, who spent nine years in a Philippine prison for his part in a Communist rebellion, was back home today—broke and without a job, but ready to try a new life at 45.

"I am no longer a member of any Communist or any other organization and I have no intention of joining any," Pomeroy told a reporter when he got off a plane here Saturday, ending an 8,200-mile trip from Manila's Bilibid Prison.

Pomeroy, with the Army Air Corps in the Pacific Theatre during World War II, returned to the Philippines in 1947. In 1952, he and his Filipino wife, Celia, were sentenced to life imprisonment for their part in the Communist Huk rebellion on the islands.

The short, bespectacled Pomeroy said he spent the next five years in solitary confinement and the remaining four as a prison gardener. Outgoing President Carlos Garcia pardoned Pomeroy and his wife last Christmas. Pomeroy was ordered out of the islands forever.

Pomeroy's wife has been barred from the United States because of her Communist background.

"I'll do everything possible to bring her here," Pomeroy said. "She no longer has anything to do with Communism."

Asked what he was going to do for a job, Pomeroy said: "I'm an optimist. I'd like to do a book and other writing and try to make a living with it. I'll get along somehow."

Two Face Charges

bullet had grazed the left side of his chest. He indicated he would not have given his wife the revolver, if he thought it capable of discharging.

Apparent Knife Wound

After a call to a Canal Street apartment early Sunday, police found Williams, had suffered a stomach wound apparently inflicted by a knife and he was rushed to the Kingston Hospital emergency room.

Two women, Bernice Williams, 31, of Ann Street, and Henrietta Chaffin, 25, of Meadow Street, were questioned and gave statements to police headquarters, but until further investigation and statements from Williams, details are lacking as to how the latter suffered the wound.

Detectives were due to talk to Williams this afternoon at the hospital. Officers Frank Stip and Thomas Kearney were dispatched to the Canal Street house, after reports from other residents there indicated that someone had been hurt.

Action Due

jurisdiction over rent control in that city, effective May 1. The turn-over would eliminate a major political problem for Republicans.

Narcotics Addition — The governor asked the Legislature to approve a plan for providing hospital treatment, instead of jail sentences, for youths convicted on lesser charges of narcotics violations. They would be committed to special wards in state hospitals if they were addicts themselves.

Jobs For Youth — The governor called a meeting for Tuesday of the State Youth Council and the Statewide Advisory Council on Youth and Work, which are working to provide more job openings for teen-agers as a deterrent to delinquency. The governor will review progress with members of both groups.

Giant Snowslide

he looked out of a window and saw only snow and wreckage where the houses had stood.

Lines Are Down

Lindstone said he tried to telephone the sheriff in Leadville, but telephone lines were down. He hailed a passing motorist to notify authorities.

Lindstone said he and a neighbor walked through the snow-covered wreckage until they heard faint cries for help. They started digging.

It was another two and one half hours before the two survivors were found. Mrs. Adamich was pinned beneath heavy timbers across her legs and abdomen. Her husband was about 75 feet away.

The avalanche followed a three-day storm that dumped 30 inches of snow.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced moderately today but early gains were cut as trading quieted early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .80 at 255.90 with industrials up 1.30, rails up 1.0 and utilities up .70.

Gains of fractions to a point or so among key stocks outnumbered losers. Most gains were fractional. A number of issues were unchanged or lost fractions.

Boston Edison spurred more than 4 points, then trimmed about a point from the rise in later dealings.

South Puerto Rico sugar was up about a point.

American Machine & Foundry fell 1¼, then recovered to show only a fractional loss.

Xerox fell 5¼, then trimmed the decline to 3 points or so.

Aerospace stocks were mixed. Lockheed was up around a point and United Aircraft more than that but North American Aviation was off about a point and General Dynamics a fraction.

Avco eased. Litton was fractionally higher and Zenith was off about 2.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.19 at 702.91. Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange.

Highway Mishaps Take Nine Lives; 10 Others Perish

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The number of traffic deaths in New York State rose sharply this weekend over the relatively low tolls of the last two weekends.

A total of nine persons died in motor vehicle accidents between 6 p.m. Friday and Sunday midnight, compared with five last weekend and four the previous week.

In addition, two men — both blind — died in a New York City apartment fire and eight persons lost their lives in various types of accidents, including drowning.

Three of the drowning victims, including Ralph Morocco, 33, of Geneva, were men employed in installing a water-intake system in Seneca Lake for the Finger Lakes State Parks Commission. The other victims were residents of New Jersey.

Other accidental deaths, by community:

New York—Brown Hilton, 55, and Rosario Epsara, 35, of Baltimore, Md., fire swept Hilton's apartment Friday night.

Wyandanch—Mrs. Mary Mantos, 31, North Massapequa, auto-train collision Friday night.

New York—Charles Smith, 35, New York, a construction worker, crushed by crane Saturday.

New York—William McGee, 59, Bayside, three-car crash Saturday.

Schenectady—Frank Kostovich, 66, Schenectady, struck by a car Saturday.

Springville—Dwayne Howth, 23, Eden, two-car collision Sunday.

East Islip—Susan D. Noble, 17, East Islip, and John Nill, 20, Brookhaven, asphyxiated in an automobile Sunday.

New York—Richard Crosby, 25, New York, struck by a car Sunday.

Geneseo — Ricky T. Swan, 3, struck by a car Sunday.

East Patchogue—Virginia Papandrea, 50, Holbrook, two-car crash Sunday.

Niagara Falls — Mrs. Minerva Bissell, of Niagara Falls, 52, struck by a car Sunday.

New York—Robert Black, 24, Brooklyn, car struck an underpass Sunday.

Court Reverses Beck Conviction In Tax Evasion

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Dave Beck Sr., former president of the Teamsters Union, has won a new trial in his appeal from a federal income tax conviction of evading more than $240,000.

The U.S. court of Appeals reversed the conviction Saturday and remanded the case to District Court. The appeals court, however, upheld Beck's conviction on charges of filing false union returns.

Beck, free on bail in Seattle, Wash., was sentenced to five years in prison and fined $60,000.

Jack Obenauer, the assistant U.S. attorney who helped try Beck, said in Seattle if the false returns conviction stands, Beck would still face a five-year term but the fine would be reduced to $20,000.

Beck said he will appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court if he is denied a rehearing on the charge of filing false union returns.

Wallkill Youth Wins Oratorical County Contest

Robert Terwilliger, representing Wallkill High School was judged the winner of Ulster County American Legion oratorical contest held this week at Rondout Valley Central School. Following district and zone finals, the state contest will be held at Highland High School on March 17.

Seven Represented
Seven Ulster County high schools were represented, each delivering a 10 to 12-minute oration dealing with some aspect, portion, application or interpretation of the federal constitution. Joanne Berg of New Paltz High School was second and Robert Mandis of Highland High received third place honors. Young Terwilliger spoke on the topic, "Our Constitution — the shield of Democracy."

Others competing were Diana Stuckly of Ellenville High; Manfred Bracklow of Rondout Valley; Sharon Johnson of Saugerties; and Bruce Levine of Kingston. More than 100 persons attended.

Judges Named
Judges were the Rev. W. R. Porter Jr., of New Paltz; Mrs. Constance Kuhn, speech instructor at Dutchess County Community College; Miss Margaret Walsh, speech instructor at Arlington High School; James Brown Jr., attorney of Poughkeepsie, and Dr. Roland Will of the Department of Humanities at State University College, New Paltz.

Raymond Coats, Legion county commander opened the program following introductions and greetings by Rondout Valley Principal Crispi. John C. Miller of Highland High School is American Legion Americanism and Oratorical chairman.

Young Terwilliger will represent Ulster County in a seven county district contest in Hudson High School February 17 at 8 p. m. In the Third District contest winners of Albany, Rensselaer, Schoharie, Greene, Columbia, Sullivan and Ulster Counties will compete.

To Award Scholarships
District winners will compete in a six zone contest and the zone winners meet in the state finals at Highland State. Winners meet in regional and sectional contests and the final four sectional winners compete for thousands of dollars in scholarships awarded by the American Legion.

The national winner will receive a $4,000 scholarship; second $2,500, and third and fourth $1,500 each.

B & P Club Hears Investment Talk

The regular dinner meeting of the B & P Club of the YWCA was held on Wednesday, with Mrs. Jeanne A. Snyder, President, presiding.
Harold Finkle, investment consultant with the Chilton, Newbery Co. spoke. His talk was most interesting and full of very valuable information and material. He defined Bonds, Preferred Stock and Common Stock in a way that all could understand, and he stressed that all are good, but the most important factor for investors was the consideration of age, position and nearness to retirement. He traced the history of Mutual Funds, which originated in Scotland.

A question and answer period followed.
A short business meeting was held after the program at which time the program for the year was discussed. Several projects were decided upon and will be started at the January 24 meeting.

Some Wrong Before

It is this interplay of government policy and private industry, trade, profits, income, that the President is assessing in his economic report to Congress today.

And if his estimate of how it will all turn out seems more optimistic than the views which stock traders are backing with their cash or credit—well, Presidents have been wrong in their estimates before. And a lot of stock traders have guessed wrong, too.

According to budget estimates prosperity is expected to increase corporate profits by $10.5 billion to $56.4 billion this year and to send personal income up some $30 billion to around $448 billion. The Treasury's take from that would turn this fiscal year's $7 billion Treasury deficit into a $500 million surplus in fiscal 1963.

Such a turn around would find the government taking more money out of the economy than it

Rocky Moves to Shift Rent Control to New York City

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller moved today to deprive Democrats of one of their favorite campaign issues — rent control in New York City.

Legislation submitted on behalf of the Republican governor would shift the administration of rent control in the state's largest city from the state government to the city administration May 1. The Legislature is expected to approve the measure.

Rockefeller will seek re-election this year and his plan on rent control has been interpreted as a move to eliminate a potential political danger to the Republican cause.

New York City Democrats have charged repeatedly in campaigns that rent-control laws written by the Republican-controlled Legislature favored landlords.

Republicans have denied the allegation. They have said that the state took jurisdiction over New York City rent controls because of alleged corruption in the city's handling of the program in the immediate, post-war years.

But Rockefeller and other Republicans have said privately that Democratic charges concerning rent control have posed severe political problems.

The Rockefeller action will remove rent control as an issue from the election campaign. Mayor Robert F. Wagner, of New York City, a Democrat and potential opponent for Rockefeller this year, has agreed to the shift.

Under the provisions of the administration bill:

1. New York City would have to create a housing-rent agency on or before April 1 of this year.
2. The law creating the city rent agency would eliminate from the state law one of its most controversial provisions. It is the use of current equalization rates as a factor in evaluating property for a determination of whether rent increases were justified. Use of current rates tended to increase their value. The governor recommended a return to the 1954 rates.

3. Rent increases granted under the current - equalization rates formula would be rescinded. The governor said such increases were approved for 173 properties, comprising a total of 1,976 apartments.

This was in apparent conflict with the governor's statement last October, announcing a freeze on increases under the equalization formula, that 50 such rent boosts had been approved.

4. The state would continue to pay costs of administering rent-control laws in New York City, now approximately $4 million a year.

5. No rent increases would be granted between the day the bill was signed into law and the time the city took control.

MVB Has Central Electronic Unit

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The state will save space, time and $238,000 a year, beginning this month, through operation of a centralized electronic system for drivers' records.

The Motor Vehicle Department now is shifting to an office here files that had been divided between New York City and Albany, Commissioner William S. Hults said Saturday.

The department has used 250 cabinets requiring 15,000 square feet of floor space for the records. When the move is completed, the records will be kept in 46 electronic units needing 6,000 square feet. The 46 units can hold up to 12 million records, the number expected by 1970.

She Needs Your Help

Sandra Kay Grisham, five, has juvenile rheumatoid arthritis. Like thousands of other children with the crippling disease, Sandra needed medical aid that now enables her to walk with braces and crutches. Part of this treatment has been financed by the nation's contributions to the New March of Dimes whose parent organization, The National Foundation, has brought arthritis and birth defects under attack while continuing to fight polio. Sandra is being treated by specialists in a March of Dimes-supported Arthritis Clinical Study Center at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School, Dallas.

Deaths

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Andrew F. Schoepel, R-Kan., 67, died Sunday while undergoing treatment for cancer. Twice governor of his native Kansas, Schoepel was elected to the Senate in 1948 and twice was re-elected.

U.S., Russia Weigh Move To Start Mass Retaliation

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Massive retaliation comes to look more and more like final retaliation while this overheated world torments itself with small, or guerrilla, wars in the hope it can keep them small.

The latest to put his finger on guerrilla fighting as the thing to look for is the Pentagon's No. 2 man, Roswell L. Gilpatric, deputy secretary of defense.

In a TV interview Sunday he said "Communist doctrine is conflict." He foresees a step-up in indirect warfare and guerrilla battles and mentioned the guerrilla fighting in Viet Nam as an example.

Both Have Power

The United States had a monopoly on atomic weapons only four years: from 1945 until 1949 when the Russians achieved their first atomic explosion. They developed their hydrogen bomb in 1953.

Now that both have the power to wipe each other out, neither wants to begin what neither could win. Thus massive retaliation, being a last gasp effort, would be a final retaliation.

In a sense, then, they have paralyzed themselves in the act of achieving their maximum power. It is useful to them therefore only in discouraging each other from any attempt at an all-out sudden victory.

Reds Not Discouraged

But the Communists were never discouraged, even while this country had that four-year atomic monopoly, from attempting to accumulate a series of small victories which, if permitted, would in time become total victory.

In the 1945-49 period communism under Stalin tried its luck in Iran, Greece and Turkey but gave up under the pressure of President Truman's unpredictable toughness.

In 1948 it did take over Czechoslovakia. This was done too suddenly for Truman to stop it. Then Stalin tried the Berlin blockade, an episode which gave some insight into the unwillingness of both sides to blow the lid off.

The West, outnumbered by Soviet ground forces, didn't try to smash through to the city by land. Truman tried the airlift. This gave Stalin a chance to back away from the big war.

Tried Luck in Korea

There would have been one if he tried to shoot down the planes. He didn't and backed off. Then he tried his luck in Korea. This time Truman stopped it with direct action. But he wasn't fighting the Red army there.

When the Red Chinese got in and rolled back the U.N. troops, Truman backed off from the big explosion. He might have smashed them with bombings. He didn't. If he had tried it, and Russia came to China's defense, that would have been it. The result was a stand-off. The Korean war ended where it began: at the 38th parallel.

Was Empty Phrase

It was President Eisenhower's secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, who made a big thing of the phrase massive retaliation. It never became more than a phrase with him, and sometimes a completely empty one.

For example Dulles didn't try anything massive when the Communists defeated the French and took half of Indochina, even though Southeast Asia was important to this country.

Premier Khrushchev, who now has perhaps as much if not more hydrogen torch power as this country, has been careful so far not to push his luck to the point where this country felt it had to use its full strength.

For example: his reluctance up till now to force a showdown on Berlin. But that American strength hasn't deterred communism from pushing where the United States would also be reluctant to go all out.

The guerrilla war in Viet Nam is hardly the kind, even though the country is lost, where the American leadership has shown any inclination to make this the final test with communism.

There is no reason to think there won't be many more such Communist tries in areas which, important as they are, this country might not think important enough to risk mass slaughter on two continents.

YWCA Has Series of Special Programs For Teenagers; Beauty, Posture, Speech

The YWCA is providing special activities for its teenage department. This month, interest groups are superseding the regular club meetings, an innovation proposed by the National YWCA to further its avowed purpose of promoting the fellowship of its members. The combined high school club members selected a charm course as their sphere of interest while the seventh and eighth grade groups chose craft projects.

The charm course is being given in four parts. On January 10, Mrs. Anthony Erena gave a lecture on skin care and hygiene.

At the second Wednesday night session, Mrs. John Gilligan conducted a discussion on the importance of good posture. She endorsed the current slimline exercises as beneficial to carriage and poise.

The fashions popular with modern teens are greatly enhanced by these attributes, she emphasized.

On January 24, Cay Conway will present a program on "Personality in Speech and Voice." She will place emphasis on the art of conversation.

To complete the appearance of a charming personality, clothes must be properly evaluated. Mrs. Helen Davenport will offer guidance on this final phase of the program. She will give suggestions as to the basic wardrobe necessities and the etiquette of good grooming.

The craft projects for the seventh and eighth graders include making ceramic jewelry and mosaic tiles. Instructors for these classes are Mrs. Arthur Lewis on Wednesday mornings and Mrs. Mary Short on Wednesday afternoons.

Activities Listed By Catholic Group To Aid Needy

A public card party sponsored by Court Santa Maria No. 164, Catholic Daughters of America, will be given Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at 14 Henry Street. Homemade refreshments will be served by the committee which includes the Mmes. Lulu Fallon, Ellen Woinoski, Margaret Mitchell, Emma Sangaline and Miss Angeline Aiello.

Members of the Court are requested to donate a gift for the display table and an item of canned goods for the gift basket.

Mrs. Ceil Shoemaker, education chairman, asks that members bring any Catholic magazines, pamphlets or newspapers to 14 Henry Street Thursday evening. During the month of February which is Catholic Month, these religious magazines will be distributed at the hospitals, nursing homes, and other places.

Miss Laura Albrecht will collect any old jewelry, pocket-books, wash dresses, blouses and canceled stamps. These items will be used in connection with a mental health campaign to aid the patients at Middletown State Hospital. Members are asked to bring all such items to 14 Henry Street on Thursday evening.

Miss Jane Madden has made a request that members donate old sheets which can be used to make hospital pads for the cancer work. In order to continue this worthwhile project there is a great need for many sheets and all donations will be appreciated.

Poetry Discussion Slated on Tuesday

The monthly lesson in American Literature will be given by the Relief Society of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints at the chapel, Fordham Place, Lake Katrine, Tuesday, 7:30 p. m.

At the meeting the poetry of Longfellow will be discussed. All women of the community may attend the cultural discussion.

Meeting for Parents

Parents of the Lake Katrine and Sawkill area who hope to send their children to St. Catherine Laboure's School when it opens next September, are notified now that a meeting for these parents will take place in the parish hall, Sunday, Jan. 28, at 7:30 p. m. This meeting is for the purpose of acquainting parents with the facts as presently known, and with the procedural schedule between now and September.

New Program Is Launched by Junior Group At Benedictine; More Volunteers Needed

Mrs. William Cranston, auxiliary president, welcomed the members to their first business meeting.

Sister Henrietta of the hospital staff, who assigns the duties to the junior volunteers, announced that today, Tuesday, and Thursday at 4-5 p. m. there will be orientation meetings for new members. Young ladies, 14 years or older, are welcome to attend. Meetings are held at the hospital. Sister Henrietta also spoke briefly on the tremendous job the juniors are doing for the hospital.

Edwin Bolz, assistant administrator, asked for volunteers to meet on Thursdays at 3:30 to work on a new project, assembling comfort kits for the patients. About 500 of these will be needed every month. Eight members began this project on Thursday, Jan. 18.

Mrs. Josephine Marabell and Mrs. John Healy, co-chairmen of the group, explained the duties of a junior volunteer in the hospital. They also announced that a record-hop would be planned for April. The next business meeting will be held February 19. St. Patrick Day favors will be made for the hospital trays. Refreshments were served by Mrs. John Healy and Mrs. Josephine Marabell.

A TIP FOR THE BUS DRIVER

Q: Recently our Women's Group chartered a bus for a trip to New York. I was in charge of the arrangements. We arrived in time for lunch. After lunch we went to the theatre and from there went to a very nice restaurant where we had reservations for dinner. We started back about nine o'clock. Shortly before we reached home, I went around and asked the women if they would like to contribute toward a tip for the driver. Most of the women did so readily but a few of them condemned my doing this, saying that he was paid by the company and that a tip was not at all necessary. He was very kind and courteous and I felt he deserved a tip. I would like your opinion on this matter.

A: I agree with you that the driver should have been given a tip for his courteous service.

Q: We are planning to announce our daughter's engagement soon. Her fiancé's parents are going to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary shortly at a large reception. They thought it would be nice to have the engagement announced at this reception. Would this be proper, and if so, how and by whom should the announcement be made?

A: It would be quite all right to announce the engagement at this reception, but the announcement should be made by the man's family. After a toast has been drunk to the anniversary couple, the husband, says thank you and then introduces Mr. Jones (the bride's father) who has an announcement to make. The bride's father then rises and announces the engagement of his daughter to John Brown.

Q: I have noticed that many men allow a woman companion to get off a bus first. Isn't the correct procedure for the man to get off first and then help her off?

A: Correctly he alights first and then turns and offers her his hand.

The Emily Post Institute offers readers booklets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like the booklet entitled "The Bride's Trousseau," send 10 cents in coin, to cover cost of handling, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to The Emily Post Institute, care of The Freeman.

Named Acting Dean of Bard College; Will Assume Permanent Post in June This Year

The appointment of Dr. Harold L. Hodgkinson as Acting Dean of Bard College until June 30, 1962, and as Dean of the College effective July 1, 1962, has been announced by Dr. Reamer Kline, president. Dr. Hodgkinson will replace Dean Dorothy Dulles Bourne during her sabbatical next semester, and will succeed her upon her retirement in June.

Dr. Hodgkinson is currently Acting Director of the School of Education of Simmons College, Boston, Massachusetts. A native of St. Louis, he is a graduate of the University of Minnesota, received his master's from Wesleyan and his doctorate from Harvard. He has taught at both Simmons and Harvard, and has published extensively, both in the field of literary criticism (Years), and in that of education. His text, "Education and the Social Sciences," is scheduled for early 1962 publication by Prentice-Hall.

Dr. Hodgkinson is married and has two children. His wife is also a University of Minnesota graduate. He expects to take up his new duties at Bard in February. He and his family will live in a house newly purchased by the College, adjacent to the campus on Annandale Road.

Health for All

TB Ain't What It Used to Be

If someone you love comes down with TB, don't automatically assume he's in for a long period in bed. Although strict bed rest was the heart of TB treatment for many years, drug treatment is now the core with strict bed rest playing an important part only in the beginning.

You can expect your relative or friend to start his treatment in the hospital. Hospitalization until successful treatment is assured is recommended by the committee on therapy of the American Thoracic Society, medical section of the National Tuberculosis Association.

This is so that the patient starts treatment with the best in up-to-date medical, nursing, and (if necessary) surgical advice and at the same time avoids infecting his family or friends. Doctors and nurses can watch him carefully to find out which of the new drugs are best for him and can teach him the best way to carry on his treatment when he gets out.

The hospital is also the best place for him to get accurate information about TB and how to take care of himself. There he can get the professional reassurance he needs about his disease, which is serious but need no longer be the terrifying thing it once was.

Many patients are permitted to go home as soon as their treatment has been established and their germs are under control, especially when the doctor knows the patient will not over-exert himself and will get the treatment he still needs. As a matter of fact, many patients are often encouraged — even while still taking drugs — to return to normal work and recreation as early as possible.

Since having TB just ain't what it used to be, why not have a tuberculin skin test yourself to make sure no TB germs are present? If the test is positive, have a chest X-ray to find out if the germs are doing your lungs any damage.

This column is sponsored in the interest of better health by Ulster County TB and Health Association, 124 Green Street.

Jaynees Schedule Program of Events

Plans are being formulated by the members of the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce Auxiliary for a spring luncheon and fashion show featuring the latest styles in custom made hats and accessories. This was announced at the January meeting of the Jaynees held recently at the home of Mrs. Donald Simek. Mrs. Warren Schoonmaker, president, named Mrs. Peg Carpenter and Mrs. Lois Moore co-chairmen of this event with ticket sales to be handled by Mrs. Emily Lawson and Mrs. Ruth Moore.

In line with their program to assist and benefit area children, the Jaynees have appropriated funds to aid the Revolving Dental Fund of the Fund. This was made possible primarily through the sale of Christmas candles and other money raising projects held throughout the year.

Mrs. Lois Moore, program chairman, announced that Mrs. John Gilligan, a former model, will be the principal speaker at a meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Chester Diffley on Wednesday, Feb. 21 at 8:30 p. m. Plans are also being made to hold the annual dinner meeting at Broglie's on Wednesday, March 21, at 8 p. m. The Kingston Jaynees are providing cakes for patients in the Ulster County Infirmary who are celebrating birthdays this month. Members helping on this project include the Mmes. Robert Stedje, Donald Simek, James Nerone, John Lawson, James Bishop and Chester Diffley.

In conjunction with "Jaycee Week" which will be celebrated in Kingston beginning January 22 some of the members of the Jaynee Board of Directors will present an original skit entitled "The Jaycee Story" over WKNY on Wednesday, Jan. 24 at 7:30 p. m. It is hoped this skit will provide a clearer understanding of how the Jaynees aid in the civic and educational activities of our community and help to promote mutual understanding among its citizens. Those taking part include Mrs. Gloria Schoonmaker, president, Mrs. Ruth Moore, vice president, Mrs. Nancy Bishop, recording secretary, Mrs. Emily Lawson, director, Mrs. Jean Nerone, treasurer and past presidents Mrs. Pat Stedje and Mrs. Lois Moore.

Any young woman in the area, whose husband is a member of the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce, is invited to join the Jaynees and should contact this year's membership chairman, Mrs. Ruth Moore.

Kingston Man Hurt; Falls Out of Auto

A Kingston man was injured early Sunday when he fell out of the rear door of a moving vehicle on Route 213 near the intersection of Mountain Road, Kingston state police reported.

Kenneth Tyler Jr., 24 of John Street, Kingston suffered abrasions and contusions of the left arm and leg and was treated and released from Benedictine Hospital.

Troopers John Salters and W. E. Wiedemann reported Tyler was a passenger in the 1956 sedan of Howard Ryan, 50 of St. Remy, who was proceeding north of Route 213 at the time of the mishap. Troopers said the Ryan vehicle made a sharp right turn and Tyler fell out of the rear left door onto the pavement. The mishap occurred at 3:45 a. m.

70 Exhibitors Signed for Trade Show of Growers

Some 70 exhibitors will be featured in the trade show of the New York State Horticultural Society which opens a three-day program Tuesday morning at the State Armory on Manor Avenue at 10 a. m.

Approximately 1,000 growers are expected to attend during the three days which will be highlighted by a banquet on Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

The Tuesday program will open with a talk on Control of Sooty Bitch and Fly Speck by Dr. D. H. Palmer of the Poughkeepsie Laboratory. Ken Hickey of the Plant Pathology Department at Cornell University and Ed Glass of the Geneva Experiment Station will discuss the amount of spray material needed per acre. Ralph Dean of the Poughkeepsie Laboratory will talk on Keeping Down the Visible Residue Through Our Spray Program. Dan Dalrymple, assistant commissioner of Agriculture and Markets will speak on How Well Did We Do in 1962? Glass will talk on Better Control of Red Banded Leaf Roller by Killing the Moths and the morning session will close with a discussion of Spray Recommendations for 1962 by Hickey.

The afternoon session will open at 1:45 p. m. with a question box by James Clark of Milton. Hickey will tell of the Performance of Airplane Dust Treatments in the Hudson Valley in 1961. Thomas Rich of Syracuse will speak on Can We Cut the Spread between Farm and Retail Prices? President Cameron Nichols of Lewiston will speak at 2:50 p. m., followed by a progress report, Savings in Handling Apples from Tree to Store by Ben Dominick Jr. and B. F. Stanton of the Department of Agriculture Economics at Cornell. The session will close with a talk on Fire Blight-Prevention and Control in Pears, by Dr. Kenneth Parker, Plant Pathology Department at Cornell University.

Producer Prices Down For Milk This Month

WASHINGTON (AP)—Producer prices of milk used for fluid purposes showed a generally downward trend early this month, the Agriculture Department reported today.

These prices in about 160 markets averaged $5.49 a hundredweight, or 12 cents lower than last January. But retail prices in major markets averaged three-fourths of a cent a quart above last January. Home delivered milk averaged 27 cents a quart.

Dutchess Opens Substation for Sheriff's Unit

A new substation of the Dutchess County sheriff's department in Pawling, was officially activated at 9 a. m. today by Sheriff Lawrence M. Quinlan, who said the station will be used as a base for patrolling the entire Harlem Valley area.

Quinlan said the new station will operate on a round-the-clock schedule, with a senior officer on duty in charge. The sheriff noted that with the establishment of the new station, patrols no longer will have to use valuable time running back and forth to the Harlem Valley from Poughkeepsie.

The substation is in the former Pawling Grange Hall, near the railroad station. It was purchased by the Town of Pawling for a town hall site. The purchase price was $17,500. Supervisor Kenneth Utter said the Grange will rent space in the building for its meetings.

Greene County Boy Shot, Is Good Today

The condition of a 15-year-old Greene County boy accidentally shot while target-practicing late Saturday is reported as good today at Green County Memorial Hospital.

State police reported that Arthur Speyer Henderson was accidentally wounded in the abdomen by a bullet which ricocheted off the ground after being fired by a 14-year-old playmate of Arthur's. The mishap occurred on the Arthur Henderson farm in Cornwallville in the Town of Durham just before dusk Saturday.

MODENA NEWS

Miss Glennie M. Wager—Telephone TU 3-7136

MODENA—Chief Eldred Smith, President Gordon Rhodes, and Publicity Chairman Kenneth Dimsey, represented Modena Fire Department at a meeting of Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association Tuesday evening at Esopus Fire House.

Joseph O. Hasbrouck, manager of the J. E. Hasbrouck Co., and his employees James F. Palen, Gordon Rhodes, New Paltz, William DeFew, Wallace Palen, New Hurler and Daniel Tucker, Gardiner, are attending the 68th annual convention of the Northeastern Retail Lumbermen's Association, held in New York City.

John C. Elliott, 60, of Newburgh, died Monday of a heart attack. Mr. Elliott was found dead behind the wheel of his car, in his garage in the rear of his residence. Born in Wallingford, N. J., he had lived in Newburgh nearly all of his life, time, belonging to many organizations, and to the Grace Methodist Church. Mr. Elliott's wife was the late Beulah Strickland of Plattekill. He is survived by a daughter, Dolores Elliott, a brother Henry Elliott and two grandsons, all of Newburgh. Funeral services were conducted on Thursday in Newburgh, and burial was in Modena Cemetery.

Mrs. Marie Douglas of New York, visited her home here, last week.

William Reynolds, and the Russell Hedrick family vacated the cottage north of Modena on Route 32, which the Reynolds family have occupied for over 40 years, and moved to the farm house of Harold Lucy, south of Modena.

Mrs. Ronald A. Wager and daughter Darlene were in Newburgh on Tuesday.

Kenneth Dimsey visited relatives in West Park and Esopus Tuesday.

Mrs. Oscar Smith and Miss Marguerite Smith visited Mr. and Mrs. Orville Seymour Tuesday evening.

Fred Hatfield Fowler, 68, of Clintondale, died Tuesday at his home from a heart attack. Mr. Fowler, born in Plattekill, a son of the late Charles and Annie Birdsall Fowler, had lived in Clintondale over a period of years, and was employed by the highway department. Survivors are his wife, the former Agnes Dietz of Fourth Binnewater; five daughters, including Mrs. Irene Coy of Ardonia, and a son Fred A. Fowler of Modena, also several grandchildren. Burial was in the Lloyd Rural Cemetery.

Local members of the Eastern Star Lodge, Highland Chapter, attended the installation ceremonies at the lodge rooms in Highland recently, when more than 70 people attended Mrs. Marjorie Van Aken of this area, was installed as organist.

Members of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Modena Methodist Church are holding sewing sessions each Monday, from 10:30 a. m. on, to complete a quilting project underway.

Last Monday members served a luncheon to members of the Ramapo Ministerial Association, at Hasbrouck Memorial Hall.

Byron F. Paltridge, of Torrance, Calif., accompanied his sister, Mrs. S. L. Bernard and son, Jon, of Poughkeepsie, to this place on Thursday, where they visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Preston J. Paltridge and their aunt, Miss Glennie M. Wager.

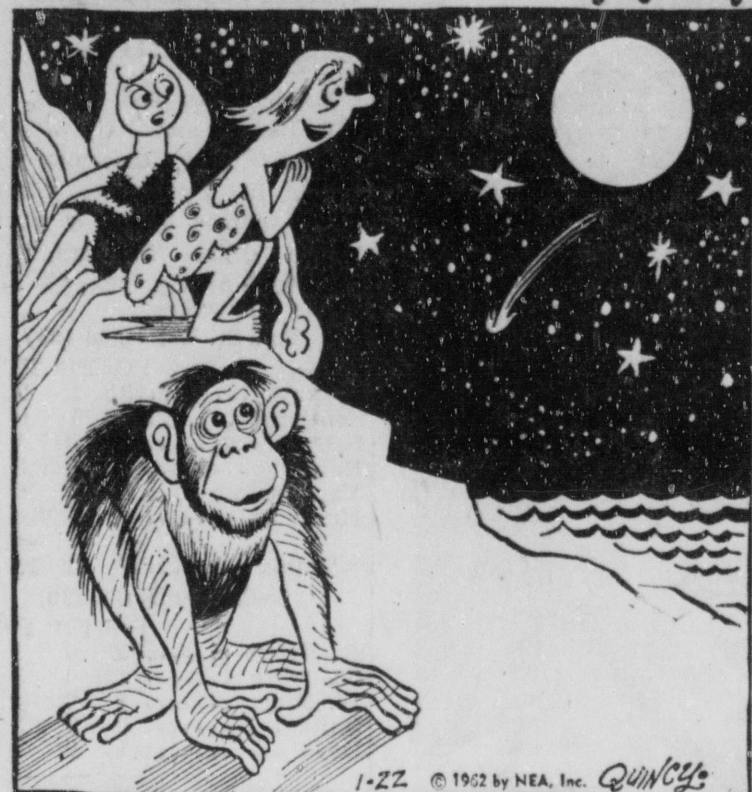

Paltridge who enlisted in the U. S. Navy in Aug. 1940, retired from the service in 1960. He was commended for heroism by Admiral Nimitz, following the Battle of Midway, when a Jap bomber hit the USS Yorktown. Awarded a gold medal and an accompanying citation, Admiral Nimitz said "For heroic conduct and meritorious service in the line of his profession, as a member of the salvage crew which attempted to salvage and return the Yorktown to port."

Knowing full well that the Yorktown was in a precarious condition because of the damage received in the battle of June 6, 1942, that she was barely seaworthy and that she would probably be the target of repeated submarine and air attack against which it would be very difficult to defend her, he requested to be allowed to return to the ship and assist in her salvage."

Paltridge also assisted in the evacuation of natives when the Greek Islands were devastated by earthquakes in July 1953.

He has traveled extensively in foreign countries, and ports, also in America and possessions.

Mrs. Harold W. Wager has resumed employment at the Schatz Federal Bearing Co. in Poughkeepsie, at this time.

Mrs. Margaret Van Duser of Plattekill, acted as substitute teacher for Mrs. Shirley Fowler at the Modena School during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Helms Sr., of Bloomingburgh, announce the engagement of their daughter, Louise, to Kenneth B. Henry, son of Mrs. Hazel Henry and the late George Henry, of Modena.

Miss Helms is a senior at the Middletown High School, and Henry is employed by William Vogt, contractor of Bloomingburgh.

The wedding date was not announced.

Exam Is Slated By State Police

An open competitive examination for candidates for New York State troopers will be held Saturday, Feb. 10 at Poughkeepsie, Albany, Bay Shore, Glens Falls, Binghamton, Buffalo, Elmira, Olean, Plattsburgh, Rochester, Syracuse, Utica, and Watertown.

Salary range is $5,200 to $7,000 annually. In addition, all service clothing and equipment is furnished. Among benefits available to members of the New York State Police are retirement after 25 years service, certain medical surgical and disability benefits, annual physical examination and opportunities for advancement.

All appointments are probationary for a period of one year. Further information may be obtained at any state police station in the area.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

The weather plays a very important part in our lives. The income of many depends mainly on weather conditions. Going back to 1848, item reads: "This year the 'Columbia' and the 'Norwich' each made three trips from New York to Albany, from Jan. 2 to 7, inclusive, on which latter date the weather grew colder, the river was closed again with ice. In February, the 'Columbia' ran to Poughkeepsie from New York a few trips, and to Coeymans also, when the river closed again. From March 10 to 21, she ran to Hudson, and the ice breaking up on March 22, the navigation of the river was resumed."

This is from History of American Steam Navigation by John H. Morrison, which book was given me by Tom Walsh of the Boulevard. William O. Benson, of Sleightsburg, a historian on Hudson River lore, said he has one of the first editions of this book.

Our winter has been very fickle this year. We think we are going to have a heavy snow fall, and then comes a rain and washes it all away, which should be good for the taxpayers. Then comes a warm rain, and it freezes up while you are looking at it. I like winter, when it is around 50 degrees outside and about 70 indoors with a little heat. When it goes down to 32 freezing I do not like it and complain. Yet, when I go across the Rondout Creek Bridge, and see the skim of ice, I wonder how I stood the winters, when the ice was a foot thick, and we used to walk across on all the hills, that is rare today.

According to Morrison there was a lot of excitement during the price wars on the Hudson. "Runners" were employed running along the piers in the sale of tickets for their special boats. When competing boats lay at the same pier, it was like the taxi-cabs competing for the mountain trade coming off the Daylines at Kingston Point. Remember the expression

"Satchels for the mountains!" The price wars on the boats, Morrison writes about, went on in the late 1840's. One boat line was so intent on getting all the business, that in fighting a competing boat line who was charging twelve and a half cents less, that he paid the passenger that amount to get on his boat. Everyone wanted a crowd. These trips were from New York, the ride was long, the fresh air made them hungry. Finally when it came to food on board or resting or sleeping accommodations then the line charged them plenty. Finally the passengers found out it was better to pay one dollar on a competing line and know exactly what you are paying for. You always pay for a bargain in the end, I guess then and now.

In 1849, in the month of August the opening rate of fare by the opposition, which by then consisted of but only two boats, was 25 cents on the Rip Van Winkle and the Manhattan and on Aug. 20, the fare went up to $1. The People's through-line, opened at 50 cents, but by Aug. 22 went to $1.25 to the end of the month. Some boats let the fare go for 50 cents, and on alternate days for $1.

Governor Asks That Young Addicts Get Hospital Care

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Offer hospital care instead of jail cells to youthful addicts arrested on narcotics charges, Gov. Rockefeller asked the Legislature today. "This is a humane, practical approach," the governor said in a statement announcing that bills to implement his program had been introduced.

At the same time, Rockefeller renewed his appeal for establishment in New York City of a federal hospital for treatment of narcotics addicts.

The governor also urged intensified action by federal and municipal law-enforcement agencies to combat the drug traffic in the state's largest city, "an area of increasing addiction that is grave cause for concern."

The plea followed by four days a series of raids in which New York City and federal narcotics agents seized an estimated $3 1/2 million in raw heroin in a Brooklyn tenement.

Rockefeller said the narcotics traffic was "the most insidious threat to the moral and physical health of young people, beginning, as it can, with a few puffs on marijuana for kicks and ending in the most appalling personal and family tragedy."

The governor said his program, sponsored in the Legislature by Sen. George R. Metcalf, R-Albany, and Assemblyman Julius Volker, R-Erie, would be limited to persons arrested on less-serious charges involving narcotics.

Hardened criminals and persons selling on a large scale would not be eligible.

But the program would extend, for example, to a youth arrested on charges of possession of narcotics but who intended to take them himself, not sell them to others.

This individual would be given an option of a jail term or treatment in one of three facilities being established in conjunction with the program—special wards at Central Islip, Manhattan and Utica State Hospitals.

The length of confinement would depend upon the degree of success of the treatments. A person who did not respond might be returned to court for action under the original charge.

Other phases of the Rockefeller plan call for establishment of a central narcotics office to direct state programs of research in treatment of addicts and creation of a State Council on Drug Addiction to help draft and administer anti-narcotics programs.

THEY'RE NOT ONLY FAILING TO beat Ray's Tackle Shop but nobody is even coming close. It was the same old story in the YMCA league Saturday as the powerful cagers of Ward Dunham wall-opped Delaney, 99-26, in a lopsided contest.

In the other tilt, Hayes
Lincoln-Mercury came on like Citiation at the finish and finally nipped Newkirk, 53-52, in an overtime thriller.

Six players were in double figures for the Tackle Shop, which is as sure of a win as the U. S.
Mint is of having money. Big Harry Pratt led the way with 21 markers but he had able assistance from Leo Armstead, Chick Boice, Roy Havens, Joe Klonowski and Ronnie Scheffel. The winners had a very safe 41-13 lead at the half.

The other game was a direct contrast. Newkirk had an apparent safe lead, 41-32, starting the final period. Then Hayes rimmed 10 straight points and the clubs fought neck and neck from there.
It was 50-50 at the end of regulation time and the winners won it in overtime.

Tommy Fiore had 20 points and Jim Amato tallied 10 to pace Hayes. Joe Tremper was the best for Newkirk with 18 markers.
Amato had the three points in the overtime period for Hayes.

Sports Talk

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

For the first time in state horse racing history, historic Saratoga Race Track will not be alone during its annual August meeting.

An upstart track in Canandaigua has been assigned dates from May 23 to Sept. 15 and this, of course, means conflict with Saratoga dates of July 30 to Aug. 25.

Historic Saratoga fighting off challenges of the big New York tracks is getting to be old hat. A "Crucial" situation crops up every year or so. Now that a New York Racing Association spokesman has blandly asserted that there never was a law against it, you can look for more trouble for the Spa in future years.

Saratoga has had a colorful background and historical place in American horse racing, but it has been fighting for its existence for many years. In the days of wide open gambling halls, it was one of the nation's breeziest summer rendezvous. All that is gone now and only the legend remains.

And the legend that Saratoga was place unto itself was also rudely shattered by an irreverent Racing Commission figure who said it wasn't true that New York City tracks bowed in deference to Saratoga every year.

He was quoted as saying: "Saratoga is a track with a rich tradition and Belmont and Aqueduct shut down when they do just to get some rest."

They Stay in Print:

The horse people manage to keep their message before the gullible public on a year-round basis. Recent controversy over extension of racing dates clearly indicated that Roosevelt and Yonkers couldn't care less about the fate of Monticello Raceway. It took some strong rebuttal by Monticello's Frank Devlin to keep Roosevelt and Yonkers from throwing up competition against the Mighty M in key periods of the summer vacation season.

The Monticello people, meanwhile, keep moving toward loftier heights. They can point with pride to its greatest season ever during 1961 and 1962 promises a more abundant return to the stockholders.

For the fourth straight season, wagering and attendance figures topped in almost every department. And on the racing end more speed records were shattered than ever before at the Sullivan County track which opened its gates in 1958. In some instances, figures doubled over the inaugural meeting.
For example, betting soared to $27,852,286 as compared to $12,409,332 the first season.

Racing continued to be better and the $2 guy got a better run for his money. One of the features of 1961 was the debut of The Grand Circuit, a real status symbol, at Monticello during July.
Some of the best 2 and 3 year old horses went to the post in stake events like the Goldsmith Maid Trot, Excelsior Counterpart Trot and the Green Mountain Pace, to name a few.

Many Records:

Records were smashed almost nightly during the Grand Circuit week which was culminated by Tar Boy's blistering 1:59.4 mile on closing night. The hard hitting 6-year-old whipped the likes of Mr. Budlong, Caduceus, O'Brien Hanover and Sampson Direct in track record time.

The Free-for-All trotters were spotlighted in an August event.
The mighty Su Mac Lad did what a record crowd of 12,875 came to see him do — smash the track record for trotters. Stanley Dancer was aboard as the all-time great gelding carved out a 2:01.4 mile. The sport's greatest horse — Adios Butler — started the track's last month of racing in great style by touring the course in 1:59.2 in a time trial before a daytime crowd. Paige West drove while regular reinsman Eddie Cobb handled the promptner. These were the big highlights but there were other thrills.

Monticello established three new records: top crowd, on night, 12,875 on Aug. 12; top handle, one night, $576,233 on July 22; and top opening night attendance, 6,597, 1961.
Saratoga fades while Monticello blooms. The horse racing business is in wonderful condition. So long as man's gambling instincts endure — and they have for more than 2,000 years — the survival of horse racing is insured.

Ray's, Adolph's Score Easy Wins in Rec Basketball Loop

Easy victories were registered by Ray's Tackle Shop and Adolph's Tavern of Red Hook in the Recreation Basketball league Sunday night at the Municipal Auditorium.

The Tackle Shop smothered Trailway Cafeteria, 85-37, and Adolph's swamped Hub Delicatessen, 69-25, in the other contests. The games were simply routs for the winning clubs.

Balance was the keynote in the Tackle Shop attack as five players were in double figures. Joe Klonowski led the way with 20 points while Chick Boice had 18, Ronnie Scheffel 15, Leo Armstead 13 and Bob Bondar 12. Bill DuBois and John Kelly rimmed 10 each for the losers.

Ray's had a comfortable quarter leads of 16-4, 34-21 and 56-29.

Eleven players saw action for the Red Hook squad and every one of them dented the scoring column. Bob Moul and Don Conn had 14 markers each and Ronnie Miller had 12. Al Short's 17 paced the Delicatessen.

Quarter scores in this one were 20-5, 31-7, 53-15. The losers managed to make only 10 baskets and Short had seven of them.

McNeeley, Cooper Are Hoping To Win in Comeback Efforts

Heavyweights Tom McNeeley Jr., of Arlington, Mass., and British champion Henry Cooper, who were flattened in key fights last month, start their comebacks this week.

McNeeley, who tasted his first defeat when he was bounced out by heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson in the fourth round at Toronto, Dec. 4, begins anew to-night at Providence, R.I. He takes on a former sparring partner, Don Prout of Providence, in a 10-round.

Cooper, the British and British Empire titleholder, lost a June crack at Patterson when he was knocked out in the second round.

Welterweight contenders Federico Thompson of Argentina and Luis Rodriguez of Cuba clash in the television-ABC, 10 p.m. EST —10-rounder at New York's Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

Each has a modest victory streak going. Thompson, 35, has won four straight for a 106-8-9 won-lost-draw record. Rodriguez, 25, has taken his last three fights to boost his record to 40-2.

Grapplers from the Otisville Training School For Boys stopped Saugerties, 31-13, in a match Saturday at the SHS gym.

Freezing Rain Slicks Roads in Some State Areas

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Freezing rain and drizzle slicked roads today in New York State, and numerous schools were closed.

The Weather Bureau said that the downfall would taper off to snow flurries tonight and that flurries or snow would dot sections Tuesday amid temperatures in the 20s and 30s.

The schools closed were primarily in central and northern New York.

Loses Hat, Life

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A hat cost Percy Fisher his life Sunday.

Fisher was riding in a car when it crossed a bridge over a creek. The wind blew his hat into the creek. Fisher went in to retrieve the hat and drowned.

Weather Picture Up to Saturday

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Extended forecasts, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau, for the period from 7 p.m. today to 7 p.m. Saturday.

Eastern New York—Seasonably cold most of the week with no extremes indicated. Temperatures averaging around normal levels. The next general precipitation period is expected toward the end of the week, with daily snow flurries over the mountain terrain.

Western New York—Temperatures will average near normal. Colder Tuesday and Wednesday. Warmer Thursday then colder last of the week. Precipitation will average ¼ to locally ¾ of an inch, melted, in occasional periods of snow or snow flurries.

Temperature Normals—Normal temperatures range from daytime highs of 25-33 to nighttime lows of 5-10 north and 10-18 south.

Says Boss Rule Ends

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Rep. Samuel Stratton, who may be the next Democratic candidate for governor, says the day of the political bosses has passed in New York State.

The trouble is, added the Schenectady congressman Saturday, there are some people "who haven't found this out yet."

Stratton didn't mention any names in his speech before a Chamber of Commerce dinner.

The congressman, along with Mayor Wagner of New York City, has called for the resignation of State Democratic Chairman Michael Prendergast.

JAYCEE WEEK DECLARED—Supervisor Peter Williams, center, signs proclamation declaring Jan. 21 to 27 as Jaycee Week. Looking on are Richard Cyr, internal vice president of Saugerties Junior Chamber of Commerce and John Fitzpatrick, chairman of Jaycee Week. The local chapter which was chartered in 1956 with 38 members now has a membership of 60. Projects conducted by members during the year include July 4 celebration, repair to Finger Street Home and Boy Scout cabins, promotion of community college, Christmas decoration contest, Easter Egg hunt, outstanding citizen award and other civic and youth projects. Any man 21 to 35 years of age interested in joining may contact any local member or Joseph DeDomenico, president. Jaycees meet 8 p. m. very third Monday of the month at the Stonehill Hotel.

Plans Finalized For Man of Year Fete on Jan. 24

This is the last opportunity the Jaycees will have to invite the people of Saugerties to the banquet honoring the Man of the Year.

Donald S. Fellows, this year's recipient of the award, received recognition for his quiet but long-standing role in community affairs. During the past two decades, he has been the editor of the Catskill Mountain Star, a weekly newspaper which has remained candidly informative without ever resorting to sensationalism. He has also made it possible for local people to appreciate fine choral music in their own area, both on a spiritual and cultural level.

The testimonial dinner for Fellows will be held at the Flamingo Restaurant Wednesday, 7 p. m. Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson will be the guest speaker.

The Jaycee committee consisting of chairman Michael Catalinotto assisted by R. J. Messina and Floyd Perkins announced that the project was greeted with much interest and enthusiasm. Each ensuing year has brought a greater number of applications for the award. This year's nominations were also unusually well prepared and brought to light the surprising amount of effort poured into the community by its more active men.

As a result of the increased interest, the committee will recommend that this become an annual Jaycee project in Saugerties.

Korean War Vets Sign Petition For Bonus Plan

Over 40 Korean war veterans, together with many Legionnaires, were in attendance at the January meeting of Lamouree-Hackett Post No. 72, American Legion, of Saugerties, Thursday evening to hear about the American Legion Korean Bonus Program in New York State and to sign a Korean bonus petition.

Special speakers for the program were Saugerties Town Supervisor Peter Williams, Legion Post service officer and Saugerties Legionnaire and former County Commander Jack Lowther. Williams told the Korean veterans of the American Legion work in behalf of all veterans and their widows and dependents and of the constant fight to keep government in sup-

Over 100 Attend Open House Fete At Law Offices

Louis P. Francello and William D. Brinnier III, attorneys-at-law, were hosts on Saturday afternoon to hundreds of well-wishers at an open house in their new law offices in the renovated former John A. Snyder residence, 34 West Bridge Street.

One of the highlights of the opening was the presentation of a portrait of Miss Emma Maxwell at the age of 16 and her brother William which was painted in Philadelphia in the year of 1864 by an unknown artist and restored by the noted portrait artist, Paul Arndt of Woodstock. The restoration was completed after four months of exacting artistry by Arndt, who recently created a portrait of the former Court of Appeals Judge John T. Loughran which now hangs in the Ulster County Court House.

Miss Maxwell, who later married Samuel Adams of Saugerties, was the mother of the late Mrs. John A. Snyder and of Mrs. Elizabeth Davis of this village, the grandmother of Mrs. Fabian Russell and Mrs. Robert A. Snyder, and the mother-in-law of Mrs. Carry Adams, all of Saugerties.

An inspection of the portrait shows a startling family resemblance between Mrs. Adams and her great-granddaughter, Mrs. William Brinnier, the former Sally A. Russell. Mrs. Adams, who died in 1916, was also the great-grandmother of Robert S. Russell of Saugerties.

port of disabled veterans. Lowther gave a history of the American Legion and the local Post from its start in 1919. Legion Commander Roy Helmsmoortel welcomed the Korean veterans on behalf of Lamouree-Hackett Post and urged them to join the Legion and help the local Post with its youth activities, civil defense work and other activities of the community.

Following the meeting a petition was signed and forwarded to the American Legion, Department of New York, for formal presentation to the State Legislature on behalf of all Korean veterans later this year.

A roast beef dinner was served by the Legion kitchen police crew under the direction of Mickey McCormick.

Youth Council To Be Run by Teenage Group

The Saugerties Youth Council which has been an adult group who sponsored and supervised programs for the young people of the area had a reorganization meeting Saturday night with the result that the young people will now take over and plan their own activities with the adults assuming an advisory position on the council.

Richard Benjamin presided at the meeting which included the election of the following officers: Donald Kaminski, president; Vernon Benjamin, vice president and Glen Myer, Secretary-treasurer.

Members elected to the board of directors were Jeff Zindell, John Mullany, Raymond Penney, John Freigh, Joe O'Neal, Raymond Newkirk, John Morgan, Ronald May and Gary McKenney.

Three girls will be nominated and elected to the board at next Saturday night's meeting following the basketball game.

Current activities of the council is the sponsoring of basketball games every Saturday beginning at 6:30 p. m. followed by dancing until 11 p. m. The games are scheduled through March 31, with an additional game and dance set for Wednesday Feb. 21, the night before a school holiday.

The council also sponsors the ice skating rink opposite the Main Street school. Future plans call for a girls' basketball team, volleyball, soft ball and swimming teams, plus a few dances and song fests. Although some teenagers attend he programs, there is an urgent need for more adults to chaperone the events.

Biddy League Game To Aid Dimes March

A Biddy League basketball game for the benefit of the New March of Dimes will be played Wednesday 7 p. m., in the Municipal Auditorium, between the Pistons and the Lakers. No admission will be charged but donations may be made to the campaign, currently being carried on by the American Legion Auxiliary.

Rodney Lemon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Lemon of Blue Mountain, the Saugerties Post Boy for 1962, and Miss Sara Imhoff, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Frederick Imhoff, the Girls State representative of 1961 for the auxiliary, will be present to aid in the evenings program.

Saugerties Man Faces Leaving Scene Charge

A Saugerties man reportedly involved in a collision with the rear of a taxi Sunday night was charged with leaving the scene of an accident and must appear before Saugerties Village Police Justice G. Thomas Rea Jr. at 6 o'clock tonight, village police reported.

Patrolman Edward Sweeney reported that Thomas D. Nagel, 36 of 396 Main Street, Saugerties was arrested following the accident when his 1959 white station wagon was discovered on lower Montgomery Street and unable to move due to extensive damage to its front end. According to village police, George W. Fisher, operator of Bud's Taxi reported to Patrolman Sweeney that a white station wagon rammed into the rear of one of his taxicabs parked in front of his taxi station on Partition Street. The station wagon backed up and left the scene down Montgomery Street, Fisher told police. No one was reported injured. The mishap occurred at 10:20 p. m.

Business Group Will Discuss '62 Program

Committee reports will be submitted and the purchase of a new parking lot will be discussed at the annual meeting of the Central Businessmen's Association to be held Tuesday at 8 p. m. at the Midtown Restaurant, Broadway and Downs Street.

All merchants, retailers, businessmen and other interested persons are urged to attend. Plans for the ensuing year will be formulated.

Restaurant Unit Fights Beer Sale At Cornell Univ.

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—The continued sale of beer and an application for the sale of liquor in the student union building at Cornell University was under the fire today of the Tompkins County Hotel & Restaurant Association.

"The granting of any new license or extension of a beer license will make it even more difficult for these places already licensed to continue operation," the association said Saturday in a letter of protest to Gov. Rockefeller, a trustee of Cornell.

The university has applied for an extension of a beer license it has held for many years for Willard Straight Hall. Cornell also seeks a license to serve cocktails, wines and liquors at meals in a dining room in the hall. There would be no bar service, the university said in its petition.

Wreckage Of Bomber Is Found No Present Sign Of Jet's Crewmen

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Search parties battling winds and ice on a towering Adirondack mountain today reached wreckage of an Air Force B47 jet bomber that crashed six days ago.

There was no immediate sign of the bomber's four crewmen.

The parties found pieces of the plane on 5,114-foot Algonquin Peak, less than half a mile from Wright Peak, where a major portion of the plane was sighted from the air Sunday.

Trying Time

"We can hardly stand it with all the ice and wind," Forest Ranger John Hickey of Keene radioed from the mountain.

Hickey had led one of four groups that assaulted the mountain at dawn today from different directions.

Clouds Cover Area

Clouds shrouded the mountains and cut visibility to about 1,000 feet. State Police reported. A light rain fell.

The search parties used two-way radios to maintain contact with search headquarters at Adirondack Lodge, where Air Force Col. John B. Holst was in charge.

Forest rangers and State Police joined Air Force troops in the search.

Winds, sometimes in 50-mile-an-hour gusts, and deep drifts drove the searchers back last night.

The bomber, based at Plattsburgh Air Force Base, disappeared last Tuesday. It reported by radio at 2 a.m. that it was over Watertown 105 miles west of McIntyre Mountains, of which Wright Mountain is a part.

Mention Possibility

A base spokesman said it was possible the chutes had been ejected and opened when the plane crashed since the chutes (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Postal Rate Bill Is Set for Final Action Wednesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Major action is scheduled this week on the floor and in committees of both the Senate and the House.

A postal rate bill comes before the House Tuesday with a final vote likely Wednesday. It would add a penny to the cost of mailing a letter.

The postal rate increase measure technically has been on the House docket since last summer. It would add about $550 million to postal revenues. An administration-backed amendment likely to be approved would raise the extra income to $621 million.

Most of the extra revenue would come from a one-cent hike in first class and air mail rates, with lesser amounts from higher rates for second and third class—news, papers, magazines and bulk mail.

The House Ways and Means Committee has started the final round of work on the President's bill to tighten up some taxes and to give business a billion-dollar incentive to modernize. The measure is expected to be ready for a House vote next month.

Meany's View on Unemployment:

Kennedy Barely Touching Basic Problem About Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany said today the Kennedy administration lacks "a sense of urgency" in dealing with the problem posed by the nation's four million unemployed.

Meany opened an AFL-CIO legislative-economic conference attended by 500 union delegates who were to hear also from Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Meany said that while President Kennedy was right, in terms of production and economy growth, in saying recovery is proceeding reasonably well, it is also true that "we have barely touched the basic problem of jobs."

The union leader added in a prepared text:

"We have a solemn duty to remind the President—and the Congress—that the recession is not over and done with when four million Americans can't find jobs, when other millions are working only part-time, and when almost a million more who want to work don't even bother to look for the chance."

40 Below at Bozeman, Mont.

North-Central Sector, Hit by Cold and Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Bitter cold again blanketed wide sections of the north-central portion of the country today.

At Bozeman, Mont., the temperature at 2 a.m. was -40 degrees. Butte, Mont., and Rawlins, Wyo., had -34 and Denver -14.

More snow fell over the north-central portions. Some higher elevations reported up to 18 inches of new snow.

Temperatures on the Pacific Coast ranged from the 20s to the 30s in the central and northern portions, and in the 30s and 40s in the south.

In the Southwest, readings were mostly in the 40s and 50s, and from zero upward in the upper Mississippi Valley. In the New England states, temperatures in the teens and 20s; in the 40s and 50s along the southern Atlantic coast and in the 60s and 70s in Florida.

Freezing Rain

Rain and freezing drizzle fell over a band about 200 miles wide from northern Texas northeastward into southern Illinois and Indiana.

A huge mass of snow—estimated at more than 200,000 tons—slid down Colorado's highest mountain Sunday, engulfed four houses and killed at least six persons at Twin Lakes, a central Rocky Mountain village about 140 miles southwest of Denver.

Nearly two inches of rain fell late Sunday and early today at West Plains, Mo., and 67 at Harrison, Ark.

Portions of California were slowly returning to normal after a rare wintertime melange of weather.

First Snow in 30 Years

San Francisco had its first measurable snowfall in 30 years.

ranging up to three inches. It was the heaviest snowfall since 1887. In the coldest portion of Northern California, the temperature dipped to 15 degrees.

The finals of the Bing Crosby pro-amateur golf tournament on California's Monterey Peninsula, were postponed 24 hours because of snow, rain, sleet and hail.

Heavy fog blanketed sections of Texas Sunday, closing many airports and causing heavy traffic problems. Six deaths were attributed to the weather in traffic accidents. The temperature dropped 30 degrees in three hours early today at Fort Worth.

Two Face Charges In Gun Incident, Surmise Stabbing

An antique revolver, which, as indicated in statements to the police, was not expected to discharge, did so in the midst of a husband-wife quarrel here Saturday night with the bullet grazing the chest of the husband and the incident resulting in charges against both.

Local police today also continued probe of an apparent knife wound suffered by a downtown man in a Canal Street house, Leroy Williams, 31, of 280 North Street, the reported victim is recovering at Kingston Hospital from a stomach wound, and his condition today was reported fair.

Apparent Dare

The small, 22 calibre antique revolver, owned by Robert Albert Loeffler, 36, of 109 South Manor Avenue, police were told, was discharged by his wife after he had apparently dared her to do so.

The wife, Lillian Loeffler, 36, was charged with second degree assault and with illegal discharge of a firearm in the city, and he was booked on a charge dealing with illegal possession of firearms.

Both Plead Innocent

Both pleaded innocent today before City Judge Joseph D. Saccoman through Attorney Joseph D. Hill and hearing was put over to Jan. 29. Ward Ingalsbe appeared for the district attorney's office. She is under $2,500 bail on the assault charge, and he was released in his own recognizance.

Detectives William Slover and Albert Hutton with Acting Detective Floyd Krom investigated the incident. Officers Frank Stip and Thomas Kearney were also dispatched to the house immediately after the call to police headquarters.

Two Quarrel

Police were told that the two had argued in the afternoon, and another tiff followed at night after he had reportedly stayed too long on a trip to a store. He reported going to the bedroom and mentioned her having said something indicating she wished he were dead.

It was then, police were told, that he went to the closet and got the antique revolver. It was said to be patented in 1846. He said he was on the bed when the revolver discharged and he did not realize at first that the (Continued on Page 6, Col. 4)

President Claims Nation Meets '61 Recovery Aims

Italy Makes Strong Protest Over Plane And Power Cameras

BARI, Italy (AP)—Italy strongly protested to Bulgaria the flight of a Communist supersonic jet carrying high-powered cameras over a secret Allied missile base near Bari, and Italian newspapers today raised the cry: "a new U2?"

The young Bulgarian air force pilot, dragged in tears from his wrecked plane, asked not to be turned over to Bulgarian consular officials, implying he was making a break for freedom.

Counter-intelligence agents were skeptical of his story and studied exposed film found in the Soviet-built MIG19. Officials pointed out that if he was defecting, he passed up several chances to land at Italian air fields before his plane crashed.

Two Low Passes

The armed fighter made two low-level passes over the missile base at Gioia del Colle—a new, closely guarded NATO installation—before slamming to the ground in a field Saturday only 2,000 yards from the base.

The Bulgarian consulate in a statement said the pilot, 2nd Lt. Miluse Solakov, 22, lost his way on a training flight in fog. It demanded the return of Solakov and the plane. The crash was 400 miles from his base in central Bulgaria.

Premier Amintore Fanfani conferred at length with Foreign Minister Antonio Segni Sunday and then sent a protest to the Bulgarian minister in Rome, Constantin Micev, charging violation of Italian air space.

The young pilot, who suffered only a fractured left arm and scalp wounds was held under heavy guard in a hospital at Acquafredda, a small town 16 miles south of Bari.

Make Comparison

Italian newspapers compared Solakov to American spy pilot Francis Gary Powers whose U2 plane was downed over the Soviet Union in May 1960. That brought an international uproar which Premier Khrushchev used to wreck the Paris summit conference later.

Powers was sentenced to 30 years' imprisonment on spy charges by a Soviet court, and one Rome newspaper urged today that the Italian government be just as severe with Solakov.

Pick Up Flight

Military sources said the missile base's radar picked up a flight of Bulgarian planes—four to eight—swinging in over Italy from across the Adriatic at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Solakov was tracked as he peeled off from the rest and then flashed low—possibly attempting to elude the radarscope—over the Italian countryside.

Existence of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization missile base at Gioia del Colle was barely known outside military circles and newspapers have carried no details about the installation.

Farm Laborer Is Wounded; Other To Face Charges

A 45-year-old Marlboro farm laborer was critically wounded early Sunday, and another laborer was arrested on a first degree assault charge, after a quarrel in a shack on the Nick Affuso farm, Hampton Road, Marlboro.

Highland State Police said Asa Herring was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, after he was shot in the head with a 20-gauge shotgun at about 12:02 a.m. Sunday.

Troopers arrested Alvin Williams, 42, a laborer employed on the Affuso farm, on a first degree assault charge. He was committed to the Ulster County jail, pending further investigation.

A spokesman at St. Luke's Hospital said shortly before noon that Herring's condition was listed as critical.

According to authorities Williams and Herring lived in a shack on the Marlboro farm, and late Saturday night engaged in an argument. Williams, troopers said, fired the shotgun through a hole in a partition and wounded Herring.

Highland troopers and Marlboro authorities investigated.

Woman Prominent in GOP Nationally to Speak Here

The assistant chairman of the Republican National Committee, Mrs. Clare B. Williams of St. Petersburg, Fla., will be the principal speaker at the annual Lincoln Day Dinner, sponsored by the Ulster County Women's Republican Club, it was announced over the weekend. The dinner, scheduled for Monday, Feb. 12 at 7:30 p.m., will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel and tickets are available from all members of the committee. It was announced by the co-chairman of the dinner, Mrs. Walter Caunitz and Mrs. Frederick H. Stang.

Mrs. Raymond LeFever of Bloomington will be toastmaster at the banquet. She also is chairman of the publicity committee. Others assisting in the preparations include: Mrs. David Corwin of New Paltz, publicity; Mrs. Abel Ellsworth, tickets; Mrs. John Salapatis, hostesses; Miss Alice Scarfield, decorations.

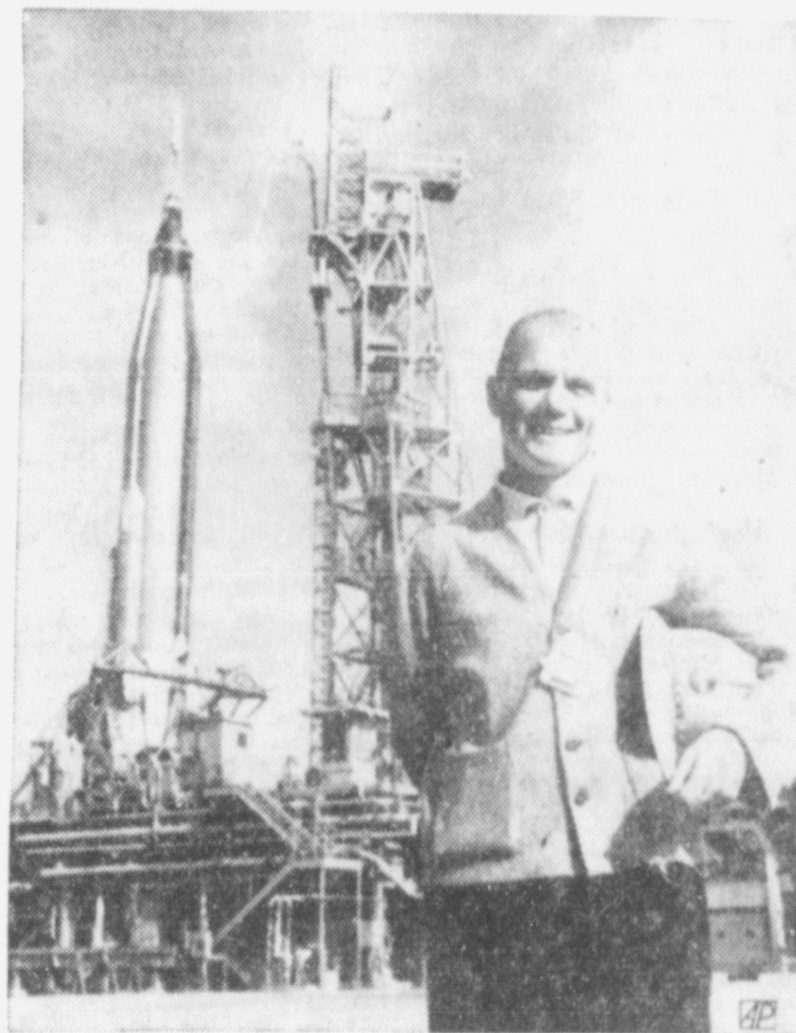

Mrs. Williams, the former Clare Brown, a native of Syracuse and a 1931 graduate of Syracuse University has risen from precinct worker to her present post as the nation's top GOP woman official since 1950. She has served under three Republican chairmen.

She was first appointed assistant chairman in 1958 by then chairman, Meade Alcorn. Sen. Thurston Morton re-named her to the post in 1959 and the current chairman, Congressman William Miller of New York, re-appointed her last June.

MRS. CLARE B. WILLIAMS

In May 1959, Mrs. Williams received the George Arents Medal, highest alumni award offered by Syracuse University for "excellence in public affairs." She retired as a teacher and subsequently merchandising executive shortly after her marriage to the late Frank E. Williams, St. Louis, Mo., lawyer. When he retired from practice in 1948 they moved to St. Petersburg, where she resumed an active participation in politics. Her husband died in 1957, but she continued to reside in St. Petersburg. She has been Republican National Committeewoman for Florida since 1956. She was re-elected in 1960.

Entire Control Panel Removed

Spacecraft Troubles Delay Glenn 2nd Time

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —United States' plans to send astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., three times around the earth were postponed a second time today, probably until next Saturday.

Reliable sources reported additional days were needed to completely check out faulty oxygen system in the environmental control system. This system, which feeds oxygen to the astronaut's pressurized space suit, developed problems during a checkout early today.

The discovery of the trouble prompted officials to call an immediate 24-hour delay of the shot, pushing it off from Wednesday until Thursday. Later, the sources reported, it was decided to make a complete check to insure all is right for Glenn's safety.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has not announced a definite date for the firing, and therefore declined comment on the report.

The trouble developed in a hard-to-get-at spot in the capsule and the entire control panel had to be removed so technicians could correct it.

This is the fourth postponement of the launching. It originally was set for Dec. 20 when officials felt there was a chance to achieve manned orbit flight in 1961. When this was deemed impossible, the shot was put off until Jan. 16.

Problems with the Atlas booster resulted in another week delay, and minor capsule difficulty pushed the launching back still another day.

Final Preparations

News of the postponement came as astronaut Glenn, like a superbly conditioned boxer closing out his training camp, began final preparations for the flight.

He was scheduled to make one more simulated orbit flight in a groundbased capsule and then go into a tapering off period. The final preflight days mostly will be (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

3 Are Drowned As Tug Goes Down In Seneca Lake

GENEVA, N.Y. (AP)—A tugboat carrying 1,600 pounds of cement slabs sank in Seneca Lake Saturday, carrying a diver and two other men on deck to their deaths.

Another diver, Patrick Appello, 36, of Jersey City, N.J., escaped through a cabin window and swam 150 feet to shore.

Appello said he was in the cabin removing his diving gear when the boat rocked violently and sank in 20 feet of water.

The victims were Patrick Kenney, 46, of Springfield, N.J., a skin diver; Roy Dacus, 47, of Irvington, N.J., a crane operator; and Ralph Morocco, 33, of Geneva, a laborer working his first day on the job.

$20 Million Marked for Albany

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Legislative leaders listed Gov. Rockefeller's $54-million deficiency budget for action in the Senate tonight despite growing criticism that $20 million earmarked for spending in the city of Albany should be used for tax relief or statewide needs.

The $20 million would be used to acquire sites for construction of office buildings in downtown Albany.

Some Upstate Republican lawmakers have complained about spending such a sum in this Democratic stronghold.

Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson, chairman of a state commission mapping ways to improve Albany, requested the money. He said Sunday that the funds were needed immediately so the commission could begin legal action to take over properties.

Any delay between the announcement of the sites and the beginning of actual acquisition could lead to land speculation, Wilson said.

Recession Defense Is Major Aim Spells Out Leeway About Tax Cutting

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy reported today the nation met its recovery aims in 1961, is making "another giant stride" toward full employment this year, and can attain a "staggering" $600-billion worth of production in 1963.

The time to erect a defense-in-depth against future recessions is this prospering moment, Kennedy told Congress in his economic report. It was the third and last of the major White House messages to the new session.

Names His Weapons

The antislump weapons needed, he said, are his twin plans—scurry greeted by most Republican Congress members—for standby presidential powers to cut taxes temporarily and unleash federal money for quick-acting public works.

Kennedy urged Congress to let him trigger up to $2 billion of lending, spending and matching funds into the works plan when joblessness reaches danger points which he defined.

He also spelled out for the first time how much tax-cutting leeway he wants—enough, he said, to throw $5 billion of new buying power into a faltering economy in six months, or, if extended with Congress' assent, $10 billion in a year.

Smaller Cut for Rich

The cuts he proposed would be up to 5 percentage points in each income tax rate bracket. That would mean a one-fourth tax reduction for the lowest taxpayer group, but considerably less, in proportion, for the higher-income families.

Further, Kennedy said, this Congress should:

Empower him to "negotiate a reduction in the tariff of the European Common Market" with a gradual lowering of U.S. duties.

Lengthen jobless benefits permanently and enroll three million new workers under unemployment insurance.

Enact promptly the pending 8 per cent investment credit for industry.

Other Aims

He also called for repeal of the Silver Purchase Act, aid to education at all levels, health care for the aged under Social Security, job training for idle youths and job retraining for out-of-work adults.

By STEPHEN M. AUG
TWIN LAKES, Colo. (AP) — A giant mass of snow slid down Colorado's highest mountain Sunday, sweeping over four houses, and snuffing out at least six lives.

Officials estimated more than 200,000 tons of snow plunged down the southern slope of 14,341-foot Mount Elbert in a 3½-mile run. It engulfed the western end of Twin Lakes, a central Rocky Mountain village 140 miles southwest of Denver. The avalanche was more than 300 yards wide and 15 feet deep.

One family was wiped out. G. L. Shelton, 36, his wife Marie, 40, their son Steve, 14, and daughters Linda, 9, and Vickie, 8, all perished.

Two Are Rescued

Two persons were rescued from the buried wreckage of their home. William Adamich, 35, and his wife Barbara, 30, were hospitalized in Leadville with frostbite and possible internal injuries. Their son Billy, 8, was found dead. Another son, Michael, 10, was missing.

The other two houses were vacant. About 600 persons worked more than six hours in the frigid mountain air probing the wreckage.

A neighbor, Neils Lindstone, 66, said that when he awoke at 8 a.m. (Continued on Page 6, Col. 4)

Fair Dates Set, Officers Elected By Farm Society

C. Chester DuMond Jr., of Ulster Park was re-elected president of the Ulster County Agricultural Society at its annual meeting Friday afternoon. The society sponsors the Ulster County Fair each year.

Edmund R. Bower, retiring as Ulster County 4-H Club Agent next week, was elected as a director of the fair to fill the place vacated by Ray A. Elmdorf. Other directors re-elected for a term of three years were Mrs. William E. Powers, Pratt Boice, Robert Coy, Raymond V. O. DuBois and Albert Kurdt.

Other officers elected for 1962 were Harry J. Beatty and Bower, vice presidents, Pratt Boice, treasurer and Albert Kurdt, secretary.

The dates of Aug. 15 and 16 were chosen for the 1962 County Fair at Forsyth Park. The next meeting of fair officers and department superintendents will take place early in March at which the premium list for the 1962 fair will be revised and approved. In 1961, $9,310.75 were paid out to individual competitive exhibitors in the 10 departments of the fair.

Hornell Man Heads Highway Engineers

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Robert Andrews of Hornell today was elected president of the New York State Association of Highway Engineers.

Andrews succeeds Donald Mulaney of Albany.

Other officers chosen at a meeting of association directors: Merrill Rightmeyer of Syracuse, vice president; Russell Lewis of Rochester, secretary, and Edward Piel of Binghamton, treasurer.

The three-day meeting ends Tuesday.

Paintings on Display

Members of the Ulster County Art Association are currently exhibiting paintings in the Stuyvesant Hotel at the invitation of the management.

The group has been exhibiting for several years at Leher's Restaurant, Boulevard, and will continue to display paintings there. With the funds realized from commissions on sale of paintings, the association hopes to build a scholarship fund for art student graduates from local high schools.

Former Monarch Weds

VEVEY, Switzerland (AP) — Ex-King Simeon II of Bulgaria and Margarita Gomez Aceb y Cejuela, 27, a Spanish aristocrat, were married Sunday in Vevey's Russian Orthodox church.

Sentence Suspended

Gilbert Pigeon, 27, of Hewitt Place, charged with third degree assault early today by his wife, Patricia, was given a suspended sentence of 30 days in jail in city court. A police report early today also noted that a car driven by Pigeon had collided with the parked car of Leon C. Miller, of 171 Main Street, near that address. Pigeon said he had been forced to the right by another car. Officers Gerald Every and Thomas Kearney, investigated.

Explosion Rocks French Ministry; One Person Dies

PARIS (AP) — A heavy explosion jolted the French Foreign Ministry today, killing one person and wounding several. Hundreds of windows were shattered and a section of wall torn out.

A foreign ministry spokesman said the explosion apparently came from a booby-trapped automobile. He said the car snapped in half and set afire several vehicles parked in the courtyard near it.

Hot Ashes Cause Damage at Glenierie

Fire believed caused by hot ashes, damaged the front porch of the home of Ludwig M. Heidemann of Wildwood Lane, Glenierie Park shortly after 11 a. m. today.

According to Ulster Hose Company No. 5 officials it is believed that hot ashes taken outside and accidentally dropped on the porch caused it to become ignited. The heat of the blaze smashed a large picture window in the front room. Damage was not heavy according to a Ulster Hose spokesman.

Magistrates Meet

The regular monthly meeting of the Ulster County Magistrates Association will be held at the supervisors' rooms, Ulster County Court House, 8 p. m., Thursday. Officers for 1962 will be elected.

Wreckage Found

They were so close to the wing section. The Army pilot reported he was unable to find any other wreckage. It appeared that none of the trees was knocked down, the spokesman quoted the pilot as saying.

Crewmen aboard the Strategic Air Command jet were: 1st Lt. Rodney D. Bloomgren, 26, of Jamestown, N.Y., the plane commander; Melvin Spencer, 28, Tuscaloosa, Ala., and Albert W. Kandetski Jr., 25, Sunnyvale, Calif., and Airman 1st Class Kenneth R. Jensen, El Cajon, Calif.

President Claims

recovery will not be nipped off prematurely—as he said that of 1959 was—a tight-money policy.

The outlook for stable living costs is favorable, he assured Congress, if unions and industry will show statesmanlike restraint in pay settlements to avoid a spiral of wage and price advance.

The President said the country has achieved the immediate aims of the Kennedy administration, he set a year ago—to “recover” not from one but from two recessions—by starting the economy uphill and reducing joblessness while keeping price stability. “Confidence in the dollar has been restored,” he said.

Predicts $50 Billion

This year national output should rise about $50 billion above the $221 billion of 1961, he predicted, adding: “This would be another giant stride toward a fully employed economy.”

Kennedy disclosed he would have asked a tax increase to cover the steep rise in spending necessitated by last spring's Berlin crisis if the economy had been in better shape.

For the first time since the Truman administration, the annual economic message specified goals which, in the President's opinion, would accomplish the intent of the Employment Act of 1946. That law committed the government to policies which would maintain “maximum employment, production and purchasing power.”

Urgent Tonne

Any doubts that Kennedy means business about his antirecession program were dispelled by the serious and urgent tone of the message. On the tax-cutting, the pump priming and jobless pay proposals he said: “They will constitute the greatest step forward in public policy for economic stability since the (employment) act itself.”

The prime goal for 1963 is a 4 per cent unemployment rate, Kennedy said. He called this a “temporary target,” one-third below the present 6.1 per cent rate of joblessness.

Outlines Prosperity

With it, the President said, would come these record-breaking dollar measurements of prosperity:

Sixty billion dollars of before-tax business profits, as against $46 billion last year and a hoped-for $56 billion this year.

Some $320 billion in wages and salaries, against $280 billion in 1961.

About $600 billion worth of output of goods and services, far above last year's $521 billion and this year's anticipated $665 billion to $570 billion.

Kennedy stressed that while “the material gains are themselves staggering,” as blueprinted by his report, his goal for unemployment—down to 5 per cent by the end of this year, 4 per cent by mid-1963—were not the final objectives.

“We cannot afford to settle for any prescribed level of unemployment,” the message said.

He replied to the outcry already raised in Congress by the first mention of his standby tax and public work proposals in the State of the Union message. The revenue loss would be smaller than what a recession costs in pay and production losses and shrunken tax collections, he said. And Congress would write into the law the safeguards to protect its taxing power, he argued.

Temporary, He Says

“I am not asking Congress to delegate its power to levy taxes,” Kennedy added, “but to authorize a temporary and emergency suspension of taxes by the President.”

In the past three weeks, he has flown 60 theoretical flights, rehearsing every possibility that could be rehearsed, and in the process has landed in the Atlantic, Indian and Pacific Oceans, (hypothetically, that is).

He has trained intensively but after today's simulated orbit will go into a tapering-off period, lest he leave his fight in the dressing room. Second Man Is Found Dead at West Shore Hotel

A second man within two days was found dead at the West Shore Hotel, Railroad Avenue, Saturday afternoon.

Police were notified at 2:07 p. m. that William Grimm, 59, was found dead in a room there.

An investigation was made by Sgt. Bernard Fowler, Detective Charles McCullough with officers Gera'l Every and Edward Edwards, and by Coroner Michael A. Galletta, who ordered an autopsy, the full results of which, he said today, will not be known for a week or 10 days because of tests to be made in Albany.

Police said the man was found dead in the room by Mrs. James Taylor, wife of the operator of the hotel.

The funeral, with arrangements by the W. N. Connor Funeral Home, Inc., 296 Fair Street, will be held Tuesday at 10 a. m. Burial will be in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

Three sisters, Mrs. Edward Shaver, of Kingston; Mrs. Clarence Bonesteel, of Cobleskill and Mrs. John Dermody, of Kingston and several nieces and nephews survive. Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p. m. today.

Coroner Francis J. McCordie gave a verdict of suicide after Frederick Weber, 67, an unemployed baker, was found dead in a room at the hotel Friday afternoon. The coroner said he had poisoned himself with Paris green.

—subject to the checkrein of Congressional veto—in situations where time is the essence.

The tax cut “would remain in effect six months, subject to revision or renewal by the same process”—that is, by presidential action, subject to veto—or extension by a joint resolution of Congress.

In equivalent detail Kennedy spelled out his request for power to “accelerate and initiate” up to $2 billion of works projects when unemployment is rising.

The President could act, under this plan, within two months after the unemployment rate (1) had risen in at least three out of four months and (2) had risen at least 1 percentage point higher than its level four months earlier. These time periods could be lengthened if Congress preferred, the message indicated.

Before taking action, the President would have to make a finding that “current and prospective economic developments” required such measures, under the Employment Act.

His proposals for bolstering jobless pay were familiar in the main, having been laid before Congress last year and modeled after the temporary measures taken by Congress in the last two recessions.

Kennedy suggested “incentives” for the states to improve their jobless benefits, so that most idle workers would receive at least half their average weekly wage. Kennedy suggested that Congress “will wish to examine carefully” proposals for removal of the ceiling on the federal debt and the 4 1/2 per cent ceiling on the interest rates on Treasury bonds. But he did not directly ask their removal.

However, in his budget message Kennedy asked that the “temporary” debt ceiling be boosted to $308 billion. The debt now is pushing against the present limit of $298 billion.

Jammed in Space Ship Glenn Must Watch 164 Instruments

By BEM PRICE
CAPE CANAVERAL, FL. (AP) — When astronaut John Herschel Glenn Jr. takes his trip through the dark of space he will travel capsule class.

It's an expensive way to travel, though the quarters are cramped. His new space ship, built by the McDonnell Aircraft Corp. of St. Louis, cost $5 million.

Glenn is scheduled to make the trip around the world strapped to a special rubber-padded fiberglass couch especially contoured to fit his 165-pound frame.

On his journey the native of New Concord, Ohio, will scarcely have elbow room since his bell-shaped sky cabin is only six feet in diameter across its base and stands nine feet high.

Space Capsule Jammed
At lift-off the whole thing will weigh 4,200 pounds. As it travels along it will jettison equipment no longer needed and when it is once more upon the earth, it will weigh 2,400 pounds.

Li. Col. Glenn of the Marine Corps is going to be a busy man. His capsule is jammed with 164 instruments, lights and switches. He will have to keep a sharp eye on all of them, even with the aid of mirrors strapped to his wrists.

All these gadgets can be operated from the ground or manually by Glenn.

There is a 165th switch which only Glenn can operate. Until he closes that particular switch, the Atlas booster destined to lift him skyward cannot be lit. This is known to the astronauts as the "chicken switch."

Uses 18 Small Jets
Glenn will be launched into orbit with the small end of the capsule pointed forward. Once in orbit, Glenn will swing his capsule through a 180-degree arc, using 18 small jets loaded with high pressure hydrogen peroxide.

He will also swing his capsule around from time to time, while passing across the night-shaded part of the earth to take a look at the stars. The time for each of the three planned orbits of the globe will be about 90 minutes.

In brief, Glenn will spend most of his trip looking toward where he has been instead of where he is going.

Will Use Periscope
Glenn will be able to see the earth and stars through a "picture window" measuring 11 inches across the base and seven inches across the top. It is 19 inches high.

He will also have a periscope with which he can sweep the horizon in a 360-degree arc and a picture will appear on his screen before his face.

Should something go wrong on the flight, a red light will appear on the instrument panel directly to his front and a buzzer will insistently claim his attention.

There are some 20 things Glenn can do to save his life at various points along his route. These life-saving devices can be activated from six of 18 ground tracking stations.

Speed Will Decrease
Once into orbit, Glenn is pretty safe, though his life support system must work perfectly. The capsule has two which can provide enough oxygen for 28 hours.

When the time comes to land, Glenn will fire a package of braking rockets attached to the blunt end of the capsule. His speed will drop from 17,500 miles per hour to 250 miles per hour in less than five minutes.

After the braking rockets fire, they, too, are jettisoned. At 21,000 feet a small parachute is deployed to slow the space craft even more.

At 10,000 feet, the 63-foot diameter main chute opens automatically (there are two in case one rips). If it doesn't work automatically Glenn can pop it out with a hand switch.

Upon touchdown a small radio begins sending out a signal for the recovery ships to home upon. There is a small auxiliary unit in the cabin which Glenn can use in event the automatic device fails.

If the capsule should spring a leak from the landing impact, Glenn can escape into the sea through a hatch in the neck of the craft.

Upstate Officials Act to Keep Firm At Present Plant

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Mayor Frank M. Dulan faced today the task of convincing the Kelsey-Hayes Co. that it should keep its Utica Drop Forge Division in suburban Yorkville instead of shifting operations to South Carolina. The plant has 400 employees.

He called a meeting of representatives of management, labor and civic officials to discuss the company's announcement that the operations would be moved, beginning next month, to Orangeburg, S.C.

In his announcement, W. Mason Williams, vice president and general manager of the division, said last Friday the decision to move South stemmed partly from a union refusal to take a pay cut, reportedly as much as 50 cents an hour. Another factor in the decision, he said, was the "economic condition" in Yorkville.

Neither Gov. Rockefeller nor the National Labor Relations Board was involved in the case, spokesmen for the governor and the NLRB said Sunday night.

A company spokesman has said wage scales at the Yorkville plant exceeded $3 an hour "while our competitors are paying $2.50 an hour."

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The problem of live television was graphically illustrated Sunday on ABC.

The network had reserved 90 minutes for the windup of Bing Crosby's annual Pebble Beach golf tournament. When the hour came, the weather—which also plagued last year's final—was putting on such a show of its own that after about a half-hour play was postponed until today. A film account of last year's British Open was substituted and all California climate braggards were silenced.

This reporter missed all the shots of snow, hail and sleet in sunny California because of a conflict in programs. NBC, at the time, was broadcasting a taped dramatization of a novel by Arthur Miller, "Focus."

Miller, of course, is the famous playwright. Obviously, if he believed "Focus" was the stuff that plays are made from, he would have written it as one. His story was transformed into a morality play, emotional and passionate. Although it was well-intentioned, it was a most uneven, unbalanced dramatic show.

"Focus" was the story of a fiercely anti-Semitic couple, acted by James Whitmore and Colleen Dewhurst, who themselves are suspected of being Jewish. A group of Nazi-type bullies tries to drive them from their home. They have a hard time finding jobs, even getting hotel accommodations.

The irony was obvious, but all the characters were either cruel bigots or weak bigots and there was no one to root for. The play certainly made its point about discrimination — which was Miller's idea in the first place.

The large number of audience-participation game and panel shows that dot TV network daytime schedules like freckles are popular not only because audiences seem to tune in in satisfactory numbers. They are also numerous because, in TV terms, they are the cheapest source of entertainment.

TV costs are closely held secrets. However, educated estimates put the production costs of the average daytime game show at around $2,500 — rarely over $3,000. That does not include the cost of buying network time.

Evening versions of daytime games are infinitely more costly. While NBC's daily "The Price is Right" costs about $2,900 a show, the once-a-week nighttime show budget zooms up to around $40,000.

Even so, an evening game or panel show—when it's a hit—is a big economy size package. The average evening half-hour filmed comedy has a production budget that runs between $50,000 and $60,000 per episode. The hour-long film dramatic series usually run between $110,000 and $125,000 each.

Recommended tonight: "Danny Thomas Show," CBS, 9-9:30—consistently among the most amusing family comedies.

Furnishing More Jobs Important, Hanover Declares

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The president of the state AFL-CIO said today that increasing the number of job opportunities was a more important goal for the 1960s than vocational training.

Harold C. Hanover, in a speech prepared for the annual State Legislative Institute of the National Council of Jewish Women, said "helping youth to acquire and improve skills will mean nothing unless they can find jobs."

Gov. Rockefeller announced a program for vocational training of young people and for the unemployed.

But Hanover said these efforts would not solve what he called the fundamental economic problem of stagnation and recession of recent years.

"A comprehensive program of economic and social reform, including tax cuts, increases in public works, better social security, federal aid to education and improved monetary and fiscal policies are essential," he said, "to wipe out large-scale unemployment, and satisfy our needs for skilled manpower."

Father Brennan Dies

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — The Rev. Gerald T. Brennan, a Roman Catholic parish priest whose books for children sold more than 500,000 copies, died of cancer Saturday in St. Mary's Hospital. He was 63.

Father Brennan, pastor emeritus of St. Bridget's Church, wrote a dozen children's books between 1938 and 1958.

Parley Is Slated In Church Merger

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP) — The author of a plan to merge four major Protestant denominations with a combined membership of 19 million says he is optimistic about merger talks scheduled to begin in Washington April 4.

But, added the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, "we can't tell how far the talks will go."

Dr. Blake, stated clerk of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., originated the plan to combine his church with the Episcopal, Methodist and United Church of Christ churches.

"We've said that a 10-year period leading to the merger would be awfully good, and that appears to be the timetable," Dr. Blake said.

Worker Is Held In Man's Death

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Police today questioned a 23-year-old sanitation worker in the strangling last November of Samuel Yochelson, a door-to-door salesman.

Willis Bryant, a husky 230-pounder who lived in the neighborhood where Yochelson was last seen, had been the object of a two-day search, authorities said. Bryant called police Sunday and was arrested at the home of a relative.

The body of Yochelson, 46, was found in his parked car. Police believe he was robbed of more than $200 and dumped in the car.

GLIDING UP-TO-DATE

Ever since man first noticed birds, he has tried to imitate them. One of the first recorded attempts at human flight is told in the Greek tale of Icarus. His father Daedalus made Icarus a pair of wings, fastened on by wax. They worked until Icarus flew too high, when the wax was melted by the sun.

In mythical form this story seems to describe an early attempt at gliding. That has repeatedly been tried, jumping from hills in a high wind. These efforts to glide did not succeed particularly well, but that did not cramp human ambitions to emulate the birds. British aeronauts are even now trying their luck, aided by money grants from the Royal Aeronautical Society.

Two years ago a London manufacturer named Henry Kremer offered a $14,000 prize. The winner must lift himself and his flying apparatus off the ground, fly in a figure-eight pattern around points half a mile apart, and at all times keep at least 10 feet off the ground. No one has as yet claimed the reward.

In 1935 a German flew or glided for 257 yards, and two years later an Italian achieved 980 yards. Both adventures were launched by catapults. In the British case the problem is made harder by the necessity of lifting not only the man off the ground but his vehicle also. This must be heavier than air, no inflated wing planes or semi-balloons being accepted.

If some contrivance could create flight by wings alone, it would dispense with the problems of maneuvering a plane. That might be the solution for the man who wants to fly to work and back. Anyone have any ideas?

DEBATABLE DEBATE

President Kennedy appears to be throwing increased White House weight behind the idea of extending formal political debates from the presidential down to the mayoral level in future U.S. election campaigns.

Twice in recent weeks this notion has been encouraged, and evidently the President intends to push it hard.

One of his top political advisers has said that Kennedy's 1961 dip into the New Jersey governorship campaign was effective mainly because he fingered the Republican nominee's refusal to debate his winning Democratic opponent.

However that may be, it seems plain that hand-to-hand debates will loom larger in political combat from now on.

The President long ago signified his willingness to debate his 1954 Republican opponent. If such a confrontation comes about, the precedent for continuing the practice will be strong.

White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said in a recent speech that major candidates for office at all levels owe it to the voters to submit their views to the debating test.

Some observers raise the question, however, whether a widened emphasis on debate may not give voters a distorted, or at least incomplete view of many candidates.

The Salinger reply is that a candidate has to be "much more than a good debater" to impress the public in such encounters, especially if they occur under the gaze of television cameras.

This may be true enough. But it may also be true that a man who comes off as a very poor debater may have a difficult if not impossible time getting across any compensating characteristics of importance in the office he seeks.

There is another matter. Politicians being of all types and temperaments, they will not easily submit, in many cases, to the formal rules which debate demands.

Some past efforts were debates in name only, slipping quickly into old-fashioned political harangues. In other cases, though the rules were followed, the net result was empty, wooden and dull.

Furthermore, even at their best, political debates leave the listening voters with one almost insurmountable handicap: they have no fool-proof way of determining the

'These Days'

THE RADICAL RIGHT

Everybody who can read is an expert about something; whoever can write regards himself as an outstanding authority. In fact, when it comes to Russia and Communism, the experts and authorities grow so numerous that one wonders whether there is any literate person who did not ghost-write for Lenin and Stalin!

However, there are a few who do know what they are talking about. They have a long background; they can read in languages other than English; they have a clear knowledge of terminology; they are of sufficient stature not to be inclined to bluff. Among those whose judgement as well as knowledge is to be relied upon is Eugene Lyons, a senior editor of the "Reader's Digest." Such a movement as Communism has much to do with words and ideas and Lyons has had at least 40 years of intimate knowledge of this movement both in Russia and the United States. He has never been tempted to opportunism.

The new-come to a world-wide revolutionary movement is usually astounded by what he finds and having a naive background becomes absorbed by emotionalism. The Communist movement has not conquered so large a part of the Earth without a purpose, a plan, a method of operation. Excitement is no answer. What is required is cold study of problems. Those who rush into efforts, without knowledge or background but with enthusiasm and excitement, usually are so ridiculous that they assist the Communists and their allies to make headway.

Eugene Lyons has written an article for the "New Guard," the publication of the "Young Americans for Freedom" on the subject of "Anti-Communism and the Radical Right" which is thoughtful and significant and which separates his expert thinking from the nonsense of those who raise huge sums of money to fight Communism without knowing what it is and how it is to be fought. Lyons cites an example of the absurdities that develop among those who speak without study:

"Recently I heard a local Louisiana politician, on TV, inveigh against integration by Federal edict. Right or wrong, that was his privilege. But when he went on to denounce the whole business as a Moscow-engineered plot, he was indulging in crude and dangerous demagoguery. The fact that the Communists seek to exploit any difficulties in free countries, including racial conflicts, does not make them the authors of every crisis."

The "Extreme Right" is, of course, necessarily anti-Communist. It may also be serving some cause which could be subversive. It is necessary to analyze purposes and statements. When, for instance, it is discovered that the language of a Rightist organization is anti-Semitic, or anti-Negro or anti-labor union it is necessary to discover which is the motivating force, opposition to Communism or opposition to something else. And it must be discovered whether this is an idealistic cause or a money-making proposition. Those who accept money from one group to give the impression that they favor another cause, are wreckers who cannot be trusted and should be exposed.

Lyons says: "Conservatism includes anti-communism, but anti-communism decidedly does not include conservatism. It's in a different frame of reference. Our purpose, it seems to me, should be to enlist all genuine enemies of communism in the common cause, however they may disagree on other matters."

But no movement can accept those who join a cause for no other purpose than to earn a living thereby. It was a trick of the Communists in the 1930's to get jobs for those who were willing to associate with them. John Garfield once told me that the first step on the ladder of success for him in Hollywood was to be invited to dinner by Charlie Chaplin. But that ought not to be enough. One ought to believe sincerely in a creed or oppose it sincerely and the first evidence of sincerity is the effort to be knowledgeable.

In this country, back in the 1920's and 1930's there was a group of anti-Communists, among them conservatives and liberals, Republicans and Democrats, Jews and Christians who took the unpopular stand and were plagued for their effort. They fought hard and at great sacrifice. Eugene Lyons was one of them. A younger generation which is being led astray by emotional opportunists and money-grubbers would be wise to read Lyons' article and take guidance which comes from experience and wisdom.

Shun Toys Which Have

Built-In Accident Potential

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Useful advice about children's toys has been issued by the Accident Prevention Committee of the American Academy of Pediatrics.

Alarmed by the increasing numbers of accidental injuries, diseases and deaths due to mis-handling of toys, members have addressed themselves to importers and manufacturers of playthings as well as to parents and gift-givers. Here, in summary, are some of their suggestions for reducing childhood injuries and disabilities to an absolute minimum:

Don't buy a toy made with flammable material.

Don't give a child a toy made of lead or painted with a lead paint.

Don't choose a toy that is so flimsily put together it will fall apart the first time the child flings it to the ground.

Don't permit the child to play with a toy that has sharp edges that may gash the skin; so small it can be swallowed or, what is so much worse, get stuck in a youngster's windpipe. Or one that is made with small parts or that is fastened with screws that can be swallowed or inhaled.

Don't let the older child who has been given a model set that's stuck together with plastic cements play with the set in an overheated, underventilated room. He may suffer from fume inhalations.

Don't let the younger child mess around with toys that are of sufficiently small size to be poked into nose, ears or other body cavities. Or with toys whose stuffings can be pulled out and then inserted.

Don't give a heavy iron toy that the child might bang on its head or drop on its toes.

If you buy a cuddly toy, choose one made of foam or terry cloth (nonallergic)—one that is of rubber. If possible, get one that has a zipper so you can remove the stuffing when the outside is washed or sterilized.

And, last but far from least, teach the child to put toys away before he turns in for the night. You may save yourself or someone else in the house from a sprained ankle, a broken bone or a bump on the head.

truth, if any, in the rapid crossfire of claim and counterclaim which marks such combat.

So, valuable as the debate can be in helping measure candidates, it is far from being the perfect answer to the voter's dream.

Washington News

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

President Kennedy's new budget message makes more optimistic reading than most bad news about big bills. It is almost too good to be believable. It is a kind of "don't worry" budget. It doesn't ask for sacrifices from anybody.

No economic recession is expected for the period of the budget, which runs to June 30, 1963.

THE BUDGET WILL BE BALANCED three ways and you can take your pick. An administrative budget surplus of $500 million is promised, or a consolidated cash budget surplus of $1.8 billion, or a national income account surplus of $4.4 billion for the federal sector.

Federal expenditures are going up to a record peacetime high of $92.5 billion, $3.4 billion higher than for the present fiscal year. But this is going to be offset by increases in tax receipts from continued economic growth.

The national debt is expected to go up another $10 billion to $295 billion this year, but it will come down next year, the message says. Charts accompanying the text would have you believe that the national debt is nothing to get alarmed about anyway.

BUDGET EXPENDITURES as a per cent of the gross national product have been going down gradually since 1952 — with the exception of the 1959 recession bump. And national debt as a per cent of the gross national product has been declining from the 130 per cent peak of 1946 to only 50 per cent now.

The only government expenditures which the President says will come down are for agricultural programs, the postal deficit and temporary unemployment insurance. Congress can of course block all three of these cuts.

Items on which government expenses are going to go up, as listed by the President, are far more numerous.

National defense expenditures—to which no one will object—go up by $1.5 billion. This includes the new Civil Defense shelter program to cost $700 million.

Space research and exploration go up $900 million.

Expenditures for conservation and national resources will go to a record high of $2.3 billion. This will include 43 new water resource projects to cost $600 million.

THERE WILL BE increased expenditures for redevelopment of depressed areas and an expanded training program for unemployed workers in those and other areas.

Health, education and welfare expenditures will go up $800 million if the president's new programs pass. Substantial increases in public assistance are proposed.

Practically all military and civilian government employees are promised pay raises beginning Jan. 1, 1963, with the higher brass getting the biggest raises, of course.

All these things are supposed to be covered by the expected increase of $11 billion in tax collections.

The President anticipates they might go still higher, creating an even larger budget surplus, which would be lucky.

BUT IF, ON THE OTHER HAND, says the message, "the economic recovery unexpectedly halts or is reversed, revenues would fall below the current estimates and a deficit would inevitably result, moderating the economic slowdown."

Kennedy's Success in Poll: How and Why of the Rating

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The latest Gallup Poll is the talk of the town. It isn't merely because the rating at the end of the first twelve months is higher for President Kennedy than it was for the last three Presidents after their first year but because of a peculiar emergence of what was referred to as a religious factor in the last campaign.

For the poll shows that 88 per cent of the Catholics manifested approval as contrasted with 73 per cent of the Protestants.

Just why Catholics should differ from Protestants in their appraisal after the first year of a President who happens to be a Catholic is not explained, especially since it has been taken for granted recently in political circles that Mr. Kennedy had alienated many of his supporters among Catholics because of his adamant opposition to Federal aid to private or parochial schools.

Perhaps the key is to be found in a natural pride among Catholics that President Kennedy has shown himself to be a man of sincerity and earnestness in application to duty, and indeed this is doubtless one reason why among all voters he has attained a high rating in the Gallup Poll.

An Example
Thus, for instance, the poll shows that while 87 per cent of the Democrats expressed a favorable opinion of Mr. Kennedy, as many as 58 per cent of the Republicans and 75 per cent of the independents did likewise.

The question posed in the poll was: "Do you approve or disapprove of the way Kennedy is handling his job as President?" Many people who would say "yes" in answer might say the opposite if asked specifically whether in an election held right now they would cast their ballot for him. There's quite a difference between applauding a man's conscientious effort to perform the duties of the Presidential office and passing judgment on the specific steps a President has taken in domestic and international policy.

On the whole, as the citizen answers the Gallup Poll's question, he would be likely to give Mr. Kennedy an "A" for effort. The "way he has handled his job" could mean the image that the public has obtained of an earnest young man, anxious to learn while beset with a multitude of nerve-racking problems.

Internationally speaking, for example, Mr. Kennedy has certainly maintained the basic principles of American foreign policy, though it remains to be seen how he will eventually deal with the Cuban problem.

No Appraisal Yet

On domestic issues, Mr. Kennedy has hardly had a chance yet to mark out his course. Many of the recommendations he has made are subject to criticism, but the public generally is not aware of the pitfalls of his economic policies. They will be only if such policies bring on another recession and more unemployment.

Business men who know from experience the consequences that may flow from some of the unsound theories which Mr. Kennedy has accepted from the hands of his advisers would rather wait a year or more before coming to conclusions about the Kennedy administration. They still can't believe he will swallow the economic fallacies that characterized the New Deal's 7-year failure to "prime the pump" in the biggest depression in our history.

But, for all practical purposes, the Gallup Poll seems an accurate measure of the trend of public opinion as a whole. The favorable image which the country has of President Kennedy is largely due to one of the most powerful and comprehensive publicity campaigns ever undertaken by an American President. Not even Theodore Roosevelt and Franklin D. Roosevelt, who were masters of the ways of getting publicity, can compare with him. For Mr. Kennedy has a politician's conviction that a favorable press is nine-tenths of the battle for votes.

It should not for a moment be inferred from this that the press is slanted in its news reports. On the contrary, these have been as objective as could be desired. But the difference from the preceding administration is that Mr. Kennedy makes news that has to be reported—and so does his energetic wife, Youth is a novelty in the White House, and that in itself makes news. Every time such innovations as water-skiing or horse-back-riding are introduced or a new emphasis is given to arts and music, it makes news for the women's pages.

Keen Student

The President is a keen student of publicity. He doesn't ask anyone to commend him but merely to give his side a fair presentation. This is all that's really necessary, especially when the opposition is so weak, disorganized and unperceptive that it doesn't make enough news to offset the administration's efforts.

But granting that a favorable image of President Kennedy has been produced by the barrage of publicity he has gotten in his first year, it also can be traced to his policy of caution in international affairs—the branch of his job which has had much of the limelight in the last twelve months.

The time to judge a president is at the end of his term and not at the end of his first year. This writer recalls how William Howard Taft was inaugurated in March, 1909, after receiving the second largest electoral vote ever given a President up to that time, and enjoyed popularity during his first year. In fact, he was a likable personality anyway, but at the end of four years his party had split apart on economic issues, and his faction got only eight votes in the electoral college in his bid for re-election. It's more important always to know what the employment and economic condition of the country will be when a Presidential election rolls around. That's usually the key issue, and it had more to do with Nixon's defeat than is generally accepted by political observers.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

For years I have intended to write Congressman Barrett O'Hara, of Chicago, if only to stir some embers of his memory and mine, but incidentally to reconcile some conflicts of trivial historical fact. I doubt that we have ever met, but I know he was acquainted with my late father, Arthur James Pegler, a reporter of spectacular renown in the Twin Cities, Chicago, and at last, in New York. I was engaged in the dismal business of disposing of dad's "papers" the other day and one little memo told one of the greatest stories of his whole life of 98 years. It said that his severance pay from the New York Mirror, the last money he ever received from an employer, was $30 a week for six months, 3 years ago. That was the end. He had not been eligible for Social Security since his life work had ended too soon for him to qualify when he was weak in the legs and going blind. His entire estate is his Smith Premier doubledecker, invisible typewriter manufactured in 1894, the year I was born.

Congressman O'Hara is 79, just a squirt by comparison with my old man, but quite a gaffer alongside me. He has a reputation as a scrapper, but this includes the firecracker war in Cuba where nobody could possibly have run up a time-card of more than one eight-hour day in battle, although the cumulative pensions of some of those boys by now have amounted to thousands of dollars an hour. In the First World War he was a lawyer-officer, a fact that speaks for itself. However, I have heard that he would come out of his coat in the Steuben County Bar on Madison Street in Chicago during my youngling days when my dad, Jack Palmer, Charlie MacArthur, and Gene Cour, or Core, were formidable in dispute. Palmer was a handsome blackmouth Orangeman from Belfast, a photographer who fought with his plate-box in mass commotions but who enjoyed fighting any style. He liked to fight Catholics. He enlisted in the Canadian Black Watch in 1914 and I never saw him again. They all loved to fight.

Mr. O'Hara joined the Chicago American or the Chicago Examiner, both Hearst papers, and cock-eyed stepchildren in the family, in their infant years about 1905. My dad went on the American in 1904 and I began to hear about this O'Hara about 1910 when I was a cub with the United Press. In 1912, that crazy Theodore Roosevelt, jealous because President Taft would not step down for him, started his Bull Moose Party and split the Republican ticket just enough to elect Woodrow Wilson, throw us into the First War and lay the chunk for the damned United Nations among other horrors which are sensibly chargeable to that dizzy breed. It all goes to show that the people haven't got any sense.

O'Hara was a Joe Nobody with a $25 job on one of the Hearst sheets, and like all the micks of the yards, was into politics on instinct. Then the desk sent him to the Democratic State Convention as a reporter. Nomination as a Democrat that year was more like indictment because the Democrats seemed to be running just for the exercise until T. R. said he felt "like a bull moose." That term gave his party a name.

The way I heard it later, the Democrats were scanning the hall for a Democrat who was neither drunk at the time nor on parole, as their candidate for Lieutenant-Gov. under Edward F. Dunne, Governor, when this O'Hara kid jumped up and nominated himself. So they ran him and when the country went nuts in November, Barrett O'Hara went on the public payroll for life. And in 1913, O'Hara having a good snoot for publicity, put a bill through the Legislature to investigate "vice" in the Tenderloin, or levee district, on Dearborn and Armour Avenues from about 18th to 22nd Street on the South Side. This was an awful hell of dives and the proposition behind O'Hara's investigation was that the poor girls were not personally immoral but driven to a life of shame by poverty. Most of them undoubtedly are dead now.

The popular appetite for such testimony was well recognized by city editors and they gave the hearings a wild ride. Lieutenant-Gov. O'Hara became a famous reformer. But big advertisers which employed hundreds of girls as clerks became very, very sensitive so the Vice Commission made a report without naming names. Instead it used code and the custody of the code-book or "key," became a precious trust. We cubs in the reporters' room on the third floor of the City Hall on the Randolph Street side became sarcastic as the fire engines clanged up on Saturday nights and the gallant fire ladders shuffled through the corridors dragging hose to fires in the record storage vault near our room. We would sing "Oh, for the life of a fireman; I want to be perched on a hose-cart red; speak rough to the horses and cry 'go ahead' " as these fires continued in a series, always on Saturday night.

As far as my memory goes, that key never was printed and the district finally was put out of business forever by the great raid by John E. W. Wayman, the State's Attorney. This unhappy man, a strictly virtuous public official as far as my knowledge goes, later took his own life. I never heard why.

Vital Investment Rule:
Diversify to Spread Risk

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "I'm sure I should have written this letter before, and I only hope it's not too late now. Upon advice of my broker I put all my eggs into one basket — and I haven't slept too well since. I bought 500 shares of Spartans Industries at an average price of 45. I wanted to sell at least half when the stock reached 50, but my broker advised me not to. He says that after the next financial report the stock will go much higher. At this point I wish I shared his confidence. I would greatly appreciate any advice you can give as to this stock." — J. K.

A) The elder J. P. Morgan was once approached by a friend who said he couldn't sleep because of his large stock holdings. "What shall I do," he asked. "Sell down to the sleeping point," replied Mr. Morgan.

I believe you should ignore your broker's advice and sell down to your sleeping point, say to the 100-share level.

I like Spartans Industries — as earlier readers of this column know — but there is nothing in this or any other situation that warrants your violating one of the most basic rules of investment — diversification.

There is nothing theoretical about this principle. It simply recognizes the fact that all stocks fluctuate and contain an element of risk — and that this risk should be spread over a number of issues so that trouble for one situation can't mean ruin for you.

I suggest that you sell 400 shares of Spartans and invest the proceeds in such shares as Korvette, American Distilling, Talcott, and Green Shoe — all sound and potentially profitable issues.

Q) "Did I see in your column that a discount could be used to pay Federal income taxes?" — J. F.

A) No, you did not. I said that certain Treasury note issues could be tendered at par in payment of Federal estate taxes, if owned by the decedent at time of death.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Dutchess Legislator Backs 18 Drinking Age

Asserting that New York State has the right minimum age of 18 years for handling liquor, Assemblyman R. Watson Pomeroy (R-Dutchess) has vigorously opposed Connecticut's request to raise the state's minimum drinking age to 21.

Pomeroy defended New York State's handling of liquor law as Connecticut State Police continued a spot check of Connecticut youths crossing the state line to purchase liquor.

Meanwhile, Michael Sorsire, of Sorsire's Terrace Restaurant at Billings, Dutchess County, deplored the State Police check of youths at the Connecticut-New York state line, as a "business barrier" to taverns and restaurants in eastern Dutchess county. Sorsire is secretary of the Dutchess County Hotel Restaurant Liquor Dealers' Association.

"These roadblocks," Sorsire said, "are ruining the restaurant business from Connecticut customers. A roadblock discourages all business."

Pomeroy's weekend comment came in the face of a request from Connecticut legislatures to Governor Rockefeller asking the

New York Legislature to pass a bill increasing the minimum age for legal purchase of liquor to 21.

The Dutchess legislature contended that the older minimum age law encourages more secret drinking which he said "is worse than out-in-the-open controlled drinking."

Pomeroy said that the minimum age of 18 was found to be most satisfactory by colleges, institutions and agencies dealing with social problems of youth. Connecticut is wrong and New York is right on this issue Pomeroy argued.

Unhappy TV Fan

HUNSTANTON, England (AP) — Every time John Fleming's television picture goes haywire, he marches outside with a crowbar and clouts the street light near his front door. He goes on whanging until his wife calls that the picture is all right again.

All attempts to find out what caused the nightly interference had failed, and Fleming kicked the post just to relieve his feelings one day.

"It brought the picture back perfectly for a while," he reported. "Now I always hit it."

JFK Says Demos Are Dedicated To Move Ahead

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, likening the Republican Party to a ship at anchor, says Democrats are dedicated to moving ahead and should "run in a progressive world" in the fall elections.

"The fire from our efforts can light the world," he told a table-thumping crowd of 6,000 Democrats at his inaugural anniversary banquet Saturday night.

Joining other party leaders in attacking the Republicans as too conservative, the President said: "There is no room in the United States for two parties that believe in lying at anchor."

This was akin to the assertion by the Democratic national chairman, John M. Bailey, that "the American people have not gone right with the Republicans; they have gone forward with the Democrats."

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., a spokesman for GOP conservatives was the party's real leader in Congress.

This seemed open to considerable debate. Goldwater's policies have never won acceptance from Republican congressional leaders.

While the Democrats were directing their fire at him, Goldwater was busy having fun at his own expense. At the annual Spoff Dinner of the Alfalfa Club — an organization of government officials, businessmen and others — Goldwater was nominated a mock candidate for president.

Accepting the honor, Goldwater jocularly alluded to criticism his policies are antique: "I feel the White House is ready for me now that Jackie has done it over in 18th century decor."

In a serious vein, Goldwater in a taped radio program Sunday night launched a new attack on administration policy. He said if necessary the United States should abandon the United Nations, break off diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union and use forceful intervention in Cuba.

Expects Congress Will Study Bonds

NEW YORK (AP) — Congress will want to "take a good long look" at United Nations bonds before investing American funds in them, says Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y.

Keating, noting Sunday President Kennedy's announced intention to ask Congress to permit the United States to buy $100 million of the bonds, said:

"If the scheme works, the cost of operating the U.N. to the United States will in the long run be reduced, and we will eventually get back the money, with interest, that we pay for the bonds. If the scheme does not work, then the United States could well be left paying the bill."

Hercules, Here First in Safety Award Program

Hercules Powder Company, Port Ewen passed another accident-free milestone on completion of the working day Sunday with an achievement representing an accumulation of 1,111 days and approximately 3,575,000 man hours since the last tabular loss time injury. The Port Ewen plant is currently in first place in the firms industrial injury safety performance record.

The last time injury, according to D. C. Parker, works manager, occurred January 6, 1959. A total of 31 safety prizes have been on display in the company cafeteria. These will be moved to Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce windows in the Governor Clinton Hotel Tuesday and remain there until January 30 for family viewing.

Those employees eligible will receive an award selection card to make their choice and which must be returned to the safety Department no later than January 31.

W. Shokan Youth Faces Three Traffic Charges

A 17-year-old West Shokan youth, who according to state police was involved in a one-car accident on Route 375 Sunday morning, faces three traffic charges before Woodstock Justice of the Peace Rudolf C. Baumgarten Tuesday at 10 a. m.

Peter Stephen Kraneburg Jr., of Route 28A, at arraignment Sunday, was committed to Ulster County Jail in lieu of $100 bail. He was arrested for reckless driving, leaving the scene and as an unlicensed operator.

According to Troopers John Salters and W. E. Wiedemann, Kraneburg was proceeding south on Route 375 near the intersection of the entrance to Ulster Homes, at an apparent high rate of speed. He failed to negotiate a slight left down-grade and went off the west shoulder into a small culvert.

Continued another 50 feet, knocking down a sign and finally coming to rest in a heavily wooded area, after striking four small trees, troopers said. The mishap occurred at about 1:30 a. m.

Rochester Man Freed at Manila After Long Term

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — William Pomeroy, who spent nine years in a Philippine prison for his part in a Communist rebellion, was back home today — broke and without a job, but ready to try a new life at 45.

"I am no longer a member of any Communist or any other organization and I have no intention of joining any," Pomeroy told a reporter when he got off a plane here Saturday, ending an 8,200-mile trip from Manila's Bilibid Prison.

Pomeroy, with the Army Air Corps in the Pacific Theatre during World War II, returned to the Philippines in 1947. In 1952, he and his Filipino wife, Celia, were sentenced to life imprisonment for their part in the Communist Huk rebellion on the islands.

The short, bespectacled Pomeroy said he spent the next five years in solitary confinement and the remaining four as a prison gardener. Outgoing President Carlos Garcia pardoned Pomeroy and his wife last Christmas. Pomeroy was ordered out of the islands forever.

Pomeroy's wife has been barred from the United States because of her Communist background.

"I'll do everything possible to bring her here," Pomeroy said, "she no longer has anything to do with Communism."

Asked what he was going to do for a job, Pomeroy said: "I'm an optimist. I'd like to do a book and other writing and try to make a living with it. I'll get along somehow."

Two Face Charges

bullet had grazed the left side of his chest. He indicated he would not have given his wife the revolver, if he thought it capable of discharging.

Apparent Knife Wound

After a call to a Canal Street apartment early Sunday, police found William had suffered a stomach wound apparently inflicted by a knife and he was rushed to the Kingston Hospital emergency room.

Two women, Bernice Williams, 31, of Ann Street, and Henrietta Chaffin, 25, of Meadow Street, were questioned and gave statements at police headquarters, but until further investigation and statements from Williams, details are lacking as to how the latter suffered the wound.

Detectives were due to talk to Williams this afternoon at the hospital. Officers Frank Stip and Thomas Kearney were dispatched to the Canal Street house, after reports from other residents there indicated that someone had been hurt.

Action Due

jurisdiction over rent control in that city, effective May 1. The turn-over would eliminate a major political problem for Republicans.

Narcotics Addition — The governor asked the Legislature to approve a plan for providing hospital treatment, instead of jail sentences, for youths convicted of lesser charges of narcotics violations. They would be committed to special wards in state hospitals if they were addicts themselves.

Jobs For Youth — The governor called a meeting for Tuesday of the State Youth Council and the Statewide Advisory Council on Youth and Work, which are working to provide more job openings for teen-agers as a deterrent to delinquency. The governor will review progress with members of both groups.

Giant Snowslide

he looked out of a window and saw only snow and wreckage where the houses had stood.

Lines Are Down

Lindstone said he tried to telephone the sheriff in Leadville, but telephone lines were down. He hailed a passing motorist to notify authorities.

Lindstone said he and a neighbor walked through the snow-covered wreckage until they heard faint cries for help. They started digging.

It was another two and one half hours before the two survivors were found. Mrs. Adamich was pinned beneath heavy timbers across her legs and abdomen. Her husband was found 75 feet away.

The avalanche followed three-day storm that dumped 30 inches of snow.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced moderately today but early gains were cut as trading quieted early this afternoon.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .80 at 255.90 with industrials up 1.30, rails up 1.0 and utilities up .70.

Gains of fractions to a point or so among key stocks outnumbered losers. Most gains were fractional. A number of issues were unchanged or lost fractions.

Boston Edison spurred more than 4 points, then trimmed about a point from the rise in later dealings.

South Puerto Rico sugar was up about a point.

American Machine & Foundry fell 1½, then recovered to show only a fractional loss.

Xerox fell ¾, then trimmed the decline to 3 points or so.

Aerospace stocks were mixed. Lockheed was up around a point and United Aircraft more than that but North American Aviation was off about a point and General Dynamics a fraction.

Avco eased. Litton was fractionally higher and Zenith was off about 2.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.19 at 702.91. Prices were generally higher on the American Stock Exchange.

Highway Mishaps Take Nine Lives; 10 Others Perish

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The number of traffic deaths in New York State rose sharply this weekend over the relatively low tolls of the last two weekends.

A total of nine persons died in motor vehicle accidents between 6 p.m. Friday and Sunday midnight, compared with five last weekend and four the previous week.

In addition, two men — both blind — died in a New York City apartment fire and eight persons lost their lives in various types of accidents, including drowning.

Three of the drowning victims, including Ralph Morocco, 33, of Geneva, were men employed in installing a water-intake system in Seneca Lake for the Finger Lakes State Parks Commission.

The other victims were residents of New Jersey.

Other accidental deaths, by community:

New York — Brown Hilton, 55, and Rosario Epsara, 35, of Baltimore, Md., fire swept Hilton's apartment Friday night.

Wyandanch — Mrs. Mary Manthos, 31, North Massapequa, auto-train collision Friday night.

New York — Charles Smith, 35, New York, a construction worker, crushed by crane Saturday.

New York — William McGee, 59, Bayshore, three-car crash Saturday.

Schenectady — Frank Kostovich, 66, Schenectady, struck by a car Saturday.

East Islip — Susan D. Noble, 17, East Islip, and John Hill, 20, Brookhaven, asphyxiated in an automobile Sunday.

New York — Richard Crosby, 25, New York, struck by a car Sunday.

East Patchogue — Virginia Papandrea, 50, Holbrook, two-car crash Sunday.

Niagara Falls — Mrs. Minerva Bissell, of Niagara Falls, 52, struck by a car Sunday.

New York — Robert Black, 24, Brooklyn, car struck an underpass Sunday.

Court Reverses Beck Conviction In Tax Evasion

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Dave Beck Sr., former president of the Teamsters Union, has won a new trial in his appeal from a federal income tax conviction of evading more than $240,000.

The U.S. court of Appeals reversed the conviction Saturday and remanded the case to District Court. The appeals court, however, upheld Beck's conviction on charges of filing false union returns.

Beck, free on bail in Seattle, Wash., was sentenced to five years in prison and fined $60,000. Jack Obenauer, the assistant U.S. attorney who helped try Beck, said in Seattle if the false returns conviction stands, Beck would still face a five-year term but the fine would be reduced to $20,000.

Beck said he will appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court if he is denied a rehearing on the charge of filing false union returns.

Mormons Conduct Upstate Session

PALMYRA, N.Y. (AP) — The Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-Day Saints has created its 346th stake or self-governing diocese. This one is in Central and Western New York.

The new stake includes the tiny community of Fayette, where the church was organized by Joseph Smith 132 years ago.

Bryant W. Rossiter of Rochester was elected the stake president.

The stake consists of five wards and five branches.

Branches will be located on the Cattaraugus County Indian reservation, as well as in Fulton, Perry, Lockport and Geneva.

Icy Roads Tie Up Traffic; Several Mishaps Reported

Several minor traffic accidents — one involving a station wagon school bus on Lucas Avenue Extension — were attributed to the icy conditions of highways in the outlying areas north and south of Kingston early today.

Kingston state police reported a minor tie up of traffic on Route 209 near Hurley about 8 a. m. today and several minor traffic mishaps. No one was reported injured and normal traffic continued when county highway department sand trucks arrived.

Route 212 between Woodstock and Veteran was reported slippery this morning and the West Saugerties-Blue Mountain Road had a glazy surface about 7 a. m.

Route 9W between Saugerties and Highland was reported wet, but not icy. Route 28 coming west into Kingston was reported in good condition with only a few icy spots.

The State Thruway limited speed to 35 miles-per-hour west from Amsterdam. In some areas where the temperature was below freezing, intermittent rain turned to ice as it hit the highway.

Held on Abuse Charge

Ernest Adelbert Dunham Jr., 30, of Lexington, Greene County, was arrested by state police Sunday and charged with carnal abuse of a minor child. He was committed to Ulster County Jail pending grand jury action, when he appeared before Town of Shandaken Justice of the Peace Edward W. France of Pine Hill.

Area Historical Society Reports on Events of '61

There has been a great deal of activity in the Ulster County Historical Society during the past year. With a membership of approximately 350 members, the Society is once again ready to take its place among the list of active organizations in the state that are accomplishing a number of worthwhile objectives.

An historical society has a number of purposes, but it would seem that the two most important are: That it serve the needs of the area in which it is located and that it provide a source for the initiative and creativity of its membership. In connection with the second purpose it often appears that creativity is stifled by a complete lack of realization that the organization must meet the needs of the present as well as a repository of the past. All too often an historical society takes on the characteristics of a museum. Even museums must keep up-to-date.

In keeping with the general needs of Ulster County, the Historical Society had a diversified program during 1961.

In April Benjamin Karp, State University College at New Paltz gave a most interesting lecture on "Saw Sculpture." During the 19th Century it was the custom for many people to build large houses and made great efforts to make use of fancy wood-carvings.

This method of elaborate trim on houses required skill on the part of the carpenter. It was an art and Karp has been attempting to preserve it photographically.

Holds Anniversary
The Village of Hurley held its 300th anniversary during 1961 and Stephen Waligurski, town historian, gave an interesting talk on the history of the town. The meeting in May was given designation as "Supervisor's Day." The supervisors of our towns in Ulster County are always welcome to meetings of the Ulster County Historical Society, but on one meeting date of the year they are given a special guest invitation.

This is in keeping with the policy of the society that we can best serve the towns of the county if our supervisors are aware of the work of the organization.

In June, Mrs. Keith Smiley of Lake Mohonk gave an instructive talk, highlighted by a group of excellent slides, on the wild flowers that abound in this area.

Mrs. Mary Bogardus, author of Crisis in the Catskills gave a picturesque explanation of the Anti-Rent War in the Catskills.

Miss Helen Lyons, a former resident of Rosendale recounted her memoirs of the Delaware and Hudson Canal and the cement industry as they were at the turn of the century.

Take Field Trip

The annual autumn field trip of the group took them to the Towns of Shawangunk and Marlborough. The Crowells of Wallkill had an excellent exhibit of Civil War items. After lunch at the recreation hall of New Hurley Church, the tour continued to the Civil War Museum of the Planks in Marlboro.

The events of the year for the society culminated in the October dinner and meeting at Governor Clinton Hotel. At this meeting, Malcolm Booth gave a talk on the handicrafts of the people.

At the meeting, Kenneth E. Hasbrouck, of New Paltz, was reelected president for his third year. Edward DeWitt of Kingston was reelected treasurer for a third term.

Miss Grace Elliot of New Paltz replaced Mrs. William Heidgerd of New Paltz as secretary. The vice presidents elected were John P. Remensnyder, Saugerties; Charles G. Ellis, Harry Rigby, and Mrs. Howard A. Lewis, all of Kingston.

Three trustees were elected for three-year-terms: Mrs. William F. Hasbrouck, Kingston; Miss Sarah C. Lounsbury, Stone Ridge and G. V. D. Hutton, Kingston.

The work of Capt. Andrew S. Hickey as chairman of Current History and Historical Committee will be continued for another year.

The Beaver House, headquarters of the Historical Society has been improved greatly during the past year under the leadership of its headquarters planning chairman, Jansen Preston. The house will reopen in May and it is hoped that many people will visit the house to see some interesting furnishings and to view the efforts made to restore the house to its original condition.

The society will in the near future publish the program for 1962.

Rome Will Lose Some of Supply Sections at Base

ROME, N.Y. (AP) — Several supply sections of the Rome Air Material Area (ROAMA) at Griffiss Air Force Base will be transferred later this year to the Air Force depot at Dayton, Ohio.

The move will eliminate 400 jobs here, a base spokesman said Saturday. He said, however, that all employees who declined to transfer to Dayton would be offered work in other departments of ROAMA.

The Air Force said the transfer of the supply functions, expected to take place between July 1 and Oct. 1, was being made under a Defense Department policy to integrate into one agency supply and procurement for all services.

NEW YORK (AP)—The President is taking a very optimistic view of the economy today. His glasses seem much rosier than those of the traders in the stock market.

President Kennedy thinks production, sales, profits, incomes, all are due to rise substantially in the next 18 months. This optimism colored his State of the Union message and formed the basis for his expectation of a small surplus in the budget for fiscal 1963, starting July 1.

Wall Street Hedges

And today the state of the economy—and the government's role in abetting its growth or curbing its excesses—gets still another going over in the President's annual economic report to Congress.

Down in Wall Street, however, you get a lot of hedging on this optimism. Stock prices, as measured by the popular averages, have backed away from their highs of a few weeks ago.

Some say this is because the market fears that the present upturn in business activity hasn't as much stamina as the President thinks. They talk of its running out of steam after steel users stop building up stocks in fear of a strike or price rise. And they talk of a continuing squeeze on profits even if output and sales rise still more.

But others interpret the market slowdown differently. They hold that stock prices already have risen to anticipate all the goodies which the President foresees. This view is that the market was ahead of the President, that prices consequently now are as high as the future earnings on which he bases his 1963 budget estimates would justify.

Only a Siesta Say Some

And, of course, there are the usual nay-sayers. They hold that the market is only taking a siesta. The prospects of greater government spending should stimulate the market anew, in advance of the actual cash outlay pepping up the business of the industries affected by federal programs.

According to budget estimates prosperity is expected to increase corporate profits by $10.5 billion to $56.4 billion this year and to send personal income up some $30 billion to around $448 billion. The Treasury's take from that would turn this fiscal year's $7 billion Treasury deficit into a $500 million surplus in fiscal 1963.

Such a turn around would find the government taking more money out of the economy than it is pumping in—this fiscal year it's putting $7 billion more in than it's taking out. And some fear this switch would hurt any incipient business boom. But it would also act as a brake on inflationary pressures.

Some Wrong Before

It is this interplay of government policy and private industry, trade, profits, income, that the President is assessing in his economic report to Congress today.

And if his estimate of how it will all turn out seems more optimistic than the views which stock traders are backing with their cash or credit—well, "Presidents have been wrong in their estimates before. And a lot of stock traders have guessed wrong, too.

Speed-up Ordered On Projects in Geneva Sector

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller ordered today a speed-up on nearly $5 million in public works projects in the Geneva area.

The total includes $3.9 million at the Newark State School and $900,000 at Willard State Hospital. Additional state funds will be spent on the Seneca Lake and Sampson State Parks.

The governor's office said bids on the work at Newark State School would be received by April 1.

The work will comprise a $1.7-million assembly structure containing an assembly hall and school facilities, a $1.3-million powerhouse and a $900,000 laundry building.

At Willard State Hospital, $900,000 will be spent to rehabilitate the Sunnycroft Building. Bids are scheduled to be opened within two weeks and it is expected work will begin by Feb. 15, the governor's office said.

No details were given in connection with the work in the two parks, except that it would be undertaken in the spring and summer. Details will be contained in the budget Rockefeller will submit to the Legislature Jan. 31.

Rocky Moves to Shift Rent Control to New York City

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller moved today to deprive Democrats of one of their favorite campaign issues — rent control in New York City.

Legislation submitted on behalf of the Republican governor would shift the administration of rent control in the state's largest city from the state government to the city administration May 1. The Legislature is expected to approve the measure.

Rockefeller will seek re-election this year and his plan on rent control has been interpreted as a move to eliminate a potential political danger to the Republican cause.

New York City Democrats have charged repeatedly in campaigns that rent-control laws written by the Republican-controlled Legislature favored landlords.

Republicans have denied the allegation. They have said that the state took jurisdiction over New York City rent controls because of alleged corruption in the city's handling of the program in the immediate post-war years.

But Rockefeller and other Republicans have said privately that Democratic charges concerning rent control have posed severe political problems.

The Rockefeller action will remove rent control as an issue from the election campaign. Mayor Robert F. Wagner, of New York City, a Democrat and potential opponent for Rockefeller this year, has agreed to the shift.

Under the provisions of the administration bill:

1. New York City would have to create a housing-rent agency on or before April 1 of this year.
2. The law creating the city rent agency would eliminate from the state law one of its most controversial provisions. It is the use of current equalization rates as a factor in evaluating property for a determination of whether rent increases were justified. Use of current rates tended to increase the value. The governor recommended a return to the 1954 rates.

3. Rent increases granted under the current - equalization rates formula would be rescinded. The governor said such increases were approved for 173 properties, comprising a total of 1,976 apartments.

This was in apparent conflict with the governor's statement last October, announcing a freeze on increases under the equalization formula, that 50 such rent boosts had been approved.

4. The state would continue to pay costs of administering rent-control laws in New York City, now approximately $4 million a year.

5. No rent increases would be granted between the day the bill was signed into law and the time the city took control.

MVB Has Central Electronic Unit

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The state will save space, time and $238,000 a year, beginning this month, through operation of a centralized electronic system for drivers' records.

The Motor Vehicle Department now is shifting to an office here files that had been divided between New York City and Albany, Commissioner William S. Hults said Saturday.

The department has used 250 cabinets requiring 15,000 square feet of floor space for the records. When the move is completed, the records will be kept in 46 electronic units needing 6,000 square feet. The 46 units can hold up to 12 million records, the number expected by 1970.

She Needs Your Help

Sandra Kay Grisham, five, has juvenile rheumatoid arthritis. Like thousands of other children with the crippling disease, Sandra needed medical aid that now enables her to walk with braces and crutches. Part of this treatment has been financed by the nation's contributions to the New March of Dimes whose parent organization, The National Foundation, has brought arthritis and birth defects under attack while continuing to fight polio. Sandra is being treated by specialists in a March of Dimes-supported Arthritis Clinical Study Center at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School, Dallas.

U.S., Russia Weigh Move To Start Mass Retaliation

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Massive retaliation comes to look more and more like final retaliation while this overheated world torments itself with small, or guerrilla, wars in the hope it can keep them small.

The latest to put his finger on guerrilla fighting as the thing to look for is the Pentagon's No. 2 man, Roswell L. Gilpatric, deputy secretary of defense.

In a TV interview Sunday he said "Communist doctrine is conflict." He foresees a step-up in indirect warfare and guerrilla battles and mentioned the guerrilla fighting in Viet Nam as an example.

Both Have Power

The United States had a monopoly on atomic weapons only four years: from 1945 until 1949 when the Russians achieved their first atomic explosion. They developed their hydrogen bomb in 1953.

Now that both have the power to wipe each other out, neither wants to begin what neither could win. Thus massive retaliation, being a last gasp effort, would be a final retaliation.

In a sense, then, they have paralyzed themselves in the act of achieving their maximum power. It is useful to them therefore only in discouraging each other from any attempt at an all-out sudden victory.

Reds Not Discouraged

But the Communists were never discouraged, even while this country had that four-year atomic monopoly, from attempting to accumulate a series of small victories which, if permitted, would in time become total victory.

In the 1945-49 period communism under Stalin tried its luck in Iran, Greece and Turkey but gave up under the pressure of President Truman's unpredictable toughness.

In 1948 it did take over Czechoslovakia. This was done too suddenly for Truman to stop it. Then Stalin tried the Berlin blockade, an episode which gave some insight into the unwillingness of both sides to blow the lid off.

The West, outnumbered by Soviet ground forces, didn't try to smash through to the city by land. Truman tried the airlift. This gave Stalin a chance to back away from the big war.

Tried Luck in Korea

There would have been one if he tried to shoot down the planes. He didn't and backed off. Then he tried his luck in Korea. This time Truman stopped it with direct action. But he wasn't fighting the Red army there.

When the Red Chinese got in and rolled back the U.N. troops, Truman backed off from the big explosion. He might have smashed them with bombings. He didn't. If he had tried it, and Russia came to China's defense, that would have been it. The result was a stand-off. The Korean war ended where it began: at the 38th parallel.

Was Empty Phrase

It was President Eisenhower's secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, who made a big thing of the phrase massive retaliation. It never became more than a phrase with him, and sometimes a completely empty one.

For example Dulles didn't try anything massive when the Communists defeated the French and took half of Indochina, even though Southeast Asia was important to this country.

Premier Khrushchev, who now has perhaps as much if not more hydrogen torch power as this country, has been careful so far not to push his luck to the point where this country felt it had to use its full strength.

For example: his reluctance up till now to force a showdown on Berlin. But that American strength hasn't deterred communism from pushing where the United States would also be reluctant to go all out.

The guerrilla war in Viet Nam is hardly the kind, even though the country is lost, where the American leadership has shown any inclination to make this the final test with communism.

There is no reason to think there won't be many more such Communist tries in areas which, important as they are, this country might not think important enough to risk mass slaughter on two continents.

YWCA Has Series of Special Programs For Teenagers; Beauty, Posture, Speech

The YWCA is providing special activities for its teenage department. This month, interest groups are superseding the regular club meetings, an innovation proposed by the National YWCA to further its avowed purpose of promoting the fellowship of its members. The combined high school club members selected a charm course as their sphere of interest while the seventh and eighth grade groups chose craft projects.

The charm course is being given in four parts. On January 10, Mrs. Anthony Erena gave a lecture on skin care and hygiene.

At the second Wednesday night session, Mrs. John Gilligan conducted a discussion on the importance of good posture. She endorsed the current slimline exercises as beneficial to carriage and poise.

The fashions popular with modern teens are greatly enhanced by these attributes, she emphasized.

On January 24, Cay Conway will present a program on "Personality in Speech and Voice." She will place emphasis on the art of conversation.

To complete the appearance of a charming personality, clothes must be properly evaluated. Mrs. Helen Davenport will offer guidance on this final phase of the program. She will give suggestions as to the basic wardrobe necessities and the etiquette of good grooming.

The craft projects for the seventh and eighth graders include making ceramic jewelry and mosaic tiles. Instructors for these classes are Mrs. Arthur Lewis on Wednesday mornings and Mrs. Mary Short on Wednesday afternoons.

Activities Listed By Catholic Group To Aid Needy

A public card party sponsored by Court Santa Maria No. 164, Catholic Daughters of America, will be given Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at 14 Henry Street. Homemade refreshments will be served by the committee which includes the Mmes. Lulu Fallon, Ellen Woinoski, Margaret Mitchell, Emma Sangaline and Miss Angeline Aiello.

Members of the Court are requested to donate a gift for the display table and an item of canned goods for the gift basket.

Mrs. Ceil Shoemaker, education chairman, asks that members bring any Catholic magazines, pamphlets or newspapers to 14 Henry Street Thursday evening. During the month of February which is Catholic Press month, these religious magazines will be distributed at the hospitals, nursing homes, and other places.

Miss Laura Albrecht will collect any old jewelry, pocket-books, wash dresses, blouses and canceled stamps. These items will be used in connection with a mental health campaign to aid the patients at Middletown State Hospital. Members are asked to bring all such items to 14 Henry Street on Thursday evening.

Miss Jane Madden has made a request that members donate old sheets which can be used to make hospital pads for the cancer work. In order to continue this worthwhile project there is a great need for many sheets and all donations will be appreciated.

Poetry Discussion Slated on Tuesday

The monthly lesson in American Literature will be given by the Relief Society of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints at the chapel, Fordham Place, Lake Katrine, Tuesday, 7:30 p. m.

At the meeting the poetry of Longfellow will be discussed. All women of the community may attend the cultural discussion.

Meeting for Parents

Parents of the Lake Katrine and Sawkill area who hope to send their children to St. Catherine Labourer's School when it opens next September, are notified now that a meeting for these parents will take place in the parish hall, Sunday, Jan. 28, at 7:30 p. m. This meeting is for the purpose of acquainting parents with the facts as presently known, and with the procedural schedule between now and September.

New Program Is Launched by Junior Group At Benedictine; More Volunteers Needed

Mrs. William Cranston, auxiliary president, welcomed the members to their first business meeting.

Sister Henrietta of the hospital staff, who assigns the duties to the junior volunteers, announced that today, Tuesday, and Thursday at 4-5 p. m. there will be orientation meetings for new members. Young ladies, 14 years or older, are welcome to attend. Meetings are held at the hospital. Sister Henrietta also spoke briefly on the tremendous job the juniors are doing for the hospital.

Edwin Bolz, assistant administrator, asked for volunteers to meet on Thursdays at 3:30 to work on a new project, assembling comfort kits for the patients. About 500 of these will be needed every month. Eight members began this project on Thursday, Jan. 18.

Mrs. Josephine Marabell and Mrs. John Healy, co-chairmen of the group, explained the duties of a junior volunteer in the hospital. They also announced that a record-hop would be planned for April. The next business meeting will be held February 19. St. Patrick Day favors will be made for the hospital trays. Refreshments were served by Mrs. John Healy and Mrs. Josephine Marabell.

A TIP FOR THE BUS DRIVER

Q: Recently our Women's Group chartered a bus for a trip to New York. I was in charge of the arrangements. We arrived in time for lunch. After lunch we went to the theatre and from there went to a very nice restaurant where we had reservations for dinner. We started back about nine o'clock. Shortly before we reached home, I went around and asked the women if they would like to contribute toward a tip for the driver. Most of the women did so readily but a few of them condemned my doing this, saying that he was paid by the company and that a tip was not at all necessary. He was very kind and courteous and I felt he deserved a tip. I would like your opinion on this matter.

A: I agree with you that the driver should have been given a tip for his courteous service.

Q: We are planning to announce our daughter's engagement soon. Her fiancé's parents are going to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary shortly at a large reception. They thought it would be nice to have the engagement announced at this reception. Would this be proper, and if so, how and by whom should the announcement be made?

A: It would be quite all right to announce the engagement at this reception, but the announcement should be made by your husband and not by the man's family. After a toast has been drunk to the anniversary couple, the husband, says thank you and then introduces Mr. Jones (the bride's father) who has an announcement to make. The bride's father then rises and announces the engagement of his daughter to John Brown.

Q: I have noticed that many men allow a woman companion to get off a bus first. Isn't the correct procedure for the man to get off first and then help her off?

A: Correctly he alights first and then turns and offers her his hand.

The Emily Post Institute offers readers booklets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like the booklet entitled "The Bride's Trouseau," send 10 cents in coin, to cover cost of handling, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to The Emily Post Institute, care of The Freeman.

Health for All

TB Ain't What It Used to Be

If someone you love comes down with TB, don't automatically assume he's in for a long period in bed. Although strict bed rest was the heart of TB treatment for many years, drug treatment is now the core with strict bed rest playing an important part only in the beginning.

You can expect your relative or friend to start his treatment in the hospital. Hospitalization until successful treatment is assured is recommended by the committee on therapy of the American Thoracic Society, medical section of the National Tuberculosis Association.

This is so that the patient starts treatment with the best in up-to-date medical, nursing, and (if necessary) surgical advice and at the same time avoids infecting his family or friends. Doctors and nurses can watch him carefully to find out which of the new drugs are best for him and can teach him the best way to carry on his treatment when he gets out.

The hospital is also the best place for him to get accurate information about TB and how to take care of himself. There he can get the professional reassurance he needs about his disease, which is serious but need no longer be the terrifying thing it once was.

Many patients are permitted to go home as soon as their treatment has been established and their germs are under control, especially when the doctor knows the patient will not over-exert himself and will get the treatment he still needs. As a matter of fact, many patients are often encouraged — even while still taking drugs — to return to normal work and recreation as early as possible.

Since having TB just isn't what it used to be, why not have a tuberculin skin test yourself to make sure no TB germs are present? If the test is positive, have a chest X-ray to find out if the germs are doing your lungs any damage.

This column is sponsored in the interest of better health by Ulster County TB and Health Association, 124 Green Street.

Named Acting Dean of Bard College; Will Assume Permanent Post in June This Year

The appointment of Dr. Harold L. Hodgkinson as Acting Dean of Bard College until June 30, 1962, and as Dean of the College effective July 1, 1962, has been announced by Dr. Reamer Kline, president. Dr. Hodgkinson will replace Dean Dorothy Dulles Bourne during her sabbatical next semester, and will succeed her upon her retirement in June.

Dr. Hodgkinson is currently Acting Director of the School of Education of Simmons College, Boston, Massachusetts. A native of St. Louis, he is a graduate of the University of Minnesota, received his master's from Wesleyan and his doctorate from Harvard. He has taught at both Simmons and Harvard, and has published extensively, both in the field of literary criticism (Yeats), and in that of education. His text, "Education and the Social Sciences," is scheduled for early 1962 publication by Prentice-Hall.

Dr. Hodgkinson is married and has two children. His wife is also a University of Minnesota graduate. He expects to take up his new duties at Bard in February. He and his family will live in a house newly purchased by the College, adjacent to the campus on Annandale Road.

Plans are being formulated by the members of the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce Auxiliary for a spring luncheon and fashion show featuring the latest styles in custom made hats and accessories. This was announced at the January meeting of the Jaynees held recently at the home of Mrs. Donald Simek. Mrs. Warren Schoonmaker, president, named Mrs. Peg Carpenter and Mrs. Lois Moore co-chairmen of this event with ticket sales to be handled by Mrs. Emily Lawson and Mrs. Ruth Moore.

In line with their program to assist and benefit area children, the Jaynees have appropriated funds to aid the Revolving Dental Fund of the Fund. This was made possible primarily through the sale of Christmas candles and other money raising projects held throughout the year.

Mrs. Lois Moore, program chairman, announced that Mrs. John Gilligan, a former model, will be the principal speaker at a meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Chester Diffley on Wednesday, Feb. 21 at 8:30 p. m. Plans are also being made to hold the annual dinner meeting at Broglio's on Wednesday, March 21, at 8 p. m.

The Kingston Jaynees are providing cakes for patients in the Ulster County Infirmary who are celebrating birthdays this month. Members helping on this project include the Mmes. Robert Stedje, Donald Simek, James Nerone, John Lawson, James Bishop and Chester Diffley.

In conjunction with "Jaycee Week" which will be celebrated in Kingston beginning January 22 some of the members of the Jaynee Board of Directors will present an original skit entitled "The Jaycee Story" over WKNY on Wednesday, Jan. 24 at 7:30 p. m. It is hoped this skit will provide a clearer understanding of how the Jaynees aid in the civic and educational activities of our community and help to promote mutual understanding among its citizens. Those taking part include Mrs. Gloria Schoonmaker, president, Mrs. Ruth Moore, vice president, Mrs. Nancy Bishop, recording secretary, Mrs. Emily Lawson, director, Mrs. Jean Nerone, treasurer and past presidents Mrs. Pat Stedje and Mrs. Lois Moore.

Any young woman in the area, whose husband is a member of the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce, is invited to join the Jaynees and should contact this year's membership chairman, Mrs. Ruth Moore.

Kingston Man Hurt; Falls Out of Auto

A Kingston man was injured early Sunday when he fell out of the rear door of a moving vehicle on Route 213 near the intersection of Mountain Road, Kingston state police reported.

Kenneth Tyler Jr., 24 of John Street, Kingston suffered abrasions and contusions of the left arm and leg and was treated and released from Benedictine Hospital.

Troopers John Salters and W. E. Wiedemann reported Tyler was a passenger in the 1956 sedan of Howard Ryan, 50 of St. Remy, who was proceeding north of Route 213 at the time of the mishap. Troopers said the Ryan vehicle made a sharp right turn and Tyler fell out of the rear left door into the pavement. The mishap occurred at 3:45 a. m.

Murray of Toronto, and Charles Coon of Boston, Robert Nail and Mervyn Key of Houston, and Lou Mathe of Los Angeles, and Ronald Von der Porten of San Francisco.

They won places on the team by finishing 1-2-3 in a special 16-pair round robin at Houston in November. The 16 competing pairs had previously qualified for this event by finishing first or second in a national open event. This was the first time such a contest had been held and the 16 pairs all agreed it was the finest test of skill ever.

Of course, the pairs that finished fourth to 16th (I finished sixth with Curtis Smith) all felt that with just a slight change they would have made the team, but all agreed that the three successful pairs made the team the best bridge.

Dutchess Opens Substation for Sheriff's Unit

A new substation of the Dutchess County sheriff's department in Pawling, was officially activated at 9 a. m. today by Sheriff Lawrence M. Quinlan, who said the station will be used as a base for patrolling the entire Harlem Valley area.

Quinlan said the new station will operate on a round-the-clock schedule, with a senior officer on duty in charge. The sheriff noted that with the establishment of the new station, patrols no longer will have to use valuable time running back and forth to the Harlem Valley from Poughkeepsie.

The substation is in the former Pawling Grange Hall, near the railroad station. It was purchased by the Town of Pawling for a town hall site. The purchase price was $17,500. Supervisor Kenneth Utter said the Grange will rent space in the building for its meetings.

Miss Glennie M. Wager—Telephone TU 3-7136

MODENA — Chief Eldred Smith, President Gordon Rhodes, and Publicity Chairman Kenneth Dimsey, represented Modena Fire Department at a meeting of Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association Tuesday evening at Esopus Fire House.

Joseph O. Hasbrouck, manager of the J. E. Hasbrouck Co., and his employees James F. Palen, Gordon Rhodes, New Paltz, William DePew, Wallace Palen, New Hurley and Daniel Tucker, Gardiner, are attending the 68th annual convention of the Northeastern Retail Lumbermen's Association, held in New York City.

John C. Elliott, 60, of Newburgh, died Monday of a heart attack. Mr. Elliott was found dead behind the wheel of his car, in his garage in the rear of his residence. Born in Wallington, N. J., he had lived in Newburgh nearly all of his life, belonging to many organizations, and to the Grace Methodist Church. Mr. Elliott's wife was the late Beulah Strickland of Plattkill. He is survived by a daughter, Dolores Elliott, a brother Henry Elliott and two grandsons, all of Newburgh. Funeral services were conducted on Thursday in Newburgh, and burial was in Modena Cemetery.

Mrs. Marie Douglas of New York, visited her home here, last week.

William Reynolds, and the Russell Hedrick family vacated the cottage north of Modena on Route 32, which the Reynolds family have occupied for over 40 years, and moved to the farm house of Harold Lucy, south of Modena.

Mrs. Ronald A. Wager and daughter Darlene were in Newburgh on Tuesday.

Kenneth Dimsey visited relatives in West Park and Esopus Tuesday.

Mrs. Oscar Smith and Miss Marguerite Smith visited Mr. and Mrs. Orville Seymour Tuesday evening.

Fred Hatfield Fowler, 68, of Clintondale, died Tuesday at his home from a heart attack. Mr. Fowler, born in Plattkill, a son of the late Charles and Annie Birdsall Fowler, had lived in Clintondale over a period of years, and was employed by the highway department. Survivors are his wife, the former Agnes Dietz of Fourth Binnewater; five daughters, including Mrs. Irene Coy of Ardonia, and a son Fred A. Fowler of Modena, also several grandchildren. Burial was in the Lloyd Rural Cemetery.

Local members of the Eastern Star Lodge, Highland Chapter, attended the installation ceremonies at the lodge rooms in Highland recently, when more than 70 people attended Mrs. Marjorie Van Aken of this area, was installed as organist.

Members of the Womens Society of Christian Service of the Modena Methodist Church are holding sewing sessions each Monday, from 10:30-a. m. on, to complete a quilting project underway.

Last Monday members served a luncheon to members of the Ramo Ministerial Association, at Hasbrouck Memorial Hall.

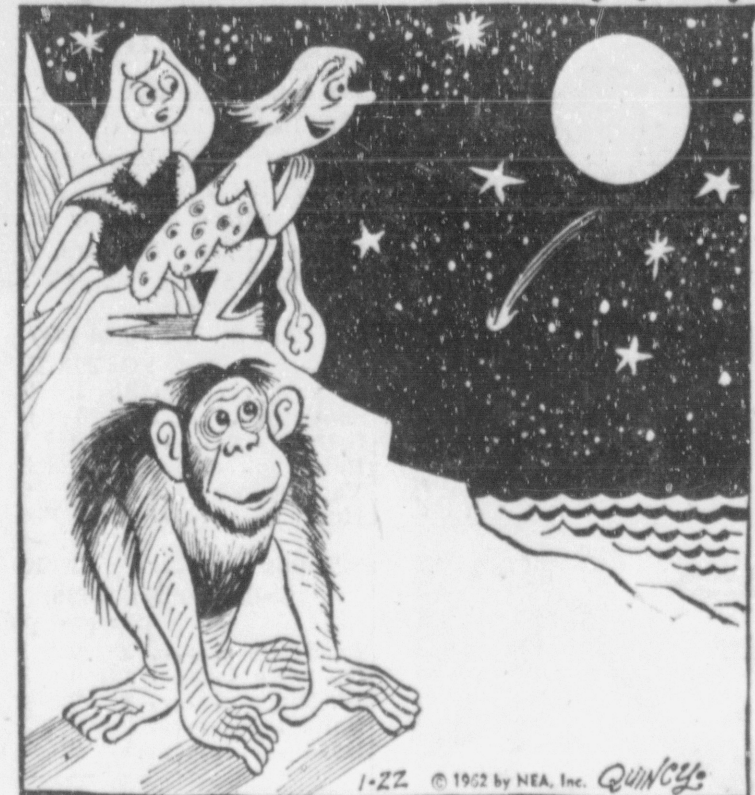

Byron F. Paltridge, of Torrance, Calif., accompanied his sister, Mrs. S. L. Bernard and son, Jon, of Poughkeepsie, to this place on Thursday, where they visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Preston J. Paltridge and their aunt, Miss Glennie M. Wager.

Paltridge who enlisted in the U. S. Navy in Aug. 1940, retired from the service in 1960. He was commended for heroism by Admiral Nimitz, following the Battle of Midway, when a Jap bomber hit the USS Yorktown. Awarded a gold medal and an accompanying citation, Admiral Nimitz said "For heroic conduct and meritorious service in the line of his profession, as a member of the salvage crew which attempted to salvage and return the Yorktown to port."

Knowing full well that the Yorktown was in a precarious condition because of the damage received in the battle of June 6, 1942, that she was barely seaworthy and that she would probably be the target of repeated submarine and air attack against which it would be very difficult to defend her, he requested to be allowed to return to the ship and assist in her salvage."

Paltridge also assisted in the evacuation of natives when the Greek Islands were devastated by earthquakes in July 1953.

He has traveled extensively in foreign countries, and ports, also in America and possessions.

Mrs. Harold W. Wager has resumed employment at the Schatz Federal Bearing Co. in Poughkeepsie, at this time.

Mrs. Margaret Van Duser of Plattkill, acted as substitute teacher for Mrs. Shirley Fowler at the Modena School during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Helms Sr., of Bloomingburgh, announce the engagement of their daughter, Louise, to Kenneth B. Henry, son of Mrs. Hazel Henry and the late George Henry, of Modena.

Miss Helms is a senior at the Middletown High School, and Henry is employed by William Vogt, contractor of Bloomingburgh.

The wedding date was not announced.

Exam Is Slated By State Police

An open competitive examination for candidates for New York State troopers will be held Saturday, Feb. 10 at Poughkeepsie, Albany, Bay Shore, Glens Falls, Binghamton, Buffalo, Elmira, Olean, Plattsburgh, Rochester, Syracuse, Utica, and Watertown.

Salary range is $5,200 to $7,000 annually. In addition, all service clothing and equipment is furnished. Among benefits available to members of the New York State Police are retirement after 25 years service, certain medical surgical and disability benefits, annual physical examination and opportunities for advancement.

All appointments are probationary for a period of one year. Further information may be obtained at any state police station in the area.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

The weather plays a very important part in our lives. The income of many depends mainly on weather conditions. Going back to 1848, item reads: "This year the 'Columbia' and the 'Norwich' each made three trips from New York to Albany, from Jan. 2 to 7, inclusive, on which latter date the weather grew colder, the river was closed again with ice. In February, the 'Columbia' ran to Poughkeepsie from New York a few trips, and to Coeymans also, when the river closed again. From March 10 to 21, she ran to Hudson, and the ice breaking up on March 22, the navigation of the river was resumed."

This is from History of American Steam Navigation by John H. Morrison, which book was given me by Tom Walsh of the Boulevard. William O. Benson, of Slighsburg, a historian on Hudson River lore, said he has one of the first editions of this book.

Our winter has been very fickle this year. We think we are going to have a heavy snow fall, and then comes a rain and washes it all away, which should be good for the taxpayers. Then comes a warm rain, and it freezes up while you are looking at it. I like winter, when it is around 50 degrees outside and about 70 indoors with a little heat. When it goes down to 32 freezing I do not like it and complain. Yet, when I go across the Rondout Creek Bridge, and see the skim of ice. I wonder how I stood the winters, when the ice was a foot thick, and we used to walk across on the ice. There was sleighing on all the hills, that is rare today.

According to Morrison there was a lot of excitement during the price wars on the Hudson. "Runners" were employed running along the piers in the sale of tickets for their special boats. When competing boats lay at the same pier, it was like the taxi-cabs competing for the mountain trade coming off the Daylines at Kingston Point. Remember the expression

"Satchels for the mountains!" The price wars on the boats, Morrison writes about, went on in the late 1840's. One boat line was so intent on getting all the business, that in fighting a competing boat line who was charging twelve and a half cents less, that he paid the passenger that amount to get on his boat. Everyone wanted a crowd. These trips were from New York, the ride was long, the fresh air made them hungry. Finally when it came to food on board or resting or sleeping accommodations then the line charged them plenty. Finally the passengers found out it was better to pay one dollar on a competing line and know exactly what you are paying for. You always pay for a bargain in the end, I guess then and now.

In 1849, in the month of August the opening rate of fare by the opposition, which by then consisted of but only two boats, was 25 cents on the Rip Van Winkle and the Manhattan and on Aug. 20, the fare went up to $1. The People's through-line, opened at 50 cents, but by Aug. 22 went to $1.25 to the end of the month. Some boats let the fare go for 50 cents, and on alternate days for $1.

Governor Asks That Young Addicts Get Hospital Care

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Offer hospital care instead of jail cells to youthful addicts arrested on narcotics charges, Gov. Rockefeller asked the Legislature today.

"This is a humane, practical approach," the governor said in a statement announcing that bills to implement his program had been introduced.

At the same time, Rockefeller renewed his appeal for establishment in New York City of a federal hospital for treatment of narcotics addicts.

The governor also urged intensified action by federal and municipal law-enforcement agencies to combat the drug traffic in the state's largest city, "an area of increasing addiction that is grave cause for concern."

The plea followed by four days a series of raids in which New York City and federal narcotics agents seized an estimated $14-million in raw heroin in a Brooklyn tenement.

Rockefeller said the narcotics traffic was "the most insidious threat to the moral and physical health of young people, beginning, as it can, with a few puffs on marijuana for kicks and ending in the most appalling personal and family tragedy."

The governor said his program, sponsored in the Legislature by Sen. George R. Metcalf, R-Auburn, and Assemblyman Julius Volker, R-Erie, would be limited to persons arrested on less-serious charges involving narcotics.

Hardened criminals and persons selling on a large scale would not be eligible.

But the program would extend, for example, to a youth arrested on charges of possession of narcotics but who intended to take them himself, not sell them to others.

This individual would be given an option of a jail term or treatment in one of three facilities being established in conjunction with the program—special wards at Central Islip, Manhattan and Utica State Hospitals.

The length of confinement would depend upon the degree of success of the treatments. A person who did not respond might be returned to court for action under the original charge.

Other phases of the Rockefeller plan call for establishment of a central narcotics office to direct state programs of research in treatment of addicts and creation of a State Council on Drug Addiction to help draft and administer anti-narcotics programs.

(MOST NEW YORK STATERS ARE)

YOU'RE HAVING A NEW PHONE INSTALLED. We're expecting to put in nearly 300,000 new phones this year—in thousands of new homes, apartments, office buildings and factories being built in our growing state.

YOU'RE DIALING LONG DISTANCE CALLS DIRECT, thanks to expansion of our Direct Distance Dialing equipment. By year's end, you will be able to dial Long Distance from 9 out of 10 phones in the state.

YOU'RE ANSWERING THE DOOR by telephone in the new home you've just built. Home Interphone lets a caller talk to you through a little speaker-microphone. Also lets you talk room to room indoors.

You'll benefit from the $356,000,000 we're spending on construction this year

YOU'RE WORKING IN AN OFFICE with new "Centrex" service. Callers can dial to any extension in your office building without going through your operator. Outgoing calls, too, can be dialed from any extension.

YOU'RE A BUSINESSMAN using electronic machines to process payrolls, inventories or other data. With DATA-PHONE service, your machine can send data to other machines over regular telephone lines.

YOU OR A MEMBER OF YOUR FAMILY may be working on one of about 45,000 jobs created by our $356 million construction program. This big program makes a substantial contribution to New York State's economy.

Sports Talk

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

For the first time in state horse racing history, historic Saratoga Race Track will not be alone during its annual August meeting.

An upstart track in Canandaigua has been assigned dates from May 23 to Sept. 15 and this, of course, means conflict with Saratoga dates of July 30 to Aug. 25.

Historic Saratoga fighting off challenges of the big New York tracks is getting to be old hat. A "Crucial" situation crops up every year or so. Now that a New York Racing Association spokesman has blandly asserted that there never was a law against it, you can look for more trouble for the Spa in future years.

Saratoga has had a colorful background and historical place in American horse racing, but it has been fighting for its existence for many years. In the days of wide open gambling halls, it was one of the nation's breeziest summer rendezvous. All that is gone now and only the legend remains.

And the legend that Saratoga was place unto itself was also rudely shattered by an irreverent Racing Commission figure who said it wasn't true that New York City tracks bowed in deference to Saratoga every year.

He was quoted as saying: "Saratoga is a track with a rich tradition and Belmont and Aqueduct shut down when they do just to get some rest."

They Stay in Print:

The horse people manage to keep their message before the gullible public on a year-round basis. Recent controversy over extension of racing dates clearly indicated that Roosevelt and Yonkers couldn't care less about the fate of Monticello Raceway. It took some strong rebuttal by Monticello's Frank Devlin to keep Roosevelt and Yonkers from throwing up competition against the Mighty M in key periods of the summer vacation season.

The Monticello people, meanwhile, keep moving toward loftier heights. They can point with pride to its greatest season ever during 1961 and 1962 promises a more abundant return to the stockholders.

For the fourth straight season, wagering and attendance figures toppled in almost every department. And on the racing end more speed records were shattered than ever before at the Sullivan County track which opened its gates in 1958. In some instances, figures doubled over the inaugural meeting. For example, betting soared to $27,852,286 as compared to $12,409,332 the first season.

Racing continued to be better and the $2 guy got a better run for his money. One of the features of 1961 was the debut of The Grand Circuit, a real status symbol, at Monticello during July. Some of the best 2 and 3 year old horses went to the post in stake events like the Goldsmith Maid Trot, Excelsior Counterpart Trot and the Green Mountain Pace, to name a few.

Many Records:

Records were smashed almost nightly during the Grand Circuit week which was culminated by Tar Boy's blistering 1:59.4 mile on closing night. The hard hitting 6-year-old whipped the likes of Mr. Budlong, Caduceus, O'Brien Hanover and Sampson Direct in track record time.

The Free-for-All trotters were spotlighted in an August event. The mighty Su Mac Lad did what a record crowd of 12,875 came to see him do — smash the track record for trotters. Stanley Dancer was aboard as the all-time great gelding carved out a 2:01.4 mile. The sport's greatest horse — Adios Butler — started the track's last month of racing in great style by touring the course in 1:59.2 in a time trial before a daytime crowd. Paige West drove while regular reinsman Eddie Cobb handled the prompter. These were the big highlights but there were other thrills.

Monticello established three new records: top crowd, one night, 12,875 on Aug. 12; top handle, one night, $576,233 on July 22; and top opening night attendance, 6,597, 1961.

Saratoga fades while Monticello blooms. The horse racing business is in wonderful condition. So long as man's gambling instincts endure — and they have for more than 2,000 years — the survival of horse racing is insured.

Myron J. Michael Wins Over Arlington, 44-25

Leading all the way, Myron J. Michael cagers won their second game in as many starts, 44-25, over the Arlington Junior High team Saturday at the local school.

Dan Heppner scored 14 points and Richie VanDyke had 10 and complete control of the backboards for the winners. The visitors used a zone defense which game Coach Ron Cole's boys trouble until the final period.

The MJM seventh graders also won, 39-22, with Charlie Lay getting 16 points. This one was 37-7 until the final period when the visitors spurted.

Approve All-Star U.S. Canadian Game

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A proposed international all-star game between players of the Canadian and American football leagues has won the approval of two club heads.

The game was suggested by K.S. (Bud) Adams, owner of the Houston Oilers of the American Football League.

In Montreal, M.E. (Ted) Workman, president of the Montreal Alouettes, said Sunday he was in favor of the proposed game and believed it could lead eventually to a playoff for an international championship.

Workman gave his approval of Adams' proposal that part of the revenue go into the players pension funds.

"In Canada we have been at a disadvantage because of the weather," he said. "We don't have time for extra post-season games that provide a source for a decent pension plan."

The Canadian league winds up its regular season in November.

They're not only failing to beat Ray's Tackle Shop but nobody is even coming close. It was the same old story in the YMCA league Saturday as the powerful cagers of Ward Dunham wall-o-ped Delaney, 99-26, in a lopsided contest.

In the other tilt, Hayes Lincoln-Mercury came on like Citation at the finish and finally nipped Newkirk, 53-52, in an overtime thriller.

Six players were in double figures for the Tackle Shop, which is as sure of a win as the U. S. Mint is of having money. Big Harry Pratt led the way with 21 markers but he had able assistance from Leo Armstead, Chick Boice, Roy Havens, Joe Klonowski and Ronnie Scheffel. The winners had a very safe 41-13 lead at the half.

The other game was a direct contrast. Newkirk had an apparent safe lead, 41-32, starting the final period. Then Hayes rimmed 10 straight points and the clubs fought neck and neck from there. It was 50-50 at the end of regulation time and the winners won it in overtime.

Tommy Fiore had 20 points and Jim Amato tallied 10 to pace Hayes. Joe Tremper was the best for Newkirk with 18 markers. Amato had the three points in the overtime period for Hayes.

Aaron Mathews Ink Pacts
By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Milwaukee's 1-2 power punch for almost a decade, Hank Aaron and Eddie Mathews, have signed their contracts, joining a determined band of Braves itching to get the 1962 baseball campaign underway.

Apparently stung by last year's fourth-place finish, the Braves have been rushing to the front office and inking contracts in rapid succession. The Aaron-Mathews signing Saturday concluded a productive week for the Braves' brass.

Earlier last week, Warren Spahn, baseball's highest paid pitcher, and Del Crandall, No. 1 catcher in the National League until he developed a sore arm last season, came to terms. The Braves now have 18 satisfied signees.

The signing of Aaron and Mathews cost the Braves more than $100,000 but President John McHale wouldn't be pinned down on whether one or both received raises. Their salaries are reportedly between $55,000 and $60,000.

McHale said he didn't know of "any two sluggers who have been as devastating over the years as these two."

Aaron and Mathews, who have formed the Braves' power trust since Aaron joined the club in 1954, did everything possible to lift the club last year. Aaron hit .327 with 34 homers and 121 runs batted in and Mathews batted .306 with 32 homers and 91 RBIs.

The world champion New York Yankees came up with a tie name as ace reliever Luis Arroyo received a "substantial raise" to about $17,000. The 33-year-old was rewarded for his yeoman work in the 1961 campaign when he appeared in 65 games and compiled a 15-5 record.

Ray's, Adolph's Score Easy Wins in Rec Basketball Loop

Easy victories were registered by Ray's Tackle Shop and Adolph's Tavern of Red Hook in the Recreation Basketball league Sunday night at the Municipal Auditorium.

The Tackle Shop smothered Trailway Cafeteria, 85-37, and Adolph's swamped Hub Delicatessen, 69-25, in the other contests. The games were simply routs for the winning clubs.

Balance was the keynote in the Tackle Shop attack as five players were in double figures. Joe Klonowski led the way with 20 points while Chick Boice had 18, Ronnie Scheffel 15, Leo Armstead 13 and Bob Bondar 12. Bill DuBois and John Kelly rimmed 10 each for the losers.

Ray's had a comfortable quarter leads of 16-4, 34-21 and 56-29.

Eleven players saw action for the Red Hook squad and every one of them dented the scoring column. Bob Moul and Don Conn had 14 markers each and Ronnie Miller had 12. Al Short's 17 paced the Delicatessen.

Quarter scores in this one were 20-5, 31-7, 53-15. The losers managed to make only 10 baskets and Short had seven of them.

Freezing Rain Slicks Roads in Some State Areas

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Freezing rain and drizzle slicked roads to day in New York State, and numerous schools were closed.

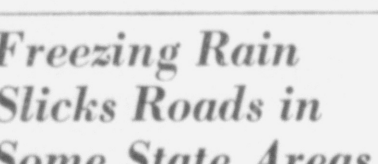

The Weather Bureau said that the downfall would taper off to snow flurries tonight and that flurries or snow would dot sections Tuesday amid temperatures in the 20s and 30s.

The schools closed were primarily in central and northern New York.

Loses Hat, Life

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A hat cost Percy Fisher his life Sunday.

Fisher was riding in a car when it crossed a bridge over a creek. The wind blew his hat into the creek. Fisher went in to retrieve the hat and drowned.

Weather Picture Up to Saturday

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Extended forecasts, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau, for the period from 7 p.m. today to 7 p.m. Saturday.

Eastern New York—Seasonably cold most of the week with no extremes indicated. Temperatures averaging around normal levels. The next general precipitation period is expected toward the end of the week, with daily snow flurries over the mountain terrain.

Western New York—Temperatures will average near normal. Colder Tuesday and Wednesday. Warmer Thursday then colder last of the week. Precipitation will average ¼ to locally ½ of an inch, melted, in occasional periods of snow or snow flurries.

Temperature Normals—Normal temperatures range from daytime highs of 25-33 to nighttime lows of 5-10 north and 10-18 south.

Says Boss Rule Ends

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Rep. Samuel Stratton, who may be the next Democratic candidate for governor, says the day of the political bosses has passed in New York State.

The trouble is, added the Schenectady congressman Saturday, there are some people "who haven't found this out yet."

Stratton didn't mention any names in his speech before a Chamber of Commerce dinner.

The congressman, along with Mayor Wagner of New York City, has called for the resignation of State Democratic Chairman Michael Prendergast.

Francello and Paul Arndt, Woodstock portrait artist who restored the painting. The occasion was an open house held at the new law offices of Francello and Brinnier in the renovated John A. Snyder residence, 34 West Bridge Street. (Freeman photo)

JAYCEE WEEK DECLARED—Supervisor Peter Williams, center, signs proclamation declaring Jan. 21 to 27 as Jaycees Week. Looking on are Richard Cyr, internal vice president of Saugerties Junior Chamber of Commerce and John Fitzpatrick, chairman of Jaycee Week. The local chapter which was chartered in 1956 with 38 members now has a membership of 60. Projects conducted by members during the year include: July 4 celebration, repair to Finger Street Home and Boy Scout cabins, promotion of community college, Christmas decoration contest, Easter Egg hunt, outstanding citizen award and other civic and youth projects. Any man 21 to 35 years of age interested in joining may contact any local member or Joseph DeDomenico, president. Jaycees meet 8 p. m. very third Monday of the month at the Stonewall Hotel.

Plans Finalized For Man of Year Fete on Jan. 24

This is the last opportunity the Jaycees will have to invite the people of Saugerties to the banquet honoring the Man of the Year.

Donald S. Fellows, this year's recipient of the award, received recognition for his quiet but long-standing role in community affairs. During the past two decades, he has been the editor of the Catskill Mountain Star, a weekly newspaper which has remained candidly informative without ever resorting to sensationalism. He has also made it possible for local people to appreciate fine choral music in their own area, both on a spiritual and cultural level.

The testimonial dinner for Fellows will be held at the Flamingo Restaurant Wednesday, 7 p. m. Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson will be the guest speaker.

The Jaycee committee consisting of chairman Michael Catalinotto assisted by R. J. Messina and Floyd Perkins announced that the project was greeted with much interest and enthusiasm. Each ensuing year has brought a greater number of applications for the award. This year's nominations were also unusually well prepared and brought to light the surprising amount of effort poured into the community by its more active men.

As a result of the increased interest, the committee will recommend that this become an annual Jaycee project in Saugerties.

Korean War Vets Sign Petition For Bonus Plan

Over 40 Korean war veterans, together with many Legionnaires, were in attendance at the January meeting of Lamoree-Hackett Post No. 72, American Legion, of Saugerties, Thursday evening to hear about the American Legion Korean Bonus Program in New York State and to sign a Korean bonus petition.

Special speakers for the program were Saugerties Town Supervisor Peter Williams, Legion Post service officer and Saugerties Legionnaire and former County Commander Jack Lowther. Williams told the Korean veterans of the American Legion work in behalf of all veterans and their widows and dependents and of the constant fight to keep government in sup-

Over 100 Attend Open House Fete At Law Offices

Louis P. Francello and William D. Brinnier III, attorneys-at-law, were hosts on Saturday afternoon to hundreds of well-wishers at an open house in their new law offices in the renovated former John A. Snyder residence, 34 West Bridge Street.

One of the highlights of the opening was the presentation of a portrait of Miss Emma Maxwell at the age of 16 and her brother William which was painted in Philadelphia in the year of 1864 by an unknown artist and restored by the noted portrait artist, Paul Arndt of Woodstock. The restoration was completed after four months of exacting artistry by Arndt, who recently created a portrait of the former Court of Appeals Judge John T. Loughran which now hangs in the Ulster County Court House.

Miss Maxwell, who later married Samuel Adams of Saugerties, was the mother of the late Mrs. John A. Snyder and of Mrs. Elizabeth Davis of this village, the grandmother of Mrs. Fabian Russell and Mrs. Robert A. Snyder, and the mother-in-law of Mrs. Carry Adams, all of Saugerties.

An inspection of the portrait shows a startling family resemblance between Mrs. Adams and her great-granddaughter, Mrs. William Brinnier, the former Sally A. Russell. Mrs. Adams, who died in 1916, was also the great-grandmother of Robert S. Russell of Saugerties.

port of disabled veterans. Lowther gave a history of the American Legion and the local Post from its start in 1919. Legion Commander Roy Helmsmoortel welcomed the Korean veterans on behalf of Lamoree-Hackett Post and urged them to join the Legion and help the local Post with its youth activities, civil defense work and other activities of the community.

Following the meeting a petition was signed and forwarded to the American Legion, Department of New York, for formal presentation to the State Legislature on behalf of all Korean veterans later this year.

A roast beef dinner was served by the Legion kitchen police crew under the direction of Mickey McCormick.

Youth Council To Be Run by Teenage Group

The Saugerties Youth Council which has been an adult group who sponsored and supervised programs for the young people of the area had a reorganization meeting Saturday night with the result that the young people will now take over and plan their own activities with the adults assuming an advisory position on the council.

Richard Benjamin presided at the meeting which included the election of the following officers: Donald Kaminski, president; Vernon Benjamin, vice president and Glen Myer, Secretary-treasurer.

Members elected to the board of directors were Jeff Zindell, John Mullane, Raymond Penney, John Frelich, Joe O'Neal, Raymond Newkirk, John Morgan, Ronald May and Gary McKenney.

Three girls will be nominated and elected to the board at next Saturday night's meeting following the basketball game.

Current activities of the council is the sponsoring of basketball games every Saturday beginning at 6:30 p. m. followed by dancing until 11 p. m. The games are scheduled through March 31, with an additional game and dance set for Wednesday Feb. 21, the night before a school holiday.

The council also sponsors the ice skating rink opposite the Main Street school. Future plans call for a girls' basketball team, volleyball, soft ball and swimming teams, plus a few dances and song tests. Although some 200 teenagers attend the programs, there is an urgent need for more adults to chaperone the events.

Biddy League Game To Aid Dimes March

A Biddy League basketball game for the benefit of the New March of Dimes will be played Wednesday 7 p. m., in the Municipal Auditorium, between the Pistons and the Lakers. No admission will be charged but donations may be made to the campaign, currently being carried on by the American Legion Auxiliary.

Rodney Lemon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Lemon of Blue Mountain, the Saugerties Poster Boy for 1962, and Miss Sara Inhoff, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Frederick Inhoff, the Girls State representative of 1961 for the auxiliary, will be present to aid in the evenings program.

Saugerties Man Faces Leaving Scene Charge

A Saugerties man reportedly involved in a collision with the rear of a taxi Sunday night was charged with leaving the scene of an accident and must appear before Saugerties Village Police Justice G. Thomas Rea Jr. at 6 o'clock tonight, village police reported.

Patrolman Edward Sweeney reported that Thomas D. Nagel, 36 of 396 Main Street, Saugerties was arrested following the accident when his 1959 white station wagon was discovered on lower Montgomery Street and unable to move due to extensive damage to its front end.

According to village police, George W. Fisher, operator of Bud's Taxi reported to Patrolman Sweeney that a white station wagon rammed into the rear of one of his taxicabs parked in front of his taxi station on Partition Street. The station wagon backed up and left the scene down Montgomery Street, Fisher told police. No one was reported injured. The mishap occurred at 10:20 p. m.

Business Group Will Discuss '62 Program

Committee reports will be submitted and the purchase of a new parking lot will be discussed at the annual meeting of the Central Businessmen's Association to be held Tuesday at 8 p. m. at the Midtown Restaurant, Broadway and Downs Street.

All merchants, retailers, businessmen and other interested persons are urged to attend. Plans for the ensuing year will be formulated.

Restaurant Unit Fights Beer Sale At Cornell Univ.

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—The continued sale of beer and an application for the sale of liquor in the student union building at Cornell University was under the fire today of the Tompkins County Hotel & Restaurant Association.

"The granting of any new license or extension of a beer license will make it even more difficult for these places already licensed to continue operation," the association said Saturday in a letter of protest to Gov. Rockefeller, a trustee of Cornell.

The university has applied for an extension of a beer license it has held for many years for Willard Straight Hall. Cornell also seeks a license to serve cocktails, wines and liquors at meals in a dining room in the hall. There would be no bar service, the university said in its petition.
